Introduction

Note: This introduction to Info Source is in large print to assist persons with visual disabilities.

About Info Source

Info Source: Sources of Federal Government Information will make it fast and easy for you to find out about the Government of Canada, its organization and its information holdings. It will help you determine where you should go, write or call to make government enquiries, and is likely to be the first and only step you'll need to take to locate the source of the information you want.

This book is also the key to learning how to exercise your rights under two Canadian laws - the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. This Introduction tells you what you need to know to request information under those legislations.

First, however, it is helpful for you to understand the basic differences between the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. The information contained under each Act is different and there are different procedures to obtain it. The following pages describe the essential details.

Info Source combines and replaces the Access Register and the Index to Personal Information, two publications you might have seen or used before.

The annual edition of Info Source is complemented by bulletins, including the Directory of Federal Government Enquiry Points.

Inside Info Source

This Info Source book has three main components:

Table of Contents

The Table of Contents is organized alphabetically by the commonly used name of the department or agency, such as Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada or Health Canada, rather than by their legal titles, Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food or Department of Health.

Introduction

The Introduction includes:

- information about the terms used throughout the book, some essential points about the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and directions on how to locate information by using Info Source or by making a formal request under either Act;
- a listing of Access to Information and Privacy Coordinators, which is organized in the same order as the Table of Contents, gives you the address and telephone number of all Access to Information and Privacy offices; and
- the description of the Standard Program Records — see definition under "Useful Terms" below.

Chapters

There is one chapter for each federal government department or agency subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, or to the Privacy Act only.

Except for the institutions subject to the Privacy Act only, each chapter contains:

General Information about the institution, including:

- Background
- Responsibilities
- Legislation
- Organization

Information Holdings including:

- Program Records
- Standard Program Records
- Personal Information Banks
- Classes of Personal Information
- Manuals

Additional Information including:

- Address of a central information source, as well as regional addresses, if any
- Reading Room(s)

Useful terms

Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator Each federal government department or agency has an Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator. The Coordinators' offices are staffed by people who can answer questions and help you identify the records you wish to see. The Coordinators may be contacted in person, by telephone or by letter. If you send a letter, include as much information as you can to help the staff locate the records you want and send you a reply as soon as possible.

Bank Number (See "Program Record Number or Bank Number" below.)

Classes of Personal Information Other personal information not used administratively or not retrievable by personal identifier, for instance unsolicited opinions, complaints or correspondence, is described under "Classes of Personal Information". This category was included to ensure that government departments and agencies account for all personal information which they hold.

Manuals The manuals listed under this title contain the directives, instructions, guidelines or procedures which are used by the employees of a department or agency to carry out its operations, activities or programs.

Personal Information Banks Personal Information Banks provide a summary of the type of information about individuals which is held by federal departments and agencies. The Privacy Act requires that Personal Information Banks include all personal information that is organized and retrievable by a person's name or by an identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned only to that person. Personal Information Banks must also include personal information which has been or is being used, or is available for use for an administrative purpose.

Personal Information Banks - Federal Employees The Personal Information Banks for Government of Canada employees are now described in a separate publication, Info Source: Sources of Federal Employee Information. This book is available in the office of the Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator at each federal government department or agency, federal government personnel offices and federal libraries.

Program Records The Program Records provide pointers to program information held by each federal government department or agency and describe the subject areas covered by these programs.

Program Record Number or Bank Number The Program Record Number or Bank Number you see at the end of each Program Record or Personal Information Bank helps the Access to Information and Privacy office to locate the information you require.

Reading Room The Access to Information Act requires all government institutions to provide facilities where their manuals can be inspected. The location of one or more reading rooms is provided under this heading.

Standard Program Records Many departments and agencies use Standard Program Records to list information on administrative subject areas which are common to many institutions, for example Accounts and Accounting, Budgets, Buildings, etc.

Access to Information Act

The Access to Information Act gives Canadian citizens as well as people and corporations present in Canada the right to have access to federal government records that are not of a personal nature. The Act complements but does not replace other procedures for obtaining government information. It is not intended to limit in any way the access to government information that is normally available to the public upon request.

Wide range of information You can ask for information, no matter what form it is in, including letters, memos, reports, photographs, films, microfilms and computerized data. This Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assists you in obtaining it.

Using the Access to Information Act

Some information may be exempt or excluded under the Act.

- Exemptions: Exemptions protect certain types of information that could cause harm if released. For example, some information on national security, law enforcement or trade secrets falls into this category.
- Exclusions: The Access to Information Act does not apply to public information that is already available, such as publications and material in libraries and museums. It also excludes material such as Cabinet documents.

- Note: Of course, the Act cannot give you access to records that are not controlled by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus. Most provincial governments each have legislation similar to the Access to Information Act. Consult the provincial government listings in the blue pages of your local teleph0one book.

How to apply

Once you have decided to make a formal request under the Access to Information Act, there are certain simple procedures to follow:

- Consult Info Source to find the appropriate department or agency.
- Obtain an Access to Information Request Form from any location where Info Source is available (including the Internet - http://www.tbs-sct.gc.ca/gos-sog/infosource/Info_6/Request-Frms_e.html).
- If it is not convenient for you to fill in a form, you may send a letter, mentioning the Act (see details below).
- Enclose the application fee (see details below).
- Send the form or the letter to the Access to Information Coordinator at the appropriate department or agency.

If you decide to submit a letter, you must state clearly that you are requesting information under the Access to Information Act, and include the following:

- name of the government department or agency you believe has the information you want;
- description (be as specific as possible) of the records you want to see;
- preferred method of seeing the records (e.g. do you want to receive photocopies of the original documents or see the originals in the government office where they are located?);

- your name, street, address, city or town, province or territory, postal code, telephone number(s) and your signature;
- date of your request;
- application fee.

Fees and costs An application fee of $5 (subject to change) applies and additional costs may be charged for each request. You will be notified in advance if there are additional costs and you may be asked to make a deposit. Cheques and money orders are payable to the Receiver General of Canada (unless otherwise stated).

Turnaround time Government departments must acknowledge your request within 30 days under the Access to Information Act. However, in special cases, they may need more time to process your request. If you feel it's taking too long, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

Information Commissioner

The Information Commissioner investigates formal complaints from members of the public arising from the Access to Information Act. If you have a complaint about the denial of access to information, fees charged for access, the time taken to respond to requests, refusal to give access in the official language requested, Info Source publications and other matters that relate to requesting or obtaining access to records, you may contact:

When the Information Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all information which they are entitled to receive has the right to apply to the Federal Court - Trial Division for a review of the matter.

Privacy Act

In its day-to-day operations, federal government departments and agencies collect personal information from almost all Canadians. The Privacy Act gives Canadian citizens and people present in Canada the right to have access to information that is held about them by the federal government. It also protects against unauthorized disclosure of that personal information. In addition, it strictly controls how the government will collect, use, store, disclose and dispose of any personal information.

Most information available when you ask Because much of your personal information is available to you informally at your request, this Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assist you in obtaining it.

Types of personal information held You probably already know about many of the programs and operations of the government that use personal information such as income tax at Revenue Canada, citizenship at Citizenship and Immigration Canada and the Employment Insurance program at Human Resources Development Canada.

Note The Privacy Act does not control nor give you access to records that are not held by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus. Most provincial governments have legislation similar to the Privacy Act. Consult the provincial government listings in the blue pages of your local telephone book.

Some personal information is confidential The federal government must keep some personal information confidential under the Privacy Act, much of which relates to other people, national security or law enforcement.

How to apply

When you have decided to make a formal request under the Privacy Act, there are certain procedures to follow. Remember, you will find what you are looking for faster if you already have a good idea of which department or agency has the information you want.

- Obtain a Personal Information Request Form at any location where Info Source is available (including the Internet - http://www.tbs-sct.gc.ca/gos-sog/infosource/Info_6/Request-Frms_e.html).
- Fill out the form and identify yourself in such a way that the government can verify who you are, i.e. that it is you, and not someone else, asking for your information. The more precise the information you provide, the faster your request can be answered.
- Send the form to the Privacy Coordinator of the appropriate department or agency.
- There is no charge to apply for information under the Privacy Act.

To change the information If you believe the information which a federal institution has on file about you is untrue or misleading, you can ask to have it corrected. Even if the department or agency does not agree to change this information, it must make a note that you have asked for the change and attach it to the file.

Safeguarding personal information The protection of your personal information and privacy is also a very important purpose of the Privacy Act. The Act states how and when the government can collect, store and dispose of personal information. It also covers specifically why and how the information can be used or given out, as well as who can use or receive it.

Giving out information The government can only disclose your information to someone else with your consent or when one or more of the criteria in the Privacy Act are met, such as to comply with a subpoena.

Turnaround time Under the law, all or most of the information you ask for should be disclosed within 30 days of receiving the request. If a time extension is required, you will be notified within the first 30 days and told why up to another 30 days may be needed.

Privacy Commissioner

The Privacy Commissioner is a representative of the people with the power to look into complaints of improper collection, use, storage, disclosure or disposal of personal information. The Privacy Commissioner can also help if you are dissatisfied with the results of your formal application or the time it has taken to see your personal information.

When the Privacy Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all of their personal information which they are entitled has the right to apply to the Federal Court - Trial Division for a review of the matter.

You can write or call the Privacy Commissioner's office at:

Using Info Source quickly and effectively

Determine the correct chapter Turn to the chapter of the department or agency you think has the information, and check the Program Records and the Personal Information Banks.

If you are unsure about the correct department or agency, a telephone call or letter to any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office should provide the answer.

For persons with disabilities Individuals who are unable to exercise their rights using regular procedures may obtain further assistance from any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada
Chapter 1

General Information

Background

The Department of Agriculture was established in 1867, the year of Confederation, by an act of Parliament. The formation of the Experimental Farms System followed in 1886 and a Dairy Commissioner was appointed in 1890. The aim of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada today is to develop and assist the Canadian agriculture and food system to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers and export markets in a manner which ensures a dependable supply of safe, nutritious food at reasonable prices; to ensure equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers; and to meet Canadian food and technological aid commitments to international development. The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food, the Department and portfolio agencies administer 35 acts concerning food and agriculture industries. The activities of the Department extend from the farmer to the consumer, through all phases of production, processing and marketing of agriculture and agri-food food products. The Department also assists farmers through crop insurance, price stabilization and agricultural adjustment programs to alleviate losses caused by the weather, changing markets and other hazards. While the collection and use of personal information are necessary for the performance of most activities, they are especially important for the following activities: research; regulation and licensing of imports and exports of livestock and plant products; control and eradication of animal and plant diseases; and administration of various loan and assistance programs.

Responsibilities

The mandate of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada is to promote the growth, stability and competitiveness of the agri-food sector through policies, programs and services most appropriately provided by the federal government to assist the sector to maximize its contribution to the Canadian economy. The Department's responsibilities embrace most aspects of the agricultural industry. It carries out research into the physical and economic problems of agriculture; assists with market and export development; and carries out programs aimed at environmentally sustainable resource use. The Department enforces laws governing the sales of feed, fertilizers and pesticides; and assists farmers through measures such as crop insurance. It also supervises racetrack betting.

Organization

Canadian Grain Commission

The Canadian Grain Commission administers the provisions of the Canada Grain Act and the Grain Futures Act. In the interests of producers, it must establish and maintain standards of quality for Canadian grain and regulate grain handling in Canada to ensure a dependable commodity for domestic and export markets. In addition, the Commission supervises trading on the Winnipeg Commodity Exchange.

Communications Branch

The primary purpose of this branch is to ensure communication of the department`s policies and programs, promote public understanding of AAFC`s initiatives and policies; and raise awareness of the sector`s importance to Canadian society.

Corporate Services Branch

This Branch is involved with many facets of the "business of the business". It is responsible for developing and maintaining programs, policies, practices and a strategic vision that supports good decision making within the Department and across the three Core Business Lines. The key roles of Corporate Services Branch include comptrollership policies and practices, strategic planning, knowledge product platforms and standards development, provision of technical support and the operation of the departmental planning cycle. To deliver these support roles the Branch is organized in four functional areas: 1) Strategic Business Planning 2) Finance and Resource Management 3) Information Management; and 4) Assets Management and Capital Planning. Through a relationship with the Canadian Pari-Mutuel Agency, this Branch also has a responsibility to protect the wagering public at race tracks, and assist in maintaining a viable racing industry in Canada.

Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the correspondence, briefing and activity scheduling systems for the Minister and the Deputy Minister, for tracking and reporting on major current issues of concern to the Department, for Parliamentary Relations, and for providing secretariat services to the Departmental Management Committee and the Heads Up executive Committee of the Department.

Market and Industry Services Branch

The mandate of the Market and Industry Services Branch is to work with the agri-food sector to enhance its global competitiveness and in so doing, increase the sector's share of both domestic and international markets for agriculture and agri-food products. The Branch priorities are implemented by responsibility centres located in Ottawa (7) and 7 regional offices.The International Trade Policy Directorate's role is to improve and secure markets for agri-food products, improve trade rules and work towards reducing unfair competition in domestic and foreign markets. The Agricultural Industry Services Directorate provides services and coordination to enable Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada to meet clients' needs related to market access, marketing programs, market information and intelligence, export market development, market readiness and sector competitiveness. The role of the International Markets Bureau is to assist Canadian agriculture and agri-food industries to expand their exports, and to develop and implement a range of programs and services for the industry with emphasis on the provision of advice, information and programs related to international market development. The Food Bureau's role is to assist Canadian food processors to increase domestic and international sales and to ensure that food industry interests are understood and fully considered in all federal policy, program and regulatory decisions which have a major impact on the industry. The Strategic Planning and Regional Operations Directorate Headquarters coordinates Branch strategic planning and corporate support activities. The Regional Offices (Atlantic, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the Territories, British Columbia) provide "single window" access for regional clients and stakeholders to all of the programs and services of the Branch and work with clients and stakeholders to help the agri-food industry achieve its goals. The Management Services Division provides support and advice related to operational planning, resource management, human resources training and development, information systems and general administration.

Policy Branch

Policy Branch is the department`s main focus for policy and program leadership. It creates linkages across policy files and the department. The Branch`s mandate is to create and maintain a policy environment which enhances the agriculture and agri-food sector`s economic viability and self-reliance and promotes the economic development of rural communities; and to develop and deliver income stabilization and adaptation programs consistent with these goals, such as the Net Income Stabilization Account and the Canadian Farm Business Management program. The Branch is also the federal focal point for the coordination of rural affairs and for the promotion of the cooperative sector. The Branch also provides a focal point for relations with the provinces and consultations with industry and other partners.

Review Branch

This Branch provides senior management with independent assurance and information to facilitate course corrections, management improvements and positive cultural change. We conduct or manage independent reviews which provide information for:

1) Assurance: Financial and non-financial information is reliable and useful for decision-making; reliability and usefulness of performance information; financial controls; management practices and controls.

2) Performance Opportunities: Programs, management systems, controls and processes are enhanced; relevance, appropriateness and acceptance of activities; extent program objectives being achieved; cost benefit of programs and activities; best practices and lessons learned; management effectiveness.

Description: AMPA has two major programs – the Advance Payments Program and the Price Pooling Program. These programs were formerly known as the Advance Payments for Crops Act , the Cash Flow Enhancement Program, and the Agricultural Products Cooperative Marketing Act. The purpose of APP is to improve marketing opportunities. The government guarantees the repayment of advances issued to producers by the producer organizations and the Canadian Wheat Board as a means of improving cash flow at or after harvest. An individual producer can obtain up to $250,000 with the government paying the interest on the first $50,000 advanced to each producer. The advances are based on the security of the crop the producers have in storage and are repaid as the crop is sold. The PPP is a market development program designed to assist and encourage cooperative marketing of agricultural products and to provide equal return to producers for products of like grade, varieties and types. The program provides a price guarantee to the marketing agencies to protect them against unanticipated declines in the market price of their products. The price guarantee is established using the expected average wholesale price of the product. Topics: The bank contains information on applicants under APP related to cash advances and interest charges; and marketing agencies under PPP concerning price guarantees. Storage Medium: Hard copy and computer Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 255

Resource and Environmental Programs
Description: This bank contains information on clients' names, addresses, description of projects and level of assistance requested from Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada. Some files may contain farm data on the number of hectares in production, type of crops and manure handling facilities. The goals of these agreements are to define and implement the activities, programs, coordination processes, and levels of human, technical, and financial resource commitments by the federal and provincial governments to soil conservation. The overall purpose of these activities is the development and adoption of the most appropriate technology in soil resource management and use that is within practical economic limits and is compatible with the soil's capability, in order to sustain the long term productivity of the land. Class of Individuals: Dependent on the agreement, it may include individuals, groups of farmers, legally incorporated special interest groups, farm and agri-food organizations, conservation districts, universities, colleges, cooperatives, environmental groups, aboriginal groups, other provincial and municipal governments or agencies of these governments, provincial crown corporations, non-government corporations and financial institutions. Purpose: This information bank is used to determine the eligibility of the applicants, to establish the level of assistance, to carry out the objectives of the federal/provincial agreements on environmental sustainability under the National Soil Conservation Program, Environmental Sustainability Initiative, Land Management Assistance Program and the Green Plan in the following provinces: Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, and to make payments to farmers, farm organizations, consultant firms and research institutions. Consistent Uses: This bank is used to record payments received by farmers, farm organizations, consultant firms and research institutions. Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 3-6 years. Related to PR#: AAFC POL 495 TBS Registration: 002933 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 246

Special Canadian Grains Program
Description: This bank contains records of applications for income assistance (1986 and 1987) as a result of international trade subsidy wars. This information includes producer names, addresses and land locations, types of crops, number of acres planted and, where applicable, crop insurance numbers, Canadian Wheat Board numbers, irrigation licence numbers and Irrigation District/Prairie Farm Rehabilitation project names. Class of Individuals: Producers of grains, oilseeds and specialty crops affected by the international subsidy war. Purpose: This information was collected in order to implement the program. It is used to determine the eligibility of producers for assistance and the level of assistance they will receive under the program formula. It is also used to issue payments. Consistent Uses: The information will be used by the provinces to collect accounts receivable owing to the federal government from several federal agricultural programs under the Farm Income Assistance Initiative. The information will be used to mail information about new agricultural programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six years. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AAFC POL 835 TBS Registration: 002375 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 181

Western Grain Stabilization Program

Description: The bank was used to administer stabilization payments to grain producers. It contains the grain receipts and levy payments of holders of permits issued by the Canadian Wheat Board in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Class of Individuals: Grain producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Purpose: Files in this bank were used to calculate and issue stabilization payments to participating grain producers. Consistent Uses: Disclosure: (1) On an individual request basis, account informationa supplied to Revenue Canada to assist in its investigations. (2) The four western provincial crown corporations (Manitoba Crop Insurance Corporation, Saskatchewan Crop Insurance Corporation and the Farm Income and Crop Insurance Branch of the British Columbia Ministry of Agriculture and Food requested use of our data bank. Information provided concerning specific producers' sales by grain type and tonnes (not sales value) and generally extends over a number of crop years. The requests are ongoing and average perhaps one per week involving perhaps a dozen producers at most. In addition, we also provided computer tape files of our participants identified by permit number only while quoting the outstanding levy to be deducted from these accounts. This information was used in conducting audits of crop insurance claims and in pursuing fraudulent claims through the courts. The computer tape files used for matching participant to claimant in order to determine the amount of levy to be deducted from the claimant's indemnity payment (the provincial corporations were registered as designated purchasers under the WAGS Act). (3) Western Grain Transportation Agency: Grain sales information specific to producers in a specific area covering a ten year period was provided. This was an annual request. This information is used to establish compensatory amounts for the additional cost of transporting grain by truck as a result of rail line abandonment and the closure of grain elevators contiguous to it. As additional rail lines become eligible each year for removal from the network, more producers are affected by elevator closures. (4) Canada Grains Council: Historical data which are non-specific as to producer. The data are statistical in nature and used by the council for various analyses and studies. This was an annual request at one time but we have not received a request for the past two years. (5) Auditor General: Complete copies of our master file of name and addresses as well as our payout file. The information is requested annually. The information is used to verify the propriety and accuracy of stabilization payments. (6) RCMP: Detailed information specific to individuals is provided which would include name and address as well as grain sales for one or more years. The information is requested on an as needed basis (very infrequently). This information is issued to conduct criminal investigations. (7) Statistics Canada: Statistical information is provided on an ad hoc basis. Requests are very infrequent. The information is not producer specific and is used to conduct various analyses and studies. (8) Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) Payouts: Producer permit numbers, participant status and the amount of levy yet to be deducted is provided to the CWB once or twice a year. Conversely, each week the CWB furnishes WGSA with a computer tape of name and address changes and new permit number issues. The information enables the CWB to match participant files to their payment files in order to deduct the WGS levy from interim, adjustment and final payments. Information on the payout and the levy by producer is returned for processing to the WGS accounts. The CWB also forwards information weekly providing information about new permit book numbers and name and address which is used to update the WGS data base prior to levy refunds or stabilization payouts. (9) Revenue Canada: Statutory set-offs are received and recorded to intercept amounts owing to the Crown. Levy refunds and stabilization payments are matched to the file of set-offs and may confirmed amounts are diverted to Revenue Canada. (10) Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act: Monthly a computer tape file is received from Justice Canada to perform a name and address match against the WGSA master file. The matching is carried out to identify payees against whom there is an outstanding summons. WGSA payments are intercepted and set aside for instructions from Justice as to the amount to be diverted. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 20 years. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AAFC GOB 350 TBS Registration: 001715 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 180

Applications for Employment

Description: This bank contains information on individuals who have submitted written applications for employment as a research scientist, veterinarian agricultural officer or primary products inspector with Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada. The files contain letters, completed application forms, resumes, letters of reference, letters from Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada acknowledging receipt of applications. Class of Individuals: The bank contains personal information concerning individuals who are interested in securing employment with the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food and who meet the basic requirements for the above-mentionned positions. Purpose: These records are used for referral when vacancies arise. Consistent Uses: To maintain current inventories within the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: The information is updated regularly at the request of the applicant. The research Branch manages the inventory of applicants for research scientist positions, and the Food Production and Inspection Branch manages the inventories for veterinarian, agricultural officer and primary products inspector positions. Records are maintained on an active basis for varying periods according to the specific inventory, and they can be reactivated at the request of the applicant. Related to PR#: RES TBS Registration: 002703 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 360

Soil and Water Conservation Programs
Description: Programs and activities which involve the storage of personal information include the PFRA Shelterbelt Program, the Southwest Saskatchewan Irrigation Projects, the Irrigation Demonstration Program, the Community Pasture Program, the Soil and Water On-Farm Activities, including the Rural Water Development and Soil Conservation Programs. Class of Individuals: Prairie farmers Purpose: The information is used to administer programs on stabilizing and rehabilitating lands sub-marginal for cereal production and conserving and storing water on the drought-prone prairies. Consistent Uses: Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 53 to 66 years. PAC Number: 84-010 Related to PR#: AAFC PFA 510, 515, 520, 525, 530, 535, 540, 545, 550, 560. TBS Registration: 001719 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 220

Soil Conservation Survey of Attitudes
Description: This bank contains the results of surveys conducted in order to determine farmers' attitudes towards soil conservation, and to understand the limitations of soil conservation activities as perceived by farmers. Class of Individuals: Prairie farmers who have received technical, financial and material assistance from the Soil Conservation Program and prairie farmers whose farms are located in the vicinity of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration groups. Purpose: The survey provides baseline data for future evaluations and the subsequent progression of soil conservation activities. This information is used to evaluate the level of satisfaction of farmers who received services under the Soil Conservation Program and the program's effectiveness, according to farmers, in sustaining soil resources. The results will be used to evaluate the existing programs and to develop future programs. Consistent Uses: Personal data will be cross-referenced with responses from the survey in order to assess the relative needs of certain target groups. The evaluation of the needs assessment may be used in revising existing programs as well as in the development of future programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years. Related to PR#: AAFC PFA 560 TBS Registration: 002583 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 350

Visiting Fellowship Applications and Records
Description: This bank contains applications by and records about individuals seeking visiting fellowships in the department. It includes personal information about the applicants and details about their education and experience. Class of Individuals: Individuals who received their doctoral degrees in the natural sciences or engineering no earlier than than five years prior to the application deadline, or who expect to complete their doctoral degrees no later then 14 months following the application deadline Purpose: The information is used to assess and rank the applicants' qualifications against identified fellowship needs within the department. Consistent Uses: The information is used to select the best qualified persons for fellowships within the department. Retention and Disposal Standards: Unsuccessful files are retained for two years. Successful files are retained for five years. Note: The information is collected and distributed by the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council which administers this program on behalf of participating departments. PAC Number: 70-016 Related to PR#: AAFC RBR 195, 200, 210, 215, 220, 225, 230, 240 TBS Registration: 002288 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 137

General Correspondence and Enquiries
Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics and the humane transportation of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and co-operatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the retention period of the files in which they are stored.

Ministerial Correspondence
This class of information contains correspondence received by the Departmental Secretariat from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Other Programs and Agreements
This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency
Chapter 2

General Information

Background
The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency was established in 1987 by an Act of Parliament as a federal government organization that works with businesses, business organizations, provincial governments and other federal departments to create new and lasting jobs and raise earned incomes across the region.

Responsibilities
To fulfill its mandate, ACOA pursues two distinct goals:

- To ensure that a wide variety of business development tools and resources are available to help more small businesses start-up, survive, prosper and create good, long-lasting jobs.
- To ensure that economic development programs and activities in the region are coordinated and designed to improve the climate for small business growth for all Atlantic Canadians.

Priorities
ACOA helps small firms create jobs, and generally works to improve the environment for business development, by focussing on the following strategic areas:

1. Entrepreneurship Development

2. Trade

3. Innovation and Technology

4. Tourism Development

5. Better Management Practices (BMP)

6. Access to Capital and Information

Service lines
To meet its objectives in each strategic priority area ACOA administers, or is involved in, a number of key programs and activities:

1. Business Development Program (BDP) – designed to help SMEs establish, expand or modernize by offering access to capital in the form of unsecured, interest-free loans.

2. ACF Equity Atlantic Inc. – a $30-million venture capital fund, designed to address the deficiency in venture capital availability in Atlantic Canada.

3. Community-Based Economic Development – grass-roots efforts by communities, with ACOA support, to improve their economic conditions.

4. Canada Business Service Centres – a network of four centres providing business-related services and products to SMEs and aspiring entrepreneurs in the region.

5. COOPERATION Agreements – federal/provincial, cost-shared programs designed to improve the environment for economic growth in Atlantic Canada.

6. Advocacy, Coordination and Procurement – continuous efforts to represent the region interests, while securing more federal government contracting opportunities in the Atlantic Provinces.

The industry portfolio
ACOA operates within the Industry Canada portfolio, which includes 13 departments and agencies that report through the Minister of Industry to Parliament.

As a member of the Portfolio, ACOA is the Atlantic region`s main contact point to federal government programs, services and policies – providing the most direct link available to other federal development organizations.

The Portfolio relies on the individual strengths and capabilities of its members, including ACOA. The Portfolio also brings certain advantages to ACOA, positioning it to better carry out its priorities and activities.

Legislation
- Government Organization Act, Atlantic Canada 1987 (Part I)
- Small Business Loans Act
- Special Areas Act

Organization
Activity Structure: ACOA's program is divided into two main activities or business lines: Development and Corporate Administration. The majority of ACOA's efforts towards the attainment of its objectives are accounted for under Development. The Corporate Administration business line isolates the administrative functions of the Agency from the direct program-related business of the organization.

Development: Support and promote opportunities for economic development in Atlantic Canada, with particular emphasis on SMEs, through planning, research analysis policy, program and project development and implementation and through advocating the interests of Atlantic Canada in national economic policy, program and project development and implementation.

Corporate Administration: Ensure that ACOA's resources are efficiently and effectively managed and that administrative systems and services are in place to enhance management decision making, managerial accountability and operational control.

Organization Structure: ACOA's Head Office is in Moncton, New Brunswick. Head Office components are the Minister's office, the Secretary of State's office, the President's and the Executive Vice-President's offices, Programs and Development, Finance and Corporate Affairs, and Human Resources.

In each capital of the Atlantic provinces, regional Vice-Presidents are responsible for the delivery of ACOA programs. In Sydney, Nova Scotia, the Vice-President of Enterprise Cape Breton Corporation (ECBC) is responsible for delivering some ACOA programs in Cape Breton. Each Vice-President is equipped with Ministerial delegated authorities to approve most projects and proposals.

Through its Ottawa office, also headed by a Vice-President, ACOA advocates the interests of Atlantic Canadians in the development of national policies and programs, including the interest of the region's entrepreneurs related to federal procurement and carries out research related to economic development.

ACOA legislation provides for an ACOA Advisory Board. The Board has eight members who represent all areas in Atlantic Canada. The President of ACOA is Chairperson.

The President of ACOA is also President of the ECBC. ECBC is a Crown Corporation established by legislation to promote and assist the financing and development of industry on Cape Breton Island to provide employment outside the coal-producing industry and to broaden the base of the economy of Cape Breton Island.

Description: Includes correspondence and projects under the Community Futures Program which is to create linkages between community development organizations to achieve a more effective approach to business and economic development in local areas and improve service to small business while reducing overlap and costs and contribute to job growth. Topics: Policy, General and Individual Projects. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 029

CONSULTING ADVISORY SERVICE

Description: Includes policy, procedures, guidelines, correspondence and client project files relating to the Consulting Advisory Service. This service is administered by the Business Development Bank of Canada (BDC) to provide, at ACOA's request and expense, contract services and administrative support in a limited number of cases where clients' needs cannot be met by consultants from the existing standing offer. Topics: Policy, General, ACOA Contracts. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 005

COOPERATION AND LIAISON (GENERAL/FEDERAL/PROVINCIAL/INTERNATIONAL/ UNIVERSITIES)

Description: Includes correspondence and material of a specific nature between ACOA and organizations, federal institutions, provincial governments, international organizations and universities. Topics: General, Atlantic Provinces Chamber of Commerce, Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, Atlantic Canada Chinese Business Council, Atlantic Provinces Education Foundation, Business Development Bank of Canada, Council of Maritime Premiers, Canadian Federation of Independent Business, College of Cape Breton (University) Canada Economic Development – Quebec Region, Canadian Bankers Association, Dalhousie University, Enterprise Cape Breton Corporation, Federal Regional Councils, Federal/Provincial Relations Office, Human Resource Development Canada, Indian and Northern Affairs Canada, Industry Canada, Moncton (Université de) Municipalities, Province of New Brunswick, Province of Nova Scotia, Province of Newfoundland, Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, Privy Council Office, Province of Prince Edward Island, Statistics Canada, Universities – General, Western Economic Diversification. Program Record Number: ACO GEN 031

COOPERATION PROGRAM/ AGREEMENTS (Including ERDA's)

Description: Includes correspondence, reports, meetings, evaluations, federal/provincial framework, individual projects and individual federal/provincial agreements relating to the COOPERATION Program. This program was designed to create partnerships with the provinces and the private sector to assist in developing a variety of sectors of the Atlantic economy. Topics: Policy, General, Economic and Regional Development Agreement (ERDA) Meetings, COOPERATION Meetings, COOPERATION Program Task Force Meetings, COOPERATION Program Advisory Committee Meetings, ERDA Memorandum to Cabinet (MC), COOPERATION MC, Atlantic ERDA, COOPERATION Program Communications, Atlantic Livestock Feed Initiatives (ALFI), COOPERATION Program Evaluation, Federal/Provincial Framework. New Brunswick COOPERATION Program (individual projects listed in numerical order), the following agreements: Industrial Innovation and Technology, Industrial Development, Forest Renewal, Mineral Development, Fisheries Development, Tourism Development, Flood Damage Reduction, Economic Diversification, Agri-Food Development, Science and Technology, Transportation, Special Response, Cultural Development, Agreement on Urban Economic Development, Entrepreneurship and Human Resource Development, Travel Generators, Planning, Economic Development, New Brunswick Recreational Fisheries Development, Economic Development, Regional Economic Development. Newfoundland COOPERATION Program (individual projects listed in numerical order), the following agreements: Agri-Food, Burin Peninsula Development Fund, Fisheries, Flood Damage Reduction Program, Forestry, Mineral Development, Ocean Industry Development, Rural Development, Science and Technology, Tourism Development, Industrial Development, Comprehensive Labrador Subsidiary Agreement, Transportation, Enterprise Network, Urban Infrastructure, Environmental Improvement, Development Planning, Cultural Industries, Human Resource Development, Salmonid Enhancement/Conservation, Strategic Investment Industrial Development, Fishing Industry Development, Newfoundland Strategic Regional Diversification, Canada/Newfoundland Economic Renewal Initiative, Comprehensive Development Agreement. Nova Scotia COOPERATION Program (individual projects listed in numerical order), the following agreements: Agri-Food, Halifax Metro Sub-Agreements, Forestry, Strait of Canso, Tourism, Advanced Manufacturing Support, Technology Transfer and Industrial, Fisheries, Mineral Development, Industrial Development Opportunities, Sustainable Economic Development, Highway Improvement, Cultural Development, Economic Policy and Planning, Technology Development, Community Economic Development, Nova Scotia People Skills, Municipal Infrastructure, Economic Diversification, Recreational Fisheries Agreement. Prince Edward Island COOPERATION Program (individual projects listed in numerical order), the following agreements: Agri-Food, Cultural Industries, Energy, Forestry, Industrial Development, Tourism, Transportation, Market Development, Strategic Technology Development, Sustainable Economic Development, Urban Economic Development, Human Resource Development, Primary Resource Development, Planning Agreement, Regional Economic Development Agreement, Rural Economic Development Agreement. Pan-Atlantic COOPERATION Agreements: Pan-Atlantic Coordination & Research Initiatives (individual projects listed in numerical order), Pan-Atlantic Aboriginal Partnership Agreement, International Business Agreement (Atlantic Trade Agreement), Atlantic Agri-Products Competitiveness Initiative. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 016

COORDINATION

Description: Includes correspondence, reports, information relating to the Agency's role in the Atlantic Canada to increase the effectiveness of all federally sponsored economic activities by coordinating these interests among federal, provincial and private-sector partners. Topics: Policy, General, Official Languages Act, Canada-France COOPERATION Agreement Initiative. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 010

ENTREPRENEURSHIP PROGRAM

Description: Correspondence, reports, policies, forums, conferences, awards, publications, evaluations, relating to ACOA's initiative to promote entrepreneurship and small business development for the economic, social and cultural development of our country in partnership with private sector, provincial and territorial governments and the academic community. Topics: Policy, Entrepreneurship, Entrepreneurship Reports, Entrepreneurship Task Force, Pan-Atlantic Entrepreneurship Development Program, Entrepreneurship Proposals, Entrepreneurship Development Initiative (EDI), Young Entrepreneurs, Entrepreneurship Forums/Conferences/ Showcases, Entrepreneurship Business Awards, Publications (including State Of Small Business), The Leading Edge, Women and Entrepreneurship, Shad Valley Program, Entrepreneurship Evaluation, Entrepreneurship Task Force, Small Business Counselling. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 006

FISHERIES ALTERNATIVE PROGRAM

Description: Includes correspondence, individual projects, and evaluation of the Fisheries Alternative Program (FAP). This program covers the Federal Response and financial assistance given to Communities after termination or disruption in their major economic circumstances as a result of the downturn in the Atlantic fishing industry. Topics: Policy, General, Meetings/Conference Calls, Community Economic Development Program/FAP , Fisheries Alternative Program Evaluation, Individual Projects. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 020

FIXED LINK REDEVELOPMENT INITIATIVE

Description: Includes correspondence, reports, and projects relating to the Tripartite Agreement between Canada and the provinces of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. Funds provided by the Government of Canada are for the redevelopment of Borden, Prince Edward Island, and Cape Tormentine, New Brunswick, to offset adverse effects of termination of ferry service between Borden and Cape Tormentine. Topics: Policy, General, Cape Borden Redevelopment Program (Prince Edward Island Projects), Cape Tormentine Area Redevelopment Program (New Brunswick Projects). Program Record Number: ACO PRO 019

GOVERNMENT PROCUREMENT

Description: Correspondence, committees, meetings, programs on ACOA's procurement strategy to increase long term economic activity in Atlantic Canada and to help successful companies leverage federal contracts into non-government markets. Topics: Policy, General, Atlantic Opportunities Program (AOP), Annual Strategic Acquisition Plan (ASAP), Canadian Annual Procurement Strategy (CAPS), Atlantic Canada Supplier Development Program (ACSDP), Supplier Development Operations Committee, Access Small Business, Canadian Automated Air Traffic Control System Procurement (CAATS), Defence Procurement, Canadian Submarine Acquisition Project (CASAP), Armoured Vehicles, Canadian Patrol Frigates, Canadian Forces Supply System Upgrade (CFSSU), Tactical Command, Control and Communication System (TCCCS), Free Trade Agreement Procurement Provisions, Procurement Review Committee (PRC), Procurement Meetings, Studies on Procurement, Science and Technology Procurement Network, Western Supplier Development Program (WSDP). Program Record Number: ACO PRO 018

INDUSTRIAL REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Description: Includes correspondence and individual projects relating to the Industrial Regional Development Program (IRDP) established to promote regional industrial development through the support of private sector initiatives. The program provides financial assistance to business and non-profit organizations through contributions or repayable contributions. Topics: General, Individual Projects. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 017

INDUSTRIES – GENERAL

Description: Information dealing with all industry sectors within the Atlantic provinces which have been transferred to ACOA and with which ACOA has dealings. These sectors include: agriculture, defence, energy, environment, fisheries, forestry, manufacturing, mining, science and technology, health, geomatics, shipbuilding, tourism, trade and transportation. Three areas which stand out as major priorities for ACOA are Innovation and Technology, Tourism and Trade. Topics: General. Program Record Number: ACO IND 024

INNOVATION AND TECHNOLOGY

Description: Includes correspondence on Innovation and Technology, a priority for ACOA to enhance small- and medium-sized enterprise productivity and competitiveness by improving access to innovation and technology through programs designed to increase diffusion of best practice technology, foster the development and commercialization of technology-based tradeable goods and services, and develop regionally-strategic sectors. Topics: General, Space Program/Space Station, Networks of Centres of Excellence, Geomatics Industry, Communication and Information Technology, Meetings/Conferences, Science and Technology Committee for the Industry Portfolio, Atlantic Canada Technology Forum, Innovation and Technology Working Group, Technology Sessions/Breakfasts, Canada-Israel Industrial Research and Development Foundation, National Research Council of Canada. Program Record Number: ACO IND 025

POLICY, RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Description: Includes correspondence, reports, studies, research, development policies, liaison with other federal/provincial departments, relating to the regional economy. Topics: Policy, General, Federal/Provincial Economic Development, Harmonization, Atlantic

Economic Development, Micro Economic Action Plan, Studies General, ACOA Client Survey, Economic Study-Atlantic Region, Resource Guide – Case Studies, Informal Venture Capital in Atlantic Canada Study, Study of Financial Intermediary Market in Atlantic Canada, Policy Network. Program Record Number: ACO GEN 003

PROGRAMS/AGREEMENTS – GENERAL
Description: Includes correspondence, reports, and records relating to programs, initiatives, agreements and sub-agreements which ACOA is involved with through funding or support; these may be with other agencies, government departments (federal or provincial), groups or individuals. Also includes correspondence on the Program Evaluation general function of the Agency. Topics: Policy, General, Delegated Program Authorities, New Brunswick – Fundy Trail Endowment Fund, Newfoundland – John Cabot Corporation, Nova Scotia – Pictou County Economic Development Fund, Preston and Area Development Fund, Cape Breton – DEVCO-IDD/ECBC Transition, ECB/ECBC Assessment, Proposed ECBC/ACOA Transition, Venture Capital/Venture Loan Program (Business Development Bank of Canada), Canada Community Investment Fund, ACF Equity Atlantic Inc. , Seed Capital Fund, Workers' Investment Fund Inc. , PEI Capital Inc. (Island Capital Inc.), Joint Loan Investment Fund, Access to Capital, Heritage Canada/Main Street Program, Immigrant Investors Program, Unsolicited Proposals Program, Program Evaluations, Environmental Assessment, Sustainable Development Strategy, Federal/Provincial Overlap and Duplication Task Force, Regional Program Advisory Group, Federal Youth Strategy, Aboriginal Economic Development Strategy, Program Directors Meetings, Internal Review Committee, Rural Economic Renewal Initiative, Receivables Administration. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 004

PROGRAMS/AGREEMENTS – REPORTS
Description: Includes all reports (weekly, monthly, as well as annual reports/reports to Parliament) prepared for the Minister, the President and all Vice-Presidents on all ACOA Programs/Agreements. Topics: General, Weekly Reports, (Action Program, Business Development Program (BDP) Monthly Reports, Project Proposal Status Reports, Projects Approved/Accepted/Announced Reports, ACOA Annual Reports/Five-year Report/Reports to Parliament, Quarterly Reports (Action Program, Fisheries Alternative Program (FAP)), Quarterly Reports (Four Atlantic Provinces – Economy), COOPERATION Program Reports, COOPERATION Program Expenditures/Projections (Monthly Report), FAP Reports, Quarterly Report (Loan Insurance, Action Loan and Contribution), Inventory of ACOA Programs, Infrastructure Program Reports, Infrastructure Works – Approved Projects Reports, Advocacy and Coordination Activity Reports, Education Public Awareness Program Progress Reports, Quarterly Job Impact Reports, Project Processing Reports (Action, FAP, BDP), Environmental Assessment Activity Reports. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 008

SMALL BUSINESS LOAN ACT PROGRAM
Description: Includes correspondence relating to the Small Business Loans Act (SBLA) Program to encourage lenders in the private sector to increase, the availability of loans for the purpose of the establishment, expansion, modernization and improvement of small business enterprises. Topics: Policy, General, SBLA Program Review. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 011

TOURISM
Description: Includes correspondence, policies, seminars and conferences, agreements, projects relating to Tourism: a priority of ACOA to build the industry into a long-term generator of new jobs by helping industry organizations and private-sector operators become more efficient in their use of resources and by emphasizing a coordinated approach to international marketing, research and training. Topics: Policy, General, Canada/Atlantic COOPERATION Agreements on Tourism Marketing, Coast of Difference, New Brunswick Tourism, Newfoundland Tourism, Nova Scotia Tourism, Cape-Breton Tourism, Prince Edward Island Tourism, International Tourism Marketing Agreement and initiatives, Atlantic Canada Tourism Partnership Management Committee, Marketing Advisory Committee, Tourism Canada, National Heritage Tourism Initiative, Air Transportation (Tourism), Canadian Tourism Commission, Meetings/Conferences, Atlantic Canada Agreement on Tourism Development, Tourism Industry Association of Canada. Program Record Number: ACO IND 026

TRADE
Description: Includes correspondence, publications, meetings, missions, trade shows relating to the ACOA trade initiative in the Atlantic Canada to foster a cohesive approach to Atlantic trade development, promote Atlantic exports through incoming missions of foreign trade commissioners; develop a training strategy for the small- and medium-size enterprises (SMEs) and those providing assistance to SMEs. Topics: Policy, General, Multilateral Trade Negotiations, Sydport International Trade Zone, General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), Pre-Trader Demonstration Project, Trade-in Services, Interprovincial Trade, International Trade, Trade Missions/Trade Shows, Meetings/ Committees/ Conferences, Investment Promotion, Trade Proposals. Program Record Number: ACO IND 027

Atlantic Pilotage Authority Canada
Chapter 3

General Information

Background
As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule III Part I Crown corporation.

Responsibilities
The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries – all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation
- Atlantic Pilotage Regulations
- Authority By-Laws
- Canadian Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Pilotage Act

Organization
♦ Administration Division
This Division provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

♦ Operations Division
This Division provides pilotage services by assigning and dispatching qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Atlantic Pilotage Authority.

Atomic Energy Control Board
Chapter 4

General Information

Background
The Atomic Energy Control Board was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act. It is a departmental corporation, named in Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. The AECB reports to Parliament through a designated Minister, currently the Minister of Natural Resources Canada.

Responsibilities
Our mandate is to ensure that the use of nuclear energy in Canada does not pose an unreasonable risk to health, safety, the environment and national security. This mandate extends to the control of import and export of nuclear materials and other prescribed substances, equipment and technology, and to fulfilling Canada's obligations under the Canada-International Atomic Energy Agency Safeguards Agreement, pursuant to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. We achieve our mandate through regulations that establish a comprehensive licensing system which covers nuclear facilities, nuclear materials and other prescribed substances and equipment, including the certification of domestic and foreign transport package designs. This licensing system, which operates on a cost recovery basis, is administered to take into account the concerns and responsibilities of federal and provincial government departments in such areas as health, environment, transport, and labour. We also contribute to international agencies and, through cooperation agreements, assist other countries in improving their regulatory controls of nuclear materials and facilities.

Legislation
- Atomic Energy Control Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter A-16
- Nuclear Liability Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter N-28

Organization
The Board is constituted as a corporate body with five members, one of whom is President and Chief Executive Officer appointed by the Governor in Council. Through the President, the Board receives advice from: two independent committees — the Advisory Committee on Radiological Protection and the Advisory Committee on Nuclear Safety — composed of technical experts from outside our organization; a Legal Services Unit, composed of legal experts provided from the Department of Justice; and a medical liaison officer, who represents the Group of Medical Advisors. Our officers and employees implement the policies of the Board and make recommendations to the Board on regulatory matters. Staff is organized into five directorates as described below.

♦ Directorate of Reactor Regulation
The Directorate of Reactor Regulation is responsible for the regulation of nuclear power reactors, including the development of safety standards and licence conditions; the assessment of licence applications and reactor operations; the making of licensing recommendations to the Board; and compliance activities.

♦ Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation
The Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation is responsible for the regulation of uranium mining and processing into fuel; research facilities and particle accelerators; radioisotope production and use; radioactive waste; and the transport of radioactive materials. This includes the development of safety standards and licence conditions; the assessment of licence applications and licensee operations; the making of licensing recommendations to the Board; and compliance activities. The Directorate is also responsible for the technical aspects associated with decommissioning.

♦ Directorate of Environmental and Human Performance Assessment
The Directorate of Environmental and Human Performance Assessment is responsible for the assessment of licensees' programs and performance in the areas of radiation and environmental protection, emergency preparedness planning, quality assurance, training and human factors. Other responsibilities include technical training for our staff and foreign staff under cooperation agreements; our obligations under the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act; assessment of unplanned events and performance at licensed facilities; incident investigation; research programs; and the development of standards.

♦ Secretariat
The Secretariat is responsible for the administrative support to Board members and advisory groups; external relations, corporate documents and public communications; corporate planning and coordination services including implementation of the Nuclear Safety and Control Act; non-proliferation, safeguards and security activities; interaction with Department of Justice legal counsel at the AECB; our responsibilities under the Nuclear Liability Act, the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; and corporate audit & evaluation.

♦ Directorate of Corporate Services

The Directorate of Corporate Services is responsible for supplying services to the organization to enable it to manage its human, information, financial and physical resources. The Directorate is also responsible for internal security and for administering our Employment Equity, Conflict of Interest, Official Languages and Cost Recovery programs.

Radiation Protection
Description: Information on radiation protection for workers, public and environment affected by reactor facilities.
Program Record Number: AEB DRR 040

Radioactive Waste Management Facilities
Description: Information on every radioactive waste management facility in Canada. Topics: Low-level storage; high-level storage; reactor wastes; uranium tailings; chemical treatment; licensing; maintenance; compliance. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 190

Reactor Codes and Standards
Description: Quality assurance codes and standards used in the design of nuclear facilities. Topics: Components; inspections; quality control; reliability and maintainability of concrete containment structures; protective systems and instrumentation; and seismic design requirements for CANDU. Program Record Number: AEB DAA 095

Reactor Operating Training
Description: Information on the training and examination of reactor operators according to AECB standards. Topics: Reactor Operating Training; Ontario Hydro, Hydro-Quebec, New Brunswick Electric Power Commission. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 070

Reactor Personnel
Description: Information on the training and examination of all reactor personnel. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 085

Reactor Safety
Description: Information on the development of safety requirements for nuclear facilities. Topics: Siting guides; reactor safety criteria. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 090

Reactors – General
Description: General information on the operation of reactor facilities. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 030

Regulatory Documents
Description: Research contract process (including reports); licensing guides and regulatory standards for the nuclear energy field and prescribed substances. Topics: Regulations safeguard; techniques; socio-economic impact analyses. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 255

Safeguards
Description: Policies and measures for the non-proliferation of nuclear energy. Topics: Domestic and international safeguards; costs; reference documents; instrumentation; inspection procedures; accountability; visits and inventories of nuclear facilities in Canada; safeguards inspectors; special studies on accountability for highly enriched uranium and non-destructive measurement devices. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 150

Safeguards Support Program
Description: Research and development contract reports and Safeguard Support Program Reports. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 250

Security
Description: Information on the physical security of nuclear facilities and personnel. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 140

Steam Rebuild Programs
Description: Information on improvements of original deficient steam generators in some of the reactors. Topics: 600MW, 500MW, and 850MW steam generator rebuild programs. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 050

Transportation
Description: Policies, regulations and practices for the safe handling and transportation of radioactive materials in Canada and abroad. Topics: Shipping regulations; labelling requirements for radio-isotopes; transportation of radioactive waste; liability insurance; regulations for all modes of transportation BF air, road, rail and marine; certificates; Canada Post Corporation; emergency procedures; accidents and standards; transportation of nuclear materials to and from foreign countries; endorsements from foreign countries for shipping containers; technical aspects of shipping, containers and testing programs. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 160

United Nations Disarmament Commission
Description: Information on the United Nations Non-Proliferation Treaty on Nuclear Weapons, international safeguards, international agreements and various United Nations committees on nuclear energy. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 145

Bank of Canada
Chapter 5

General Information

Background
The Bank of Canada is the country's central bank. It was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act. Under the preamble of the Act, unchanged since its inception, the Bank of Canada is required "to regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Overall responsibility for the management of the Bank is assigned to the Board of Directors, composed of the Governor, the Senior Deputy Governor and 12 directors. The Governor and Senior Deputy Governor are appointed for seven-year terms, the directors for three years. The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the board as a non-voting member. The Governor is the Chief Executive Officer of the Bank and is responsible for the business of the Bank. As a practical matter, collective responsibility for the conduct of Bank affairs rests with the Governing Council, composed of the Governor, the Senior Deputy Governor and the four other Deputy Governors.

Responsibilities
The Bank of Canada's primary responsibilities can be grouped into four broad functions: developing and implementing monetary policy, providing central banking services, issuing bank notes, and servicing the public debt.

Monetary policy is the Bank's primary function and most important responsibility. Monetary policy is concerned with managing the rate of monetary expansion in a way that is consistent with preserving the value of money. In terms of central banking services, the Bank plays an active role in Canada's payments clearing and settlement systems, operates deposit accounts for major financial institutions and for the federal government, and manages the government's foreign exchange reserves. The Bank also has sole responsibility for issuing Canada's bank notes, undoubtedly its best-known product. This responsibility involves note design (including features that enhance security against counterfeiting), as well as printing, distributing and eventually replacing bank notes. Coinage, on the other hand, is produced by the Royal Canadian Mint. Lastly, as the government's fiscal agent, the Bank advises the government on matters relating to the public debt, issues government debt, maintains bondholder records, and makes payments on behalf of the government for interest and debt redemption.

Legislation
- Advance Bank Act
- Bank of Canada Act
- Currency Act
- Financial Administration Act

Organization
♦ Corporate Services Departments
The Corporate Services Departments provide advice, information and internal services that support the management of the Bank. The Corporate Services departments are: Executive and Legal Services, Communications Services, Management Services (information, human resources and financial services), Infrastructure Services (facilities, office, protective and automation services) and Audit Services. Executive and Legal Services provide corporate secretary support to the Bank's Board of Directors and the management of the Bank. Communications Services provide publication and public information services. As part of the Management Services Department, Financial Services (formerly known as Comptroller's Department), is responsible for the internal financial functions of the Bank, statutory financial reporting requirements, accounting in support of the Exchange Fund Account and administration of unclaimed bank balances.

♦ Department of Banking Operations
The overall responsibility of the Department is to provide efficient and effective service to other central banks, international financial organizations, the Government of Canada, chartered banks, trust companies and other financial organizations. Its responsibilities include the security and administration of valuables such as gold and securities, the provision of banking services to other clients, and all aspects of the issuance of bank notes, including custody of the National Currency Collection. The Department also provides fiscal functions for which the Bank of Canada acts as an agent for the Government of Canada. These functions include the clearing of government obligations and receiving deposits for the account of the Government of Canada. Finally the Department participates with the Research Department in the Bank's Regional Presence activities.

♦ Department of Monetary and Financial Analysis
This department is responsible for analyzing the transmission mechanism of monetary policy and contributing to the Bank's role in providing for financial stability. The department monitors and analyzes the evolution of financial variables such as monetary aggregates, credit aggregates and interest rates. It also monitors the evolution of the financial institutions, financial intermediation and payments systems to assess the implications for monetary policy and financial stability. It provides advice on regulatory and supervisory issues related to the financial sector policies under the jurisdiction of the federal government. Finally the department is responsible for the regulatory oversight of major clearing and settlement systems.

♦ Financial Markets Department

This department has both operational and analytical duties. Its most important operational functions are to help implement monetary policy through its activities in financial markets, to conduct foreign exchange operations as fiscal agent for the government and the Bank, and to issue Government of Canada securities (principally treasury bills and marketable bonds) both domestically and abroad. Its analytical function is to monitor conditions in financial markets, forecast key financial flows and study relevant financial relationships. The results are communicated to the Bank's senior officers for their use in formulating monetary policy, advising the government on matters related to debt management, and influencing the development of capital market structures appropriate to Canadian needs.

♦ Government Securities Services

This department is responsible for administering Government of Canada domestic securities. Its functions include: development and distribution of debt certificates; maintenance of the debt register information; servicing the holders of debt instruments through account statements, interest payments, product information and other client services; and managing the order-taking and redemption processes through intermediaries.

♦ International Department

The principal responsibilities of this department include producing timely analyses of current and prospective economic developments in foreign countries, providing policy advice on issues addressed by international organizations such as the International Monetary Fund and the OECD, and undertaking studies on international financial markets and economic policy issues.

♦ Research Department

This department's primary responsibility is to assess the significance of current economic developments and prospects in Canada and to keep Bank management fully informed about them. An aspect of this responsibility is to seek further understanding of the operation of the economy and of public policies which are, or could be, employed in an attempt to regulate it.

British Columbia Treaty Commission
Chapter 6

General Information

Background
The BC Treaty Commission ("BCTC") was created in September 1992 through an agreement between the Government of Canada, the Government of British Columbia and the First Nations Summit ("the Principals"), whose members represent the majority of First Nations in British Columbia.

The BCTC received statutory recognition through the Treaty Commission Act passed by the Legislature of British Columbia in April 1993 and through the BC Treaty Commission Act passed by the federal government in December 1995, both of which were proclaimed in force in March 1996. The First Nations Summit also passed a resolution in April 1993 to establish the BCTC.

Responsibilities
The role of the BCTC is to facilitate the negotiation of treaties and, where the Parties agree, other related agreements in British Columbia.

Legislation
- BC Treaty Commission Act.

Organization

Administration
Responsible for finance, contracts and administration, human resources, and information management.

Table Negotiations
Responsible for monitoring negotiations and providing facilitation services where requested by all three parties; monitoring compliance with the Commission's Policies & Procedures for negotiations.

Negotiation Support Funding
Responsible for administering negotiation support funding which is provided by Canada and British Columbia to First Nations in the process.

Communications
Responsible for reporting annually on the Treaty Commission, the treaty process, treaty negotiations and the status of each negotiation, and under a Public Information and Education Agreement with the Government of Canada and the Government of British Columbia begun in 1997, responsible for province-wide information on the treaty process and treaty negotiations.

Business Development Bank of Canada
Chapter 7

General Information

Background
The Business Development Bank of Canada (BDC) is a Crown corporation which was established by an Act of Parliament effective October 2, 1975 as the Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), and continued under its new name by an Act of Parliament on July 13, 1995. FBDB, in turn, had succeeded the Industrial Development Bank which was formed in 1944.

BDC's mandate is to support Canadian entrepreneurship by providing financial and management services, giving particular attention to the needs of small and medium-sized enterprises. A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small and medium-sized businesses located in each branch territory.

Responsibilities
The Bank is responsible for acting as a complementary lender, providing funds by means of loans and equity financing to small and medium-sized businesses to fill out or complete services available from commercial financial institutions. Through its Venture Capital Division, the Bank is also responsible for providing equity capital in addition to, or in place of, loans and guarantees.

Legislation
- Business Development Bank of Canada Act

Organization
The Bank has a network of approximately eighty branches across Canada organized into areas (seventeen for financial services; ten for management services) reporting to a Head Office located in Montreal.

Corporate resources located in regional Service Centres and Head Office provide guidance to branches with respect to the application of established Bank policy and procedures. They also process financing applications for amounts exceeding branch limits.

The branches provide financing and management services to small and medium businesses located within their particular territory. Enquiries and applications for financing and managerial support are received by branch personnel and processed in accordance with established policy and procedure.

Furthermore, enquiries and applications may be received through the Business Service Centre located in Head Office.

The various services and departments of the Bank include the following:

Consulting Group (formerly Management Services Division)
The Consulting Group offers BDC's management services by providing services to help Canadian entrepreneurs strengthen their management capabilities.

♦ Customized Management Programs
Offers training, counselling and networking opportunities in a dynamic group environment to groups of entrepreneurs over an extended period, usually for up to one year. Programs can be delivered to entrepreneurs in a local setting or customized to meet the needs of specific groups of entrepreneurs, such as manufacturers, women, aboriginals, or exporters. Participants receive instruction and exchange ideas in a variety of management topics.

♦ General Management Consulting Services
BDC's one-on-one consulting services provide entrepreneurs with the specialized support they need to enhance their business performance. Consulting in a variety of areas including finance and accounting, human resources, marketing, planning and general management is provided through a network of experienced business professionals and specialists. The Bank also assists companies in the procedures to become ISO certified and provides consulting services on the other quality management issues.

Financial Services

♦ Emerging Markets/Venture Capital Division
Responsible for all equity and venture capital financing. Its role is to act as a catalyst in stimulating the formation of risk capital for companies with high growth potential. It ensures that all proposals satisfy Bank policy and are financially viable. This Division assesses, on a continuing basis, the adequacy and suitability of investment policy and procedures and, when necessary, recommends changes. The services of this Division include direct purchase of a minority ownership interest as well as syndication of proposals to other venture capitalists and financial institutions.

♦ Loans Division
Establishes and oversees policies and procedures with respect to the provision of financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses. In addition, the Division oversees the management of the Bank's loan portfolio for the entire life of all accounts. Most financing is provided in the form of loans for such purposes as purchasing fixed assets, replenishing working capital, refinancing, and financing a change of ownership. Guarantees may be provided to other financial institutions to enable a business to obtain an adequate line of credit. Through the operations of BDC Connex - BDC's "virtual bank" - BDC offers on-line access to its financial services.

Head Office Departments

♦ Audit and Inspection Department
Conducts reviews of the Bank's systems of internal control.

♦ Controller's

Canada Council for the Arts
Chapter 8

General Information

Background
The Canada Council for the Arts was created by the Parliament of Canada in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, RSC 1970 c-2, as amended). The mandate of the Canada Council (Section 8(1)) is "to foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in, the arts."

Responsibilities
The general policy objective of the Canada Council for the Arts is to recognize, foster and promote excellence in the arts. Most of its grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions judged by juries of practising artists and other independent specialists in the particular disciplines.

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council for the Arts has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Subsection 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

The Council also administers the Killam program of scholarly awards and prizes, financed from a private legacy. The Public Lending Right Commission, which provides payments to Canadian authors for the public use of their works in Canadian libraries, operates under the aegis of the Council.

Legislation
- Canada Council Act

Organization

Arts Division

♦ Canada Council Art Bank
Rents a collection of over 17,000 works of art by more than 2,500 contemporary Canadian artists to federal government departments and agencies, public institutions, non-profit organizations and to the private sector.

♦ Dance Section
Responsible for support to individual artists and to professional Canadian dance companies and organizations in ballet, modern and experimental dance.

♦ Media Arts Section
Provides support to independent professional artists for the creation of works using conventional and/or new acoustic and visual technologies and their related media. It administers four production and creative development programs: film, video, new media and audio, and first productions. It also administers a presentation, distribution and development program. These programs are concerned with production and dissemination in multiple format media, including computer processing, visual and acoustic imaging and system control. In addition to direct production assistance, support is available to non-profit media art organizations through operational and project funds, as well as interdisciplinary work and performance art creation and touring grants.

♦ Music Section
Responsible for support to professional Canadian musicians, music companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to orchestras, opera companies, choirs, contemporary/new music groups, small ensembles and other music groups and organizations in jazz, world and folk music, commissioning of Canadian compositions, residencies, aid to sound recording by Canadian producers and companies, and touring, presenting and management in Canada.

♦ Theatre Section
Responsible for support to professional theatre artists, companies and organizations. Its programs include grants to individual theatre artists, theatre production project grants, First Peoples' infrastructure project grants, operating grants to professional theatre organizations, theatre touring and presenting program.

♦ Visual Arts Section
Responsible for support to professional visual artists, art institutions, and associations. Its programs include aid to artist centres; exhibition and programming assistance to art galleries; visiting artist program; studios in Paris and Rome, Chalmers fund for the crafts; project assistance for initiatives in contemporary visual art and architecture.

♦ Writing and Publishing Section
Responsible for support to publishing companies, organizations and associations, and support to writers. Its programs include block grants and project grants to book publishers; translation grants; aid to international translation; aid to periodicals; promotion and distribution of Canadian books and periodicals.

Canada Customs and Revenue Agency
Chapter 9

General Information

Background

In 1927, the Department of National Revenue Act (now RSC 1985, C. N-16) established the Department of National Revenue by renaming the Department of Customs and Excise. The Department was responsible for assessing and collecting duties and taxes, monitoring the movement of people and goods across the Canadian border and protecting Canadian industries from foreign competition.

The same Act created a second department to collect income taxes, a responsibility that a commissioner from the Department of Finance had been carrying out. Each Department had the same minister, but had its own departmental organization headed by its own deputy minister.

In May 1994, Bill C-2, An Act to Amend the Department of National Revenue Act received Royal Assent and provided the legal basis for the creation of a consolidated department to carry out the activities previously performed by Revenue Canada, Customs and Excise and Revenue Canada, Taxation. A new regional structure was implemented in July 1994 combining the 23 parallel regions of Customs, Excise and Taxation into six consolidated regions. The Headquarters organization was also consolidated into six restructured program branches and six corporate branches.

Over the past several decades, Revenue Canada has come to play an ever greater role in Canadian society. In addition to its traditional role of administering Canada's tax system, trade policies and borders, the Department now plays a role in revenue generation and income redistribution. It also administers the Free Trade Agreement, the North American Free Trade Agreement and the World Trade Organization Agreement.

In fulfilling these responsibilities, the Department administers 66 Acts of Parliament, works on behalf of the federal, provincial, and territorial governments, and deals with virtually every business and individual in Canada.

On November 1, 1999, Revenue Canada will begin operations as the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency.

Responsibilities

Canada Customs and Revenue Agency responsibilities include revenue collection, trade administration, customs borders services, and various social and economic payments.

Canada Customs and Revenue Agency works on behalf of the federal, provincial and territorial governments as well as individuals and businesses to support Canada's social and economic progress.

The Department administers the Canada Child Tax Benefit, the GST/HST credit, and numerous provincial and territorial benefit and credit programs. It also collects federal and some provincial income taxes, the goods and services tax (GST), Harmonized Sales Tax (HST), Canada Pension plan contributions, Employment Insurance premiums, and customs and excise duties. As well, we collect excise taxes and, for provinces with agreements with the federal government, Canada Customs and Revenue Agency collects provincial sales tax, tobacco taxes, liquor markups and levies on non-commercial imports.

The Department also administers the border and trade aspects of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), and the World Trade Organization (WTO) Agreement, as well as administering Canada's international tax agreements with other countries.

Finally, Canada Customs and Revenue Agency works in partnership with law enforcement agencies and other federal departments to protect Canadians and society as a whole by preventing illegal and dangerous goods and inadmissible people from entering Canada, and monitoring the movement of controlled and regulated goods.

Canada Customs and Revenue Agency continually strives to deliver our programs and services effectively, fairly and at the lowest possible cost. The Department's goals are to:

- provide accessible, responsive and reliable services at an affordable cost;
- deliver fair, responsible and effective enforcement programs in a manner that directly responds to changes in the environment;
- minimize the administrative cost and compliance burden on clients through the streamlining and simplifying of our legislation, programs, and operations;
- apply the principles of fairness diligently and consistently in all departmental programs to sustain public confidence and encourage voluntary compliance;
- ensure that the people of Canada Customs and Revenue Agency have the knowledge skills and support to work effectively in an environment that promotes and recognizes exemplary performance; and
- provide effective support for our programs and initiatives through responsive, modern, and integrated corporate policies, systems, and processes.

Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation
Chapter 10

General Information

Background
The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act. The Corporation's primary role is to provide, for the benefit of persons having deposits in a bank, trust or loan company, insurance against the loss of all or part of their deposits to a maximum of $60,000 in the event of the failure of the member institution concerned. The definition of "deposit" may be summarized as moneys received by a member institution which it is obligated to repay on demand, or on a fixed or determinable date that is within five years from the date of the deposit. Deposits not payable in Canada or repayable in foreign currency are not insured. In the furtherance of its main function, the Corporation may, amongst other powers, acquire assets from, or make or guarantee loans or deposits to a member institution for the purpose of averting or reducing a threatened loss to the Corporation.

Responsibilities
The Corporation's primary role is set out above. The Corporation's secondary role includes examining the affairs of member institutions in order to obtain information for deposit insurance purposes (under legislation, the examination of member institutions is the responsibility of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions); acting as lender of last resort to provide short-term liquidation loans under specified authority; managing the acquired assets of member institutions ; and reducing the risk of loss to the Corporation by guaranteeing loans or deposits with a member institution. In addition, the Corporation acts as curator of a bank, or liquidator or receiver of a member institution, and manages, monitors and invests a deposit insurance fund and other funds accumulated from the operations of the Corporation.

Organization
♦ Audit and Consulting Services
This division is responsible for an independent examination and review of internal controls, policies and procedures; systems and practices; their application; and the extent to which they protect the interests of the Corporation. The internal auditor develops and maintains this function in accordance with provisions related to Crown corporations as outlined in the Financial Administration Act.

♦ Corporate Services
This division is composed of three departments: Human Resources, Information Systems, and Communications and Public Affairs. Internally, the division provides the diverse services, tools and environment necessary for Corporation staff to effectively and efficiently carry out their duties. Externally, the division provides specialized services to government, member institutions and the general public (e.g., 1- 800 information lines, public awareness activities, payout support).

♦ Field Operations – Intervention Division
The primary functions of this division are to develop systems and procedures for the conduct of interventions and to manage the operations of a number of member accounts.

♦ Finance Division
The Finance Division is responsible for the accounting, planning and treasury activities of the Corporation.

Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions

Chapter 11

General Information

Background

Under the order adopted on February 13, 1998, Economic Development Agency of Canada for the Regions of Quebec became the new name of the organization formerly known as the Federal Office of Regional Development (Quebec), or FORD(Q). FORD(Q) was created in June 1991, and has been part of the Industry Portfolio since January 1996.

Responsibilities

Under the Department of Industry Act, the objective of Canada Economic Development for the Regions of Quebec is to promote economic development in areas of Quebec where low incomes and slow economic growth are prevalent or where opportunities for productive employment are inadequate, to emphasize on long-term economic development and sustainable employment and income creation and to focus on small-and medium-sized enterprises and the development and enhancement of entrepreneurial talent.

Legislation

- Atlantic Enterprise Loan Insurance Regulations with regard to projects in the Province of Quebec (P.C. 1986 1107, P.C. 1991 1114, P.C. 1993 1671)
- Department of Industry Act regarding regional economic development in the Province of Quebec (P.C. 1995 1536, P.C. 1995 1537)
- Enterprise Development Regulations with regard to contributions and projects in the Province of Quebec (C.R.C. 1969 P.C. 1991 1113, P.C. 1993 1671)
- Industrial and Regional Development Act regarding activities in the Province of Quebec (P.C. 1991 1118, P.C. (1993 1671)
- Small Business Loans Act (P.C. 1991-1116, 1993-1671)
- Special Areas Act regarding activities in the Province of Quebec (P.C. 1991 1118, P.C. 1993 1671)

Organization

As member of the Industry Portfolio, Canada Economic Development reports to the Minister of Industry Canada. A Secretary of State assumes the Agency's responsibilities for the economic development of the regions of Quebec.

Canada Economic Development for the Regions of Quebec is headquartered in Montréal and has a network of 13 regional business offices in various regions of Quebec, as well as a virtual office on the web site.

The Executive Assistant and Ministerial Advisor, Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, Assistant Deputy Minister, Strategy and Liaison, Director General, Communications, Director General, Resource Management and Director, Legal Services, report to the Deputy Minister.

Deputy Minister

The Deputy Minister is responsible, on behalf of the Minister, for the day-to-day management of the Agency. He also supports and contributes to collective management of the government. He acts as senior policy advisor for the Minister and the government, and is assisted in his activities by the Executive Assistant and Ministerial Advisor, who serves as a co-ordinator in support of senior management. The Executive Assistant and Ministerial Advisor heads the Corporate Secretariat, which is responsible for document management, ministerial correspondence, parliamentary relations and enforcement of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Operations

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, is responsible for program development and the delivery of all Agency products and services, as well as for negotiating and managing partnership agreements with other federal departments and outside organizations, such as financial institutions. He is in charge of implementing agreements with the Quebec government, including the Infrastructure Agreement and the Agreement on the Temporary Economic Reconstruction Program. The Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, heads the Strategic Initiatives and Product Development Branch, the Regional Operations Branch and a network of 13 business offices throughout Quebec.

The regional offices, located in various parts of Quebec, are nerve centres for the delivery of the programs and services of Canada Economic Development for the Regions of Quebec. They play an active role in establishing the Agency's priorities and approaches and in adjusting programs and services to the local situation. Regional teams represent the Agency with local organizations and hold consultations with the community. They also enable the Government of Canada to publicize its policies and its activities with regard to the economic development of the regions.

Strategy and Liaison

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Strategy and Liaison, is responsible for defining the Agency's strategic orientations, carrying out the necessary socio-economic studies, providing the Agency's input to the creation of national policy, promoting Quebec regional interests at the federal level, maintaining the quality system, the performance measurement and managing information. He administers three operational entities: the Policy and Advocacy Branch, located in Hull, the Planning and Strategic Orientations Branch and the Information Management Branch.

Communications

The Communications Branch is responsible for developing and implementing a communication program to inform the public of the Agency's contribution and, in the case of special mandates, the Government of Canada's contribution, to the economic development of the regions of Quebec.

Resource Management

The Resource Management Branch (human, financial and administrative resources) is responsible for creating programs and policies and delivering strategic and corporate services in all areas related to the management of resources. The Branch participates in implementing the Expenditure Management System, controlling revenues and expenditures and drawing up financial policies, procedures and systems. It ensures liaison with the Office of the Auditor General of Canada, the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Public Service Commission. Lastly, it is responsible for management of administrative and real property services, government contracts and purchasing.

Legal Services

The Legal Services Branch provides legal assistance and opinion relevant to Agency activities. More specifically, Legal Services activities focus on commercial law and its impact on public law. The Branch also provides litigation support services.

The Canada Business Service Centre (CBSC) Initiative was introduced to provide Canadian firms with easier access to a wide range of information on government services, programs and regulations. There are currently 34 federal business departments and agencies participating in this initiative, as well as other levels of government and non-governmental organizations.

Three regional development agencies and Industry Canada (IC) are designated as federal managing partners and are responsible for the development and management of the CBSCs in their areas.

Currently there are twelve CBSC centres, one in every province, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon. The participants and designated federal managing partners who are responsible for the development and management of the CBSCs vary from province to province. Western Economic Diversification (WD) manages the centres in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Industry Canada manages the centres in Ontario, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. The Canada Economic Development Agency for Quebec Regions (CED) manages the Quebec centre. The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA) manages the centres in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

A national CBSC Secretariat provides centralized support to the network of regional CBSCs and promotes development of the CBSC initiative. The Secretariat is located at Industry Canada. Guidelines for operation of the Secretariat are issued by the Assistant Deputy Ministers' Managing Partners Committee, with representatives from ACOA, WED, IC and CED. It acts as the secretariat for the Managers Operating Committee, the Information Management Committee and the Information Specialists Committee. It also coordinates the dissemination of information from participating federal business departments.

Canada Industrial Relations Board
Chapter 12

General Information

Background
The original Canada Industrial Relations Board (organized in 1948) was composed of members representing both management and labour appointed by the federal government to deal, on a part-time basis, with the orderly resolution of trade union representation disputes under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

The Canada Industrial Relations Board was established in its present form in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, CL-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, c.18) and became effective March 1, 1973. The Board is a quasi-judicial body with statutory and regulatory powers pertaining to the administration of Part I of the Canada Labour Code dealing with industrial relations. The members of the Board are non-representational full-time appointees with experience and knowledge of industrial relations and labour law. As members of a non-partisan board they are prohibited from holding any other remunerated office or employment. In general, Part I of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility: that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

Under Part II of the Code, the Board must, upon referral of a safety officer's decision, inquire into the circumstances giving rise to the decision and may confirm the decision or give any direction which the safety officer is entitled to give. The Board also rules on complaints by employees that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

Responsibilities
The Board's responsibility is set out above. On finding a violation of the Code, the Board is empowered to order reinstatement and compensation where appropriate. It is also empowered, upon application, to order employees to return to work in cases of illegal work stoppages and to attempt to resolve or adjudicate, where necessary, various other types of disputes that may arise under Part I of the Code.

Legislation
- Canada Labour Code (Parts I and II)
- Canada Industrial Relations Board Regulations, 1978, SOR 78-499

Organization
The Board has a single program consisting of the administration and interpretation of certain sections of Part I and Part II of the Canada Labour Code. It is supported in this activity by investigation and mediation staff in offices located in Dartmouth, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, as well as at its headquarters in Ottawa.

Review and Enforcement of Orders
Description: Applications to amend or rescind previous Board decisions or to reconsider previous decisions; requests to file Board orders in the federal court to give them the weight of an Order of the Court; or applications for the written consent of the Board to prosecute an offence under the Canada Labour Code. Topics: Application for review; filing of Board order in court; consent to prosecute. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 025

Safety of Employees
Description: Complaints by employees either alleging that their employer has imposed a penalty on them because they refused to work in accordance with their rights under Part II of the Canada Labour Code (Refusal to Work because of a Dangerous Situation, or requesting the Board to review a safety officer's decision concerning a refusal to work on grounds of a dangerous situation). Program Record Number: CLR OPS 020

Unlawful Work Stoppage
Description: Applications by an employer (in the case of a strike) or by a trade union (in the case of a lockout) for a declaration that the work stoppage is unlawful and for an order returning employees to work. Topics: Applications concerning unlawful strikes; applications in cases of unlawful lockout. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 015

Personal Information Banks

Religious Objections
Description: This bank contains applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union. The Board may order that a provision in a collective agreement requiring membership in a trade union or the payment of union dues as a condition of employment, not be applied to such employees. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an employee's objections to membership in a trade union are based on true religious convictions. Consistent Uses: Religious objections may occasionally require a public hearing to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision regarding the objections. Such a hearing may result in the publication of a written judgement containing the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting, or rejecting, the application. Retention and Disposal Standards: Simple cases (i.e., those that are withdrawn or settled without the holding of a public hearing) are kept for two years and then destroyed. Other cases are kept by the Board for 10 years, and then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Related to PR#: CLR OPS 030 TBS Registration: 002331 Bank Number: CLR PPU 015

Termination of Bargaining Rights
Description: This bank contains case files concerning applications for revocation of certifications which grant bargaining agents (unions) the right to represent employees in collective bargaining with employers in the federal jurisdiction. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an individual is a member of the bargaining unit and therefore entitled to express support for or against his or her bargaining agent. Consistent Uses: Applications for revocation may occasionally require a public hearing in order to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision and may result in the publication of a written judgement which will contain the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting or rejecting it. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for five years for successful applications and three years for unsuccessful applications, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Cases which are withdrawn are destroyed after two years. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 005 TBS Registration: 000102 Bank Number: CLR PPU 010

Violations of the Canada Labour Code

Description: This bank contains case files concerning complaints by individuals that a section, or sections, of the Canada Labour Code, Parts I and II have been violated by their employer, their union, or another individual. Files may contain information on grievances, work records, or letters from unions or employers containing opinions or comments about individuals. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Information about individuals is obtained solely for the purpose of bringing about a settlement to the dispute or, failing settlement, for the purpose of adjudication by the Board on the merits of the complaint. Consistent Uses: Information contained in case files, along with testimony given at public hearings may be published in written judgements which set out the Board's reasons for rejecting or upholding a complaint. Personal information is used solely for the purpose of settling or deciding on the merits of each case and is published solely for the purpose of explaining the Board's reasons for its decision and its policy in like cases. Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files are kept for five years if successful and three years if unsuccessful, and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Settled cases are kept for the minimum two years required and then destroyed. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 010 TBS Registration: 000101 Bank Number: CLR PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

Other Personal Information Banks

Other case files and subject files held by operational services may contain personal information such as names of individuals, addresses, position titles, job descriptions, salaries, and membership in a trade union. The information is not retrievable by personal identifiers and is collected solely for the purpose of administering the Canada Labour Code. All files are organized by file number and are maintained by operational services at headquarters in Ottawa. Regional offices retain duplicate files for the purposes of investigation until the settlement of a case. Some personal information such as job descriptions and salaries may be published in written judgements where it is pertinent to the background of a case in which the Canada Industrial Relations Board decides its decision requires formal elaboration. Such information is usually the result of testimony given at public hearings.

Canada Information Office

Chapter 13

General Information

Background

The Canada Information Office (CIO) was created on July 9, 1996, with the mandate to inform Canadians about their country, each other, the renewal of the federation and the role of the Government of Canada in meeting the needs of Canadians through the delivery of its programs and services.

In April 1998, following the creation of the ad hoc Cabinet Committee on Government Communications (Committee), the CIO came under the responsibility of the Chair of the Committee, the Honourable Alfonso Gagliano, Minister of Public Works and Government Services. As a result, the CIO was given an additional role which is to provide support and advice to the Committee in its efforts to make government communications more effective and efficient. Since then, the CIO's efforts have been focused on improving communications between the government and citizens.

Responsibilities

The key responsibilities of the CIO are to:

- produce and disseminate, in collaboration with other governmental and non governmental organizations, information about Canada as well as the programs, initiatives and services the Government of Canada offers;
- promote citizen-focused government communications, by providing information that is useful to the public and has relevance in their daily lives;
- provide advice and operational support to the government on the most effective and efficient ways to communicate with citizens;
- enhance the regional responsiveness of Government of Canada communications;
- contribute to the revitalization of the government communications community.

Organization

The CIO is organized along three sectors: Planning and Research, Operations and Corporate Services. As well, two additional areas of activity have been temporarily added to the organization. They involve the establishment of a regional communications capability and the renewal of the communications community within the Government of Canada.

Canada Lands Company Limited
Chapter 14

General Information

Background
Canada Lands is a non-agent Crown corporation which is mandated to dispose of strategic real properties no longer required by the Government, and to manage certain select properties, in order to generate "optimal value" to the Canadian taxpayer. Optimal value recognizes financial value realized, economic stimulation, and contribution to quality of life in communities.

The primary financial goal of Canada Lands is to create value and generate the optimal cash flow for its Shareholder, the Government of Canada, while carrying out its mandate in a commercially viable and self-financing manner, without any reliance on government appropriations. Effective consultation with stakeholders and transparent operations are central to the Company's operating philosophy.

The Corporation reports to Parliament through the Minister of Public Works and Government Services.

Organization
The Corporation operates on a regional basis with Vice Presidents in charge of Eastern and Western Canada. Corporate functions include accounting, asset management, finance, human resources, management information systems, public and government affairs and corporate secretarial.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation
Chapter 15

General Information

Background
Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation in January, 1946, by an Act of Parliament. CMHC has authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA). CMHC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors consisting of the chairman of the board, the President, five members from the public at large and two members from the public service, all appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Responsibilities
Under the auspices of the National Housing Act, CMHC has, since its creation, played a pivotal role in developing housing standards, providing choice and affordability in housing and administering social housing programs to assist Canadians in need.

In response to fundamentally different competitive and public policy environments, the Corporation in 1997/1998 not only changed how it conducts its business but reconsidered the very nature of that business itself. The Corporation will direct its efforts to those areas where it is best positioned to better perform the unique role assigned to it by the government on behalf of the Canadian people. The Corporation will realize its goal through four key pillars: Housing Support, Strategy, Insurance and Communications and Marketing.

Legislation
- Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act
- Financial Administration Act
- National Housing Act and Regulations

Organization

♦ Audit and Evaluation Services
Performs comprehensive audits of functions, programs, systems and Federal/Provincial Agreements. In addition, conducts special audits involving non-profit and co-op sponsors, real estate fee managers and approved lenders. Periodically evaluates the continued relevance, success and cost-effectiveness of NHA programs and on that basis, the President, with the Board of Directors, recommends to the Minister or Cabinet the reconfirmation, improvement and discontinuance of NHA programs.

♦ Communications and Marketing
This sector consists of Insurance Marketing and Sales, Corporate Communications and the Canadian Housing Export Centre. It is responsible for developing strategies for communications, marketing and export activities, coordinating business line communications, marketing and export efforts and opportunities, performing corporate marketing research management, product development and distribution, monitoring client needs and market trends and ensuring consistent communications and marketing messages. It also works with the housing industry and Team Canada to develop and promote the export of Canadian housing products, services and expertise abroad.

♦ Corporate Services
This sector is responsible for the business systems required to support many of the operational needs of the Corporation and its financial processes. It includes Finance, Administration Services, Information Technology, Treasury and the Pension Fund.

♦ Housing Support and Legal Services Sector
This sector consists of the Legal Services, Federal-Provincial and Territorial negotiations, Aboriginal Housing (Delivery), Loans Administration, Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program and the Public and Private Partnership.

♦ Human Resources and Organizational Development Directorate

Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board
Chapter 16

General Information

Background
The Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board was established in 1987 as a joint federal/provincial agency pursuant to the federal Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act and by the provincial Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act. These acts brought into law the principles established in a 1985 agreement between the federal government and the provincial government relating to offshore petroleum resources.

Responsibilities
The Board manages the petroleum resources in the Newfoundland offshore area on behalf of the Government of Canada and the Government of Newfoundland and Labrador. Its authority is derived from the legislation implementing the 1985 Atlantic Accord between the two governments.

The Board has a duty to ensure that:

- management of offshore land rights takes place in an orderly way;
- assessments of the resource potential of the offshore area are completed on a timely basis;
- offshore exploration and production activities are conducted in a safe and environmentally responsible manner;
- exploitation of the resource is conducted in accordance with good oilfield practice to optimize recovery and avoid waste;
- operators' procurement decisions are consistent with their statutory obligations and agreements with governments to provide economic and social benefits to Canada, and in particular to Newfoundland; and
- it provides guidance to industry regarding regulatory requirements and encourages continuous improvement in practices that provide for worker safety and environmental protection.

Legislation
- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Newfoundland Act, R.S.N. 1990, c.C-2
- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1987, c.3

Organization
The Board consists of seven members who are appointed for fixed terms of office (The Board currently has six Board members). Three members are appointed by the federal government, three by the provincial government and the Chairman is appointed by both the federal and provincial governments. The Chairman also acts on a full-time basis as Chief Executive Officer.

♦ Exploration Department
This Department is responsible for co-ordinating geophysical and geological program authorizations; monitoring and evaluating geological and geophysical programs and exploratory and delineation drilling; determining significant and commercial discovery areas; evaluating undiscovered resource potential of the Board's area of jurisdiction; providing recommendations on development plans and maintaining geological and geophysical databases and cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

♦ Reservoir Engineering Department
This Department is responsible for oil and gas conservation; assessing discovered resources and productive capacities; administering regulations concerning exploitation schemes for depletion of oil and gas pools, reservoir data acquisition and production rate limitation; reviewing and providing recommendations on well evaluation programs, development plans for oil and gas fields, production accounting procedures and testing programs; maintaining the reservoir database; evaluating conservation and enhanced recovery projects; monitoring field performance; and conducting reservoir performance studies.

♦ Operations and Safety Department
This Department is responsible for reviewing and providing recommendations regarding the approval of offshore petroleum exploration, development and production activities; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; monitoring offshore petroleum activities; conducting safety audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; administering and making recommendations regarding the drafting of regulations, their standards and guidelines; monitoring any conditions of approval; co-ordinating with other agencies as required; and providing status reports of offshore petroleum activities.

♦ Environmental Affairs Department
This Department assesses environmental effects; administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines; establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements; co-ordinates with other environmental agencies; and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

♦ Industrial Benefits Department
This Department provides advice to the Board concerning the administration of the Canada-Newfoundland benefits plan provisions of the legislation, including provisions related to domestic procurement, employment, project management, research and development, education and training, and employment equity.

♦ Legal and Land Department
This Department is responsible for providing legal and land advice and services to the Board. Land matters include the issuance of exploration rights through calls for bids; and the administration of exploration, significant discovery and production licenses.

♦ Administration Department
This Department provides administrative, financial, human resource, and computer services to the Board.

♦ The Executive Committee
The Executive Committee manages the day-to-day activities of the Board. It comprises the Chairman and all of the vice-chairmen.

Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board
Chapter 17

General Information

Background
The Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board was established in 1990 as a joint federal-provincial agency pursuant to the federal Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act and the provincial Canada- Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act. These Acts brought into law the principles established in a 1986 agreement between the federal government and Nova Scotia relating to offshore petroleum resources. The Board has offices in Halifax and Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Responsibilities
The Board's principle responsibilities include:

1) enhancement of safe working conditions for offshore petroleum activities.

2) protection of the environment during offshore petroleum activities.

3) management of offshore petroleum resources to ensure that operators provide for maximum economic recovery and avoid waste.

4) review of industrial benefits matters relating to petroleum activities offshore Nova Scotia so as to ensure that Canadians, with first consideration given to Nova Scotians, have a full and fair opportunity to participate on a competitive basis in the supply of goods and services to be used in any offshore petroleum activities.

5) issuance, in a controlled and fair manner, of licenses required to carry out petroleum exploration and development activities offshore Nova Scotia. The Board also maintains a public registry of licenses, curates samples and geological and geophysical information (which is made available to the public following a statutory confidentiality period), and compiles and develops information on petroleum resources within the Nova Scotia Offshore area.

6) collection, maintenance and distribution of offshore petroleum information to the petroleum industry, governments and the public in general.

Legislation
- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act, S.N.S. 1987, c. 3.
- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1988, c. 28.

Organization
The Board consists of five members who are appointed for fixed terms of office (the Board currently has four Board members with one additional appointment pending). The Government of Canada and the Government of Nova Scotia each appoint two members. The Chairman is appointed by both governments. The Board has appointed a Chief Executive Officer who is responsible for day to day operations of the Board and a staff of nineteen people.

♦ Offshore Petroleum Resources
This Department is responsible for assessing discovered petroleum resources and evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Nova Scotia offshore area; recommending lands for disposition through calls for bids (including the terms and conditions of calls for bids and licences); administering licences under which oil and gas rights are held and maintaining a public registry of such licences; evaluating the results of geological and geophysical surveys and exploratory and development drilling; determining areas to be designated as significant discoveries or commercial discoveries; archiving geological, geophysical and well history reports; and curating cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

♦ Offshore Operations
This Department is responsible for providing recommendations regarding the approval of plans, programs and specific activities related to exploration, development or production; monitoring any conditions of approval; conducting audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; certifying divers and other diving personnel; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; and monitoring and providing status reports on offshore petroleum activities. It is also responsible for conserving oil and gas resources; assessing the productive capacities of wells; monitoring field performance and conducting reservoir performance studies; and administering regulations concerning production schemes, production rate limitations and the acquisition of reservoir data.

♦ Environmental Affairs
This Department assesses the environmental effects of offshore operations as well as risks to offshore operations arising from the physical environment. It administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines, establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements, coordinates with other environmental agencies, and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

♦ Administration, Industrial Benefits and Legal

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resources and legal services to the Board. The Department is responsible for the Board's external communications, including publications and public relations. The Department also administers statutory requirements concerning employment and industrial benefits plans.

Canada Post Corporation

Chapter 18

Note: This institution is not subject to the Access to Information Act.

General Information

Background

Canada Post is a federal Crown corporation, established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, processes and delivers mail across Canada, and between Canada and more than 200 postal administrations around the globe. The Corporation delivers approximately 9 billion messages and parcels annually to over 12 million addresses in rural and urban Canada. Products and services are marketed through a network of almost 20,000 retail points of purchase.

Canada Post, with over 54,000 full and part-time employees, has the third largest work force in Canada outside of government and, with approximately $4 billion in annual revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sectors of the Canadian economy.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records of employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information; employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the competition number and date, if applicable, as well as position title and location. Class of Individuals: Individuals who apply for or are hired to fill temporary and permanent positions with Canada Post Corporation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support internal staffing and external recruitment activities. Consistent Uses: Job applications are screened when vacancies arise. Staffing records are used to provide impartial information to match new and vacant positions to the most qualified candidates (notations of staffing decisions may be stored in the Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802; in Payroll, Benefits and Attendance, CPC PPE 815; and in the Human Resource Information System, CPC PPE 804); to assist in succession planning and career development; to conduct reference checks, provide feedback to candidates regarding their applications and job interviews; and to process complaints, appeals and grievances concerning appointments and promotions (see Grievances and Arbitrations, CPC PPE 813). Limited personal information regarding seniority, surplus and layoffs may be posted, as well as provided to collective bargaining agents. Personal information about successful candidates may be disclosed to unsuccessful candidates under strict conditions of confidentiality, to better explain decisions taken. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Records are retained for two years after last administrative use (which is usually the expiration of the appeal period for competitions), and then destroyed. Layoff/transfer lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001343 Bank Number: CPC PPU 095

♦ Mail Operations

Delivery Control Systems

Description: This bank contains delivery records for signature services (Registered and Security Registered, Cash on Delivery, Insured Mail with Proof of Delivery, Priority Courier); change of address notifications/hold mail request forms; directories or lists of customers used to ensure the accurate delivery of mail and the provision of related services (e.g., Community Mailbox, Group Mailbox and Rural Mailbox Delivery and Electronic Mail) and related correspondence. These records contain such information on customers as name, fees paid, present address, previous address, effective dates, signature and proof of identity (when needed in picking up mail and when filing a change of address notification). Limited account information exists in automated form in the Priority Courier Track and Trace and Electronic Mail systems. Class of Individuals: Customers who subscribe to, or receive, postal signature services, submit a redirection/hold mail application or reside in areas requiring name/address lists to effect postal delivery. Purpose: The records are used to support the provision of postal services, including signature mail services; to control the redirection or holding of mail; to ensure accurate mail delivery where delivery service has changed or is difficult; to facilitate the reconciliation and audit of accounts; and to respond to inquiries or claims (see also Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Electronic name and address lists and related information received from volume mailers are used in creating and addressing Lettermail Plus and Admail Plus items for subsequent delivery. Consistent Uses: Redirection records are also used to correct the mailing lists of large volume mailers where such mailers are using a previous or incorrect address. Change of address notifications are automated for the purpose of producing new address labels. They are also used to update the System for Mail Address Redirection Techniques (SMART). Address information is also disclosed to government institutions under certain circumstances in order to facilitate the collection of Crown debts or the making of Crown payments (see CPC PPU 120 and CPC PPU 090). Retention and Disposal Standards: Signature service records are retained for a maximum of two years after the year of delivery and are then destroyed, with the exception of certain financial records, which are retained for seven years. As a convenience to customers, Electronic Mail data are retained under strict security for six months and are then deleted. Change of address/hold mail records are destroyed six fiscal years after year of transaction. Directories and lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded or obsolete. TBS Registration: 002558 Bank Number: CPC PPU 001

Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Records

Certain information provided by or about individuals may also be found in administrative records, such as general correspondence and organizational planning files, minutes of committee meetings, daily information books, library loan and distribution lists, fixed asset inventory control reports, general ledger reports, audit reports and evaluations, internal electronic mail communications, video recordings and records relating to visits and conferences involving officials of other postal authorities. Several functions also provide advice on employee, customer or contractor matters concerning areas such as employee relations, labour relations, customer service, corporate security, occupational health and safety, etc. This information may exist in the form of personal notes, drafts, letters, case files and electronic mail messages, duplicates of which are often located in other personal information banks. Retention/disposal standards vary, but comply with a two-year minimum.

Corporate Security

This class includes information detailing complaints received by Corporate Security and the remedial action undertaken. The records are chronologically ordered and thus not retrievable by individual identifier. They include occurrence reports which contain the name, address and phone number of the complainant, the names of the other parties involved, the name of the investigating officer and details concerning causes and remedial action. Should the enquiry result in a suspicion of a postal-related crime or offence, or a Criminal Code offence involving the mail, a file number is added to the occurrence report which is transferred to personal information bank Postal Related Crimes/Offenses (see CPC PPU 085 or CPC PPE 824). Otherwise, the occurrence reports are retained for two years, at which time they are destroyed. The purpose of such retention is to allow for statistical analyses and quality control.

Marketing and Sales

This class includes Postage Meter Services and marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and test reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. These records assist in the preparation of account development strategies for national and divisionally managed accounts. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems: Cash Receipts, Money Order Information, Canadian Wildlife Service, National Accounts and Marketing Mailing List.

Undeliverable Mail

This class of records includes lettermail and parcels that, for any cause, cannot be delivered to the addressee or returned to the sender. This includes mail that cannot be delivered for legal reasons, and mail that is refused by the addressee or on which postage due is not paid by the sender on demand. The treatment of this mail is governed by the Undeliverable Mail Regulations. Undeliverable mail is opened to facilitate delivery to addressee or return to sender. Undeliverable admail is not returned to the sender or forwarded to an addressee unless it bears a specific request for return or redirection to another address, or has obvious value. Undeliverable international mail is returned to the country of origin unless marked abandoned, in which case it is treated in the same manner as domestic mail. When undeliverable mail of no obvious value does not contain sufficient information to permit the mail to be returned to the sender or forwarded to the addressee, it is destroyed. Where the mail contains cash or merchandise the cash is deposited to the credit of Canada Post Corporation and the merchandise is sold or otherwise disposed of in a manner approved by the Corporation.

Additional Information

Please see the INTRODUCTION to this publication for information on access procedures under the provisions of the Privacy Act.

Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.

To facilitate access and records retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined in individual bank descriptions.

If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.

Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful. Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records – employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Canadian Artists and Producers Professional Relations Tribunal

Chapter 19

General Information

Background

The Canadian Artists and Producers Professional Relations Tribunal was created pursuant to the Status of the Artist Act which received Royal Assent in June 1992. The provisions of the Act creating the Tribunal were brought into force in June 1993. The first members of the Tribunal were appointed in March 1995 and the Tribunal has been operational since the substantive provisions of the Act were brought into force in May 1995.

One of the most important features of the Status of the Artist Act is that it establishes a framework for the conduct of professional relations between independent professional artists and producers within the federal jurisdiction.

The Act guarantees the right of artists to join associations that can represent their professional interests and gives them a mechanism through which to advance their socio-economic interests by guaranteeing the right to bargain collectively with producers for the purpose of reaching agreement on the minimum terms and conditions under which an artist will provide services to those producers. The Act also permits producers to form associations for the purposes of bargaining and entering into scale agreements.

Responsibilities

The Tribunal is the independent quasi-judicial agency established to administer the framework governing professional relations between self-employed artists and producers under federal jurisdiction that is prescribed by the Status of the Artist Act. The Tribunal's principal responsibilities are:

- to define the sectors of cultural activity subject to federal jurisdiction that are suitable for collective bargaining;
- to certify artists' associations to represent these sectors;
- to hear and decide complaints of unfair practices filed by artists, artists' associations and producers and to prescribe appropriate remedies.

The Tribunal reports to Parliament through the Minister of Labour. However, certain provisions of the Act specify a role for the Minister of Canadian Heritage.

Legislation

- Status of the Artist Act

Organization

The Tribunal is composed of a Chairperson, a Vice-chairperson and not less than two or more than four other full-time or part-time members. The Chairperson is the Chief Executive Officer of the Tribunal and is responsible for the management of the staff and supervision of the work of the Tribunal.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting programs and activities, categories of personal information may be accumulated and stored as part of specific adjudication files and may not be retrieved by name of the individual or other personal identifier. Such personal information may be gathered in the course of conducting a hearing or other activity. This form of personal information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the nature of the matter, the date, or the parties involved. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored. Adjudicative files are retained for thirty years after the last administrative action.

Canadian Centre for Management Development
Chapter 20

General Information

Background
On April 14, 1988, the Prime Minister announced the creation of the Canadian Centre for Management Development (CCMD), dedicated to excellence in teaching and research into public sector management, enhancing public sector management capabilities, and promoting a strong corporate culture in the federal public service. On March 27, 1991, new legislation entitled Canadian Centre for Management Development Act (Bill C-34) received Royal Assent and the Act was officially proclaimed on December 1, 1991.

The Act provides for the creation of a departmental corporation under the general direction of a Board of Governors. The composition of the Board is to be equally divided between public and non-public sector (academic and business) representatives. The Clerk of the Privy Council is the Chairman of the Board. Among other public sector representatives, the Secretary of the Treasury Board, the President of the Public Service Commission and the President of the Centre are ex officio governors.

Responsibilities
The Centre focuses on the learning and management development needs of managers in the federal public sector. Programs are open to all managers, at all levels, in all departments and in all regions. In addition, the Centre has a capacity to undertake research on public sector management. This includes the development of case histories on major initiatives that may be used to broaden the range of management programs offered within the federal public service. There is one campus in the National Capital Region (NCR), situated in the historic LaSalle Academy on Sussex Drive in downtown Ottawa. Courses are also offered at existing facilities in most regions of Canada.

The clientele of the Centre includes managers at all levels, members of the Executive Group, Deputy Ministers and Senior Governor-in-Council appointees.

Legislation
- Canadian Centre for Management Development Act

Organization

Office of the President
The President of the Centre is appointed by the Governor-in-Council and has the rank and status of a deputy minister. The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the Centre and has control over the form and content of programs, studies and publications of the Centre, the appointment of staff, the contracting for services and any other authority normally exercised by a deputy head pursuant to a statute or delegated authority. The President also has responsibilities related to Public Service Renewal. The other positions reporting to the President are listed below.

♦ Program Services
The Director General of Program Services is responsible for the provision of all functions related to finance, administration, evaluation, information management (including information services and informatics), and human resources as well as the registration of participants.

♦ Communications and Outreach Group
The Director General, Communications and Outreach Group, is responsible for overseeing all communication and dissemination activities to ensure a coordinated approach to corporate promotion and marketing.

♦ Career Development Programs Group
The Director General, Career Development Programs, is responsible for the provision of learning programs related to corporate recruitment, assessment and development initiatives. Some programs, such as the Accelerated Executive Development Program (AEXDP), are offered to members of the Executive Group. Other programs, such as the Management Trainee Program (MTP) and the Career Assignment Program (CAP), are designed for feeder groups to the Executive category. In addition, short programs are offered to managers.

♦ Corporate Learning Programs Group
The Director General, Corporate Learning Programs, is responsible for learning programs that equip critical masses of Public Service executives and managers, most of whom are not participants in corporate development programs, to become leaders and learners and to implement strategic change reflecting the values of the Public Service of Canada. Offerings include leadership programs; strategic learning programs dealing with service, policy, diversity and Aboriginal issues; and law programs.

♦ Strategic Research and Planning Group
The Director General, Strategic Research and Planning, is responsible for the conduct and publication of research projects on a wide range of public sector management issues and concerns, the administration of a fellowship program for senior public and private sector officials and academics, and the management of contributions given to a variety of management organizations and associations.

♦ International Cooperation

The Vice-President, International Cooperation, is responsible for creating a single window to broker requests from other countries for access to Canadian public sector expertise. This window will be supported by a partnership of Canadian federal departments and agencies and eventually other suppliers of public sector expertise, including other levels of government, universities and colleges, non-governmental organizations and private sector organizations. The goals are to support public sector management in other countries, provide global exposure and learning opportunities for Canadian public servants, and to market Canadian public sector know-how more effectively. Within this partnership, the Canadian Centre for Management Development will also lead a coalition of organizations working internationally in the fields of governance and public management.

♦ Learning Events

The Director General, Learning Events, is responsible for the development and management of events that create learning opportunities for public service managers across the country in areas of prime importance to the federal government. Many of those events such as the Armchair discussion series, the ADM Forum and the EX induction program are planned and managed in cooperation with CCMD's federal government partners.

Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety

Chapter 21

General Information

Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act, created by Parliament in April, 1978 to act as a national institute to promote the rights of Canadians to a healthy and safe working environment. It is governed by a Council of Governors representing labour, employers and federal, provincial and territorial governments.

Responsibilities

CCOHS promotes a healthier and safer workplace by providing a free occupational health and safety inquiries service to Canadians in both official languages while providing a cost recovery print and electronic information delivery service. The cost recovery service includes publications, training, online electronic services (CCINFOWeb), a CD ROM subscription service (CCINFOdisc), a magnetic tape service, and a diskette service.

Specialized CD ROMs are also offered containing the full text occupational health and safety and environmental legislation, and multimedia education/training packages. Another CD ROM contains regulatory and advisory information on chemicals in the workplace and the environment.

Four membership options are offered to organizations which are interested in supporting the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety and promoting the fundamental right of all Canadians to a healthy and safe workplace.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act
- Financial Administration Act, Schedule II

Organization

CCOHS is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. Its policies are established by the Council of Governors, which consists of a chairman and 12 representatives from labour, employers' organizations, the Council and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. It meets three times a year in Hamilton. The Chairman is appointed by federal Order-in- Council. The President and Chief Executive Officer supervises and directs the work and staff of the Centre.

There are five directorates through which the program is delivered.

Corporate Management

Provides the direction and management of operations at CCOHS.

Inquiries Service

Responds directly to occupational health and safety inquiries from the public.

Health and Safety Products and Services

Provides occupational health and safety products and services to businesses, labour organizations, governments media, and health and safety professionals.

Client Services

Provides the promotion, communication, and customer service for the products available from CCOHS.

Computer Systems and Services

Provides the technical structure and support services for the production and promotion of occupational health and safety products.

CCINFO

Description: CCINFO is CCOHS' electronic information service which consists of delivery of occupational health and safety information.

Databases accessible through CCOHS' electronic services:

- Material Safety Data Sheet (MSDS) is a database of more than 85,000 material safety data sheets as supplied by more than 600 contributors.
- CHEMINFO is a database of comprehensive, practical summarized OSH information on chemicals. Each profile provides a detailed evaluation of health, fire and reactivity hazards, also recommendations on topics such as storage, handling, personal protective equipment, accidental release, first aid and hazard classifications including WHMIS and OSHA.
- Chemical Evaluation Search and Retrieval System (CESARS)is a database that contains comprehensive environmental and health information on chemicals. It provides detailed descriptions of chemical toxicity to humans, mammals, aquatic and plant life, as well as data on physical-chemical properties, and environmental fate and persistence. CESARS is divided into twenty-three topic areas, all contain references and most have topic summaries of key information.

- Domestic/Non-Domestic Substances List(DSL/NDSL) is a database created in accordance with the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA) by Environment Canada. The DSL defines "existing" substances in Canada. The NDSL specifies substances, other than those on the DSL, that were in world commerce, based on the 1985 us toxic substances control act (TSCA) chemical inventory.
- New Jersey Hazardous Substance Fact Sheets (NJHSFS)provides workers, employers, emergency responders, and other with essential information on the hazards and safe use of industrial chemicals and environmental contaminants. Fact sheets contain basic summarized information on the hazards, safe storage, handling, control measures, first aid, and emergency procedures for common chemicals.
- Chemical Hazards Response Information System (CHRIS) is a comprehensive source of emergency response information including health hazards, first-aid, fire hazards, chemical reactivity, transport/handling and more, for over 1,200 common materials.
- Canadian Studies database is a directory of recent Canadian studies in the field of occupational health and safety.
- Transport of Dangerous Goods database contains Canadian hazardous materials shipping information applicable to truck or rail transport. This database provides regulatory information such as shipping name, product identification number, hazard classifications, reportable limits and special provisions for transport. Also included are the North American emergency response guidelines.
- Transport 49CFR database provides U.S. regulatory information on thousands of hazardous materials, the CERCLA reportable quantity list and the list of marine pollutants. It also includes shipping name, hazard classification, labels, special provisions and reportable quantities etc. The North American emergency response guides are included in most records which details information on potential hazards and actions for emergency response.
- Resources database contains a directory of Canadian organizations and people involved in the field of occupational health and safety. Records are as provided by contributors.
- Canadiana is a database which includes annotated references to occupational health and safety documents published in Canada, about Canadian subjects or by Canadian authors. It also includes references on reports, articles, conference proceedings, monographs and unpublished materials.
- Case Law is a database containing summaries of cases and decisions related to occupational health and safety from jurisdictions across Canada. Information on the cases includes, for example, jurisdiction, forum, year and summary. Data are contributed by the organizations which actually prepare the summaries.
- Essentials is a bibliographic database providing essential references in various health and safety areas. Topics and references are selected by CCOHS subject specialists to provide users with necessary or key information on a topic..
- Fatality Reports database provides information about the circumstances surrounding occupationally related fatalities. Data are taken from reports on inquests and inquiries into occupationally related fatalities across Canada.
- Noise Levels database measures the noise level in actual work situations involving different types of equipment and occupations in various industries. Data are taken from the results of measurements from both published and unpublished sources.
- Mining Incidents database contains descriptive information on occupational health and safety incidents in mining.
- MOLINDEX database provides references to labour issues, including occupational health and safety. It covers selected periodicals, reports, conference proceedings and data sheets.

Canadian Commercial Corporation
Chapter 22

General Information

Background
A federal Crown Corporation established in 1946 by an Act of Parliament, CCC is the official export sales agency of the Government of Canada. It has a broad legislated mandate: "to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations".

Responsibilities
CCC is an integral part of the Government of Canada's trade team offering services which complement the export financing and insurance activities of Export Development Corporation as well as the market intelligence and promotional activities of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT) and other federal departments and agencies.

CCC provides Canadian exporters with a range of export sales, consulting, contract management and access to pre-shipment financing services to help them win sales on better terms, in a variety of market sectors around the world.

The Corporation specialises in sales to foreign governments and international organisations, particularly in the aerospace and defence markets and is responsible for maintaining the Canada/U.S. Defence Production Sharing Agreement (DPSA), which provides access for Canadian companies selling to the U.S. Department of Defence.

CCC also assists foreign buyers to identify sources of supply in Canada and may act as a prime contractor when foreign buyers are sourcing Canadian products and/or services, whether they are sole source or competitive tendering.

Legislation
- Canadian Commercial Corporation Act

Organization
The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives, public service officials and the President of the Corporation. The President and Chief Executive officer directs the business of the Corporation and exercises further power and duties as assigned by the Board.

♦ Human Resources & Administration
The unit oversees the human resources, administration, health and safety, official languages, translation and security requirements of the Corporation.

♦ Business Development & Strategic Planning
This unit is responsible for increasing awareness of CCC services among exporters and trade intermediaries. It works to increase CCC linkages and partnerships with federal trade departments and agencies, provincial agencies, trade associations and financial institutions. It focuses on sectoral marketing, communications, promotes contact with buying agencies where CCC offers advantages, identifies new opportunities for exporters and matches them to Canadian sources of supply and develops new services to meet exporters' needs. This unit is also responsible for planning and implementing the IM/IT infrastructure for the Corporation.

♦ International & U.S. Business
These units handle all CCC contract operations in both U.S. and International markets, including preparation of bids and proposals, contract negotiations and contracting administration as well as account marketing and liaison. These units are also responsible for the Progress Payment Program that gives access to pre-shipment financing to some small and medium sized enterprises.

♦ Risk and Financial Services
This unit is responsible for ensuring sound financial and risk management practices for all policies and programs of the Corporation.

Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board
Chapter 23

General Information

Background
The Cultural Property Export Review Board was established through the Cultural Property Export and Import Act on September 6, 1977. The duties of the Review Board as set out in section 20 of the Act are: pursuant to section 29, to review applications for export permits; pursuant to section 30, to make determinations respecting fair cash offers to purchase; and pursuant to section 32 and section 33.1, to make determinations and redeterminations for the purpose of subparagraph 39(1)(a)(i.1) or 110(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Administrative services to the Review Board are provided through the Department of Canadian Heritage by the Movable Cultural Property Secretariat. All Review Board files are housed with the Secretariat. The personal information they contain pertains to members of the Review Board, applications for grants, loans, cultural property export permits, appeals against the refusal of cultural property export permits and applications for the certification of cultural property submitted on behalf of donors or vendors. Application forms are filed by number but can be accessed through a manual cross-index or automated system containing the name of the appellant (in the case of an appeal) or the donor/vendor (in the case of certification). Review Board member files are maintained in alphabetical order.

Responsibilities
The Review Board is responsible for preserving in Canada significant examples of Canadian heritage in movable cultural property, reviewing applications for export permits, making determinations on fair cash offers to purchase and making determinations for the purposes of the Income Tax Act. It also provides advice to the Minister of Canadian Heritage on matters affecting the preservation in Canada of the heritage in movable cultural property. In particular, it recommends to the Minister, pursuant to section 35 of the Act, grants and loans to designated institutions and public authorities in Canada for the purchase of objects for which permits have been refused under the Act, or for the purchase of cultural property outside Canada that is related to the national heritage. The grants and loans are made out of monies appropriated annually by Parliament.

In reviewing an application for an export permit the Board must determine whether the object in question: is included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List; is of outstanding significance by reason of its close association with Canadian history or national life, its aesthetic qualities or its value in the study of the arts or sciences; is of such a degree of national importance that its loss would significantly diminish the national heritage.

Where the Review Board determines that the cultural property subject of an application meets the criteria of outstanding significance and national importance, and the cultural property qualifies for certification for income tax purposes, the Review Board issues a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate to the designated institution or public authority making such an application. It should be noted that objects proposed for certification need not be included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List. Thus objects less than 50 years old or made by a living person may qualify. It should also be noted that a certified cultural property subject of a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is exempt from tax on taxable capital gains when disposed of (by gift or sale) to an institution or public authority in Canada designated for the purpose and, in the case of a donation, also qualifies for the 100 percent tax credit provision under the Income Tax Act.

Legislation
- Cultural Property Export and Import Act

Organization
♦ Movable Cultural Property Secretariat
The Secretariat provides administrative services to the Review Board and coordinates the export control system.

Canadian Dairy Commission
Chapter 24

General Information

Background
The Canadian Dairy Commission, established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act in October 1966, is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. A chairman and chief executive officer, a vice-chairman and a commissioner are appointed by Governor in Council to head the corporation. Funded by the federal government, producers and the marketplace, the Commission strives to balance and serve the interests of all dairy stakeholders – producers, processors, further processors, exporters, consumers and governments.

Responsibilities
The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission has the authority to purchase, store, process or sell dairy products; to make payments to milk and cream producers for the purpose of stabilizing the price of industrial milk and cream; to investigate matters relating to the production, processing or marketing of any dairy product; and to help promote the use of dairy products.

In meeting its legislated objectives, the Commission calculates support prices at which it will purchase butter and skim milk powder. These prices are used as a reference at the provincial level in pricing milk components sold to processors. It also works with the private sector to balance the seasonal demand and supply of industrial milk products for the domestic market and facilitates the export of those products which are surplus to Canadian requirements.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through the establishment of Market Sharing Quotas (MSQ) as determined by provisions of the National Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, in chairing the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), calculates and recommends the level of national MSQ and provincial market shares that are determined by the CMSMC.

The Commission administers the federal subsidy payment to producers which reduces the price required by producers from the marketplace, thereby moderating consumers' costs for dairy product purchases.

Legislation
- Canadian Dairy Commission Act
- Farm Income Protection Act

Organization
CDC policy analysts, agricultural economists, financial and marketing specialists, communications specialists, and support staff carry out work which ranges from helping industry develop broad dairy policies and setting the national quota for industrial milk, to assessing the changing demand for dairy products, and facilitating the export of dairy products on the world market.

Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency
Chapter 25

General Information

Background
The Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency (the Agency) was created on December 21, 1994 to administer the federal environmental assessment process under the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act. The Agency replaced the Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO), and reports directly to the Minister of the Environment. Its mission is to provide effective means of integrating environmental factors into federal planning and decision-making in a manner that takes into account public values and the goal of sustainable development.

Responsibilities
The Agency's main responsibilities are: to administer the federal environmental assessment process; to provide legal, procedural and policy advice to the Minister of the Environment on the Minister's responsibilities under the Act; to provide opportunities for public participation in the federal environmental assessment (EA) process and to promote sound environmental assessment practices.

Legislation
The Canadian Environmental Assessment Act and its regulations: the Law List, Comprehensive Study List, Inclusion List and Exclusion List, the Projects Outside Canada Environmental Assessment Regulations and the Coordination by Federal Authorities of Environmental Assessment Procedures and Requirements Regulations.

Organization
The Agency is divided into three main sectors: Program Delivery, Policy Development and Corporate Services.

PROGRAM DELIVERY SECTOR

♦ PROJECT ASSESSMENT
Project Assessment develops and manages effective and independent public reviews and mediations to fulfil the Agency's mission and manages the Participant Funding Program.

It also undertakes and manages the Agency's responsibilities for comprehensive studies and class screenings; and advocates timely, efficient, high quality environmental assessments of projects.

♦ REGIONAL LIAISON AND GUIDANCE
Regional Liaison and Guidance provides the Agency's clients with information, advice and services to enhance the quality of environmental assessment and promotes compliance with the Act and its regulations. It provides advice and training on good environmental assessment practices.

The regional offices work with other federal departments and agencies, the provinces and other clients to coordinate and harmonize assessment requirements and procedures for specific project reviews.

Regional Liaison and Guidance also provides advice and support services to the federal administrator of the James Bay and Northern Quebec Agreement (JBNQA); and, manages the environmental assessment processes established under the JBNQA and related environmental assessment.

POLICY DEVELOPMENT SECTOR

♦ LEGISLATIVE AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS
Legislative and Regulatory Affairs provides a legislative and regulatory framework for integrating environmental assessment into federal decision making; monitors and promotes compliance within that framework; and explores alternatives to regulations.

It provides support to the Regulatory Advisory Committee and the Senior Management Committee on Environmental Assessment.

♦ POLICY ANALYSIS
Policy Analysis facilitates the consistent application of federal environmental assessment requirements through interdepartmental co-ordination and harmonization with environmental assessment processes of provinces and other jurisdictions.

It provides advice on Aboriginal environmental assessment matters to the Agency and other clients in order to shape the federal approach to integrating environmental assessment requirements into comprehensive land claims agreements, self government agreements and federal devolution initiatives.

CORPORATE SERVICES SECTOR

♦ COMMUNICATIONS
Communications provides communications advice and specialized information management services to internal and external clients in support of the Agency's objectives; promotes environmental assessment to the public; and manages the Federal Environmental Assessment Index (FEAI), the Agency's Internet site and a communications program which facilitate informed public participation in the federal environmental assessment process. The FEAI can be accessed at http://www.ceaa.gc.ca.

♦ FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION
Finance and Administration provides financial and administrative advice to the Agency; including the development of mechanisms for cost recovery.

♦ HUMAN RESOURCES
Human Resources provides professional advice and human resources services to all of the Agency's employees.

♦ MINISTERIAL SERVICES
Ministerial Services manages Parliamentary relations, ministerial services and correspondence.

♦ LEGAL SERVICES
Legal Services provides professional legal services to the Agency and other federal departments regarding the design and implementation of the Act and the environmental assessment regulatory framework.

Classes of Personal Information

General Correspondence
Correspondence received from external organizations and individuals in the format of requests for information, complaints, comments and suggestions related to a broad range of issues pertaining to the Agency.

The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer. However, this information is fragmented throughout the subject files and is normally retrievable only if the name, subject and the date of correspondence is provided.

Information pertaining to environmental assessments may be disclosed to foreign, provincial or municipal governments as well as other interested parties unless the individual expressly requests confidentiality.

The retention periods of these classes of personal information depend on the record disposal schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Mailing Lists
This class contains correspondence and mailing lists, which may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name, mailing address at home or business.

The purpose of this class is to maintain standard lists for the mailing of publications, reports, press releases and other documentation on the Agency's activities and programs.

Records on the automated system are updated as required to take changes into account.

Ministerial Correspondence
This class of information contains correspondence addressed to the Minister and received by the Agency's correspondence unit from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of issues pertaining to the Agency's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondents. This type of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject are provided.

Information pertaining to environmental assessments may be disclosed to foreign, provincial or municipal governments as well as other interested parties unless the individual expressly requests confidentiality.

The retention period for these classes of information depends on the record schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Canadian Film Development Corporation
Chapter 26

General Information

Background
The Canadian Film Development Corporation was established by an Act of Parliament (R.S.C. 1970, c. C-8) in March 1967. The Corporation, publicly known as Telefilm Canada, is responsible for fostering the growth and development of the Canadian film, television and video and multimedia industry.

Responsibilities
The Government of Canada acts as a partner to the private film and broadcast sector through Telefilm Canada, which provides support either in the form of financial investment or through the other resources at its disposal.

The Corporation meets the diverse needs of the industry through a wide range of funds. Support is available at all stages of the process, from screenplay development to final production and beyond to the distribution and marketing of finished products in Canada and abroad.

Telefilm Canada is a Crown corporation that reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage. It is headed by a board of directors, whose chair is appointed by the Governor in Council. On the recommendation of the Corporation's board, the Governor in Council also appoints an executive director, who acts as chief executive officer and is responsible for day-to-day operations. The Corporation is headquartered in Montreal and maintains offices in Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax and Paris.

Legislation
- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act, R.S.C. 1970, c. C-8.

Organizational Structure

♦ Policy, Planning and Research
This division is responsible for the formulation of policies and strategies for the administration of Telefilm Canada funds. It is also responsible for establishing formal liaison with industry representatives and federal and provincial institutions, and for the evaluation of the cultural and industrial impact of the Corporation's policies. Further divisional responsibilities include studies on the effects of the Corporation's various programs and the evolution of the industry in general, aimed at improving long-term planning and ensuring that Telefilm's activities effectively meet industry needs.

♦ Canadian Operations
This division has overall responsibility for the administration of Telefilm Canada's principal funds: the Feature Film Fund, the Canadian Television Fund - Equity Investment Program and the Multimedia Fund. It co-ordinates decision-making and production, distribution and development activities among the Canadian offices of the Corporation.

♦ Finance and Administration
This division is responsible for financial planning, disbursement and commitment monitoring, financial tracking, personnel management, computer systems, legal affairs and contract management.

♦ International Relations
This division comprises the Co-productions and International Markets departments and the Paris office. It is responsible for administering international co-production agreements on behalf of the Canadian government and takes part in treaty negotiations. Co-production agreements have been signed with Algeria, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Brazil, Chile, China, Commonwealth of Independent States, Croatia, Cuba, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Malta, Mexico, Morocco, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Romania, Russian Federation, Slovak Republic, Slovenia, South Africa, South Korea, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, Venezuela. The division evaluates applications submitted under these treaties and makes recommendations to the Minister of Canadian Heritage regarding provisional and final approval.

The Communications, Public Affairs and Festivals division completes the organizational structure of the Corporation.

Canadian Food Inspection Agency
Chapter 27

General Information

Background
To enhance effectiveness and efficiency, the Government of Canada decided to consolidate federally mandated food and fish inspection and animal and plant health activities into a single federal agency reporting to the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. On April 1, 1997 the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) opened its doors.

The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food is responsible for and has overall direction of the Canadian Food Inspection Agency. The CFIA is headed by a President who reports directly to the Minister. The President is supported by an Executive Vice-President as outlined in the Agency's legislation. An advisory board of not more than 12 members advises the Minister on any issue related to the Agency.

The Minister of Health remains responsible for establishing policies and standards relating to the safety and nutritional quality of food sold in Canada. The Minister of Health is also responsible for assessing the effectiveness of the Agency's activities related to food safety.

Responsibilities
Canadian Food Inspection Agency's Mandate is to enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of federal inspection and related services for food and animal and plant health.

CFIA Mission:

Safe food, market access, consumer protection

CFIA Objectives:

1)To contribute to a safe food supply and accurate product information

2)To contribute to the continuing health of animals and plants for protection of the resource base.

3)To facilitate trade in food, animals, plants and their products

Canadian Heritage
Chapter 28

General Information

Background
The Department of Canadian Heritage was created on June 25, 1993, through the reorganization of the federal government. The Act to establish the Department of Canadian Heritage and to amend or repeal certain other acts was proclaimed on June 12, 1996. The Department's mission is to strengthen and celebrate Canada – its people and its land. We honour this commitment to Canadians by enhancing pride in Canada; contributing to Canada's economic growth and prosperity; protecting Canada's heritage; ensuring access to Canadian voices and Canadian spaces and encouraging participation in and contribution to Canadian Society.

Responsibilities
The Department of Canadian Heritage is responsible for policies and programs relating to arts, culture, movable heritage, archaeology, broadcasting, Canadian identity, multiculturalism, official languages and sport, as well as broad policies relating to built and natural heritage.

Areas of responsibility include: developing Canadian cultural affairs and broadcasting policy; assisting cultural industries and arts and heritage organizations; encouraging the creation, production, distribution and consumption of cultural and heritage goods and services; fostering Canadians' collective sense of self and promoting the civic participation of all members of Canadian society; promoting a greater understanding of human rights; enhancing the participation of urban and off-reserve aboriginal organizations in Canadian society; managing programs and initiatives related to the multicultural character of Canadian society; encouraging and developing amateur sport; advancing the equality of status and use of the official languages and supporting the development of official-language minority communities.

Legislation
The following statutes are administered, in whole or in part, by the portfolio of Canadian Heritage:

- An Act to Incorporate the Jules et Paul-Emile Léger Foundation
- Broadcasting Act

Organization

Deputy Minister's Office

Human Resources Branch

Reporting to the Deputy Minister, the Human Resources Branch provides services and advice to the Management Committee and to managers of the Department on all matters involving human resources management. Thus, the Branch ensures human resources services in the National Capital Region and in Regional Offices.

Legal Services Branch

Reporting to the Deputy Minister, the Legal services are provided by lawyers from the Department of Justice who offer program managers a wide range of services, including preparing opinions on the laws administered by the Department, drafting regulatory texts and giving advice on policies being developed.

Canadian Identity Sector

The Citizenship and Canadian Identity program encourages the use of the two official languages in Canadian Society and promotes their equal status; coordinates the cross-government commitment to multiculturalism; advances opportunities for Canadians of all ethno cultural background to participate in and contribute fully to Canadian society; promotes volunteerism and enhances the independence of the voluntary sector. It supports Aboriginal peoples in their efforts to resolve issues affecting their lives in Canadian society. The program supports the advancement of Canadian studies; promotes young people's involvement in Canadian society; encourages Canadians to value sport and to participate; advises in matters of state protocol, manages state ceremonial and events and promotes Canadian symbols and institutions. It is responsible for increasing the awareness, knowledge and enjoyment of human rights and fostering compliance with Canada's human rights obligations.

Policy Coordination and Strategic Planning Branch

The Policy Coordination and Strategic Planning Branch directs the strategic planning process and coordinates policy development for the Sector. It provides policy advice to the Minister of Canadian Heritage and the Secretary of State (Multiculturalism) (Status of Women) with respect to the Sector's four product/service lines: Sport, Official Languages, Canadian Identity and Multiculturalism. The Branch also represents the Sector's interests by taking part in intradepartmental and interdepartmental working groups. In addition, it conducts research on public opinion and socio-demographic factors in order to better orient the Sector's strategic decision-making at the Sector level.

Citizens' Participation and Multiculturalism Branch

The Citizens' Participation and Multiculturalism Branch is composed of three Directorates:

- Canadian Identity Directorate
- Citizens' Participation Directorate
- Multiculturalism Directorate

Canadian Studies

Encourages Canadians to learn about Canada, provides technical and financial assistance to eligible individuals, organizations, private sector companies and corporations, and educational institutions working to advance the field of Canadian studies in Canada to support the development of learning and education. Administers funding programs to support the development of Canadian studies learning materials in a number of priority areas which allow Canadians to learn more about the country, and to encourage greater private sector funding of Canadian studies projects. Initiates and engages in partnership/strategic alliances, and special initiatives to achieve the Program's goals. Manages the Terra Nova initiative which finances and assists the development of state-of-the-art learning and information products, including CD-ROMs and material for electronic networks. As well, the Program produces several publications providing information on current Canadian issues.

Youth Participation Program

The Youth Participation, through its Open House Canada component, provides financial support to national non-profit organizations which administer reciprocal group exchanges and national forums for Canadians between the ages of 14 and 19. Funding is used to cover part of the transportation costs of eligible participants. These activities are learning opportunities for young Canadians aimed at increasing their knowledge, appreciation and respect for the diversity of Canadian society and its institutions and encouraging active citizen participation so as to contribute towards national harmony.

The Program also funds Katimavik, a national youth volunteer service which allows bilingual groups of Canadians aged 17 to 21 to experience their country, serve the community, learn to work together as a group, and develop leadership and communication skills. Katimavik participants spend 36 weeks living in groups of about 11 and working on community projects in three different locations (two predominantly Anglophone and one predominantly francophone). For more information, please contact Katimavik at 1-888-525-1503.

The Youth Participation Program also coordinates Canada's participation in the Commonwealth Youth Program which is aimed at promoting the overall well-being and development of young people in the Commonwealth.

Ceremonial and Canadian Symbols Promotion

Coordinates the organization and the delivery of state ceremonies and activities such as royal visits, unveiling ceremonies and state funerals. It supports the role of the Crown in Canada through assistance to the offices of Lieutenant Governors and the provision of advice on the exercise of royal prerogatives. It also manages the Government of Canada gift bank and coordinates activities regarding the use of Parliament Hill. It also provides advice on precedence, titles and flag etiquette. It is responsible for planning and coordinating Canada Day celebrations across the country through the Department's input in the Citizenship and Heritage Week, as well as volunteer provincial/territorial committees. An active part of all program components is the promotion of Canadian symbols. The program also oversees the flag program by distributing flags and other materials to members of the House of Commons and Senate.

National Strategic Alliances

The National Strategic Alliances Program, established in 1996, provides sections of the Department of Canadian Heritage, in particular the Canadian Identity Directorate with the necessary policy and programming tools to establish partnerships with not- for -profit organizations, corporate Canada and other government departments.

This internal service assists managers in actively involving the private sector, non-governmental organizations, other government departments and agencies in the promotion and enhanced knowledge, understanding and appreciation of Canada, Canadian identity and participatory citizenship. A policy framework for corporate sponsorship for the Directorate and practical tools (i.e., the "how to") have been developed. In addition, several partnerships arrangements have been successfully negotiated and executed. This includes Canada Day corporate sponsorships, business ventures and marketing of the Canadian Studies multi media Program called Terra Nova.

The Program identifies opportunities to expand corporate partnership relationships and other strategic alliances through a network of managers across government called PARTNERNET. This group currently consists of 12 government departments/portfolio agencies including 85 practioners who are integrating these strategies in their programs and services.

The Program maintains a resource database on information , tools and instruments to support managers in the development of strategic alliances.

National Initiatives

Co-ordinates the organization and delivery of timely initiatives that reinforce the issues of awareness and pride in Canada and being Canadian. Such initiatives are delivered in a closely prescribed period of time and involve the participation of other departments and agencies of the Government of Canada as well as additional sectors such as other levels of government, the private and volunteer sectors. It is responsible for taking such initiatives through all stages, from the preliminary concept to the final product delivered to the public. Three of the most recognized initiatives have been the "One In A Million Flag Challenge" (which witnessed an additional one million Canadian flags flying across the country as well as the resulting increase in awareness of the importance of national symbols), the "With Flying Colours" education kit (a multi media kit designed to assist Canadian educators with the teaching of Canadian symbols, values and institutions) and the "Path of Heroes" (an initiative designed to promote the importance of great Canadians in the building of the country and the ongoing role of each Canadian in bettering their society and country).

♦ Citizens Participation Directorate

The Directorate promotes volunteerism and enhances the independence of the voluntary sector, promotes the development, understanding, respect for and enjoyment of human rights in Canada; coordinates the domestic implementation of international human rights instruments, and promotes the full social, cultural and economic potential of Aboriginal people off-reserve and their equitable participation in Canadian society.

Community Partnerships Program

Promotes the growth and diversity of the voluntary sector and enhances its independence. The Program promotes volunteerism at a national level. It provides technical and professional resources to national, regional and local voluntary organizations in carrying out charitable activities. The voluntary sector includes charitable and non-profit organizations working together for the purpose of enhancing communities across Canada.

Human Rights Program

Promotes knowledge of human rights through various education and promotion activities, and coordinates the preparation of Canada's reports on the implementation of United Nations and other international human rights instruments. The activities of the Program include the provision of both financial and technical support to non-governmental organizations concerned with human rights education, development and research, and assisting and coordinating the progress of human rights in Canada. The Program also funds the Court Challenges Program of Canada for test cases on official languages and equality rights guaranteed under Canada's Constitution (administered at arms-length from the Government).

The 50th Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights

The Department of Canadian Heritage, as Department responsible for the promotion of human rights in Canada, launched a public information campaign to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights on December 10, 1998. The overall objectives of the campaign are to raise awareness, invite participation, enhance pride in Canada's contribution to the advancement of human rights and ultimately to strengthen Canadian identity and social cohesion. The campaign is aimed at Canadians in general, with a focus on youth, aged 12-18. "The Credo-I Believe in Human Rights" initiative invites young Canadians to learn about the Universal Declaration and to express their own ideas on human rights.

Native Citizens' Program

Coordination and administration of a series of Aboriginal community-based programs that serve the off-reserve First Nations (status and non-status), the Inuit and the Métis peoples. Two key features of programming include program devolution to Aboriginal organizations for their management and administration and community-based projects that are initiated and managed by Aboriginal peoples. Programming falls under three themes core funding and capacity- building, Aboriginal youth programs and cultural and language development, and is designed to support and facilitate the enhancement of the capacities of Aboriginal communities and organizations to participate in various fora and processes dealing with Aboriginal governance and the social, cultural, political, legal and economic issues affecting the lives of Aboriginal peoples in Canadian society. Funding for programs and initiatives is provided through the Aboriginal Friendship Centres Program, the Northern Native Broadcast Access Program, the Aboriginal Representative Organizations Program, the Aboriginal Women's Program, the Urban Multipurpose Aboriginal Youth Centres Initiative, the Aboriginal Languages Initiative and Young Canada Works for Urban Aboriginal Youth. The Native Citizens' Program also administers two Aboriginal languages agreements with the Northwest territories and the Yukon, and will be negotiating a third language agreement with Nunavut.

♦ Multiculturalism Directorate

Since 1971, Canada's Multiculturalism Policy has contributed to a vision of Canadian society based upon the values of equality, recognition and mutual respect regardless of race, ethnicity, language or religion. The policy encourages participation by citizens of all backgrounds in building and shaping Canada through support of three fundamental goals: fostering identity, developing civic participation and enhancing social justice. The Multiculturalism Program is one of the vehicles used by government to advance these broad policy goals.

A recent comprehensive review of Multiculturalism resulted in a renewal of the Multiculturalism Program and the adoption of five new Program objectives. The renewed Multiculturalism Program undertakes a range of activities including research, public policy analysis, p public education and promotion and the administration of a granting program which provides support to community initiatives. Work undertaken or funded must meet one of the following Program objectives: 1) to assist in the development of strategies that facilitate the full and active participation of ethnic, racial, religious and cultural communities in Canadian society; 2) to facilitate collective community initiatives and responses to ethnic, racial, religious and cultural conflict and hate-motivated activities; 3) to improve the ability of public institutions to respond to ethnic, racial, religious and cultural diversity by assisting in the identification and removal of barriers to equitable access, and by supporting the involvement of diverse communities in public decision-making processes; 4) to encourage and assist in the development of inclusive policies, programs and practices within Federal departments and agencies so that they meet their obligations under the Canadian Multiculturalism Act; and 5) to increase public awareness, understanding and informed public dialogue about multiculturalism, racism and cultural diversity in Canada.

Official Languages Support Programs Branch

The objectives of the Official Languages Support Programs Branch are to promote French and English in Canadian society; and to encourage the development of Francophone and Anglophone communities in minority situations.

The Branch's activities include the following main components:

Community Development

The Official Languages Support Programs Branch supports official-language minority communities to establish and maintain their own organizations enabling them to contribute fully to Canadian society, notably in the areas of arts and culture, education, the economy, communications, legal and political issues as well as new technologies.

Federal-Provincial/Territorial Cooperation

Partnerships with the provinces and territories enable official-language minority communities to have access to education in their mother tongue; to manage their own schools and to receive provincial and territorial services in their own language. This cooperation also allows all young Canadians to have the opportunity to learn French or English as a second language.

Interdepartmental Cooperation

Through its coordination role undertaken with other federal institutions, the Official Languages Support Programs Branch enables official-language minority communities to profit fully from federal programs in all regions of the country. Initiatives include helping to establish better links between the communities and federal departments, notably through the new Interdepartmental Partnership with the Official Languages Communities (IPOLC).

Promotion

The promotion component of the Branch endeavours to promote the bilingual character of our country as a fundamental part of our national identity by advocating the advantages and rewards brought forth by Canada's linguistic duality and by encouraging activities which foster mutual understanding between Francophones and Anglophones such as Summer Language Bursaries, Queen Elizabeth scholarships for second language study, etc. In addition, the Branch cooperates with the private and voluntary sectors so that they may offer French and English services to their clients and foster the recognition and use of both official languages.

Sport Canada Branch

Sport Canada plays a key policy and program leadership role related to sport at the interprovincial, national and international levels. Sport Canada supports the achievement of high performance athletic excellence as a means of stimulating pride in Canada and promoting Canadian identity at home and abroad and works with key partners to sustain the development of the Canadian Sport System. The policy priorities for sport include: Canada's high performance athletes, and the programs that directly support them; coaches and coaching development; delivery of high performance services to athletes through national sport organizations and other delivery mechanisms; increased access to sport for under-represented groups, particularly women, athletes with disabilities and Aboriginal people; and initiatives contributing to the achievement of the government of Canada's broad social and economic objectives.

Strategic Management Sector

The Strategic Management Sector is responsible for the development and implementation of strategies and instruments in order to manage the Canadian Heritage Portfolio in a concerted fashion; to develop a vision and a focussed, coherent policy and planning framework; to set in place management mechanisms that will implement this policy and planning framework and promote the effective integration of vertical and horizontal issues across the Department and Portfolio; to provide the opportunity for the Department to define and stake out its unique role in matters of Canadian Identity.

♦ Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination Branch

The Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination Branch manages the annual priorities and planning cycle for the Department, including the strategic planning process; develops corporate policies; interfaces with agencies and Crown corporations of the Canadian Heritage Portfolio on corporate policy and strategic planning issues; and undertakes strategic research and information analysis. Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks previously described in this entry. Such personal information includes requests for information and publications, research proposals, expressions of public support, comments and suggestions, requests for funding and assistance, and complaints. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, the records of which are not normally retrievable by name of individual or other personal identifier. Specifics must be provided concerning the subject matter, related program activity, as well as the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed.

The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject records schedules.

Book Publishing Industry Development Program
This class of documents contains separate files for each application for funding under the Book Publishing Industry Development Program. Files contain information about the corporate and financial status of the book publishers or industry groups involved. Personal information retained could include citizenship, nationality and other personal and financial information of company presidents, vice-presidents and shareholders. The information is used to determine eligibility for funding under the program. Files are retained for seven years and are then destroyed. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 250 – Book Publishing Industry Development Program).

Canadian Audio-visual Certification
This class of documents contains confidential personal information pertaining to the creative personnel employed in productions which have been submitted for certification to determine the eligibility of the production for the Canadian Film and Video Production tax credit program. It contains names, addresses, citizenship and remuneration paid. Information is not filed by personal identifier, but is filed with application forms for the production. Special requests from other governments are considered and personal information is shared in accordance with subsection 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act. Files are retained for five years and then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 255 – Canadian Audio-Visual Certification Office).

Canadian Heritage Information Network
This class of personal information is pertinent to the collection of museum objects by Canadian museums. The purpose of the information is to create a national inventory of museum collections and to assist museums in managing their collections. The documents may contain references to individuals with whom Canadian museums deal in relation to collecting. Also contained is basic biographical information on Canadian artists. The records are created and supplied by Canadian museums and are maintained as long as is necessary for their management. Contact information is also held about subscribers to CHIN products of services.

Cultural Initiatives Program
This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by cultural organizations seeking financial assistance for their activities. These documents may contain personal information pertaining to the directors and officers of cultural organizations including names and addresses. As well, the curriculum vitae of participants and/or expert advisors to the proposed activity may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by cultural organization or activity title. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of projects under the program including management development projects, capital projects and festivals and special events such as national conferences, etc. Records maintained by headquarters are retained for seven years, then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Records are also maintained by the Department's Regional Offices which are responsible for the management of the Program.

Labour Market Study
Part 1 of this bank contains personal information on approximately 1200 employees of the museums across Canada and responses to questions on training and professional development opportunities, employment conditions, educational and training background, and some demographic data. Part 2 contains data on 500 museums and responses to questions on the museums labour market such as number of full-time and part-time positions; number of people employed for each job and their classifications; current budgets, etc. Records will be kept for five years (plus two years dormant).

National Arts Training Contribution Program This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by cultural training institutions seeking financial assistance for their operations. These documents may contain personal information pertaining to the directors and officers of the institutions, including names and addresses. As well, the curriculum vitae of individuals associated with the institution may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by the name of the cultural institution. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of operations under the Program. Records maintained by headquarters are retained for seven years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Canadian Human Rights Commission
Chapter 29

General Information

Background
The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July, 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978.

Responsibilities
The Commission's program objective is to give effect to the principle that within the federal sphere every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in Canadian life consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of the Canadian society.

Specifically, the Commission deals with complaints of discrimination in employment, in the provision of goods, services, facilities and/or accommodation customarily available to the general public and in the provision of commercial premises or residential accommodation, based on any of the eleven prohibited grounds of discrimination enumerated in the Act: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. The Commission also attempts to resolve cases through the conciliation/settlement process before considering the tribunal process.

The Canadian Human Rights Act prohibits discrimination in policies and practices affecting wages for male and female employees who are performing work of equal value. As a result, the Commission investigates complaints alleging inequities in wage-related practices.

The Commission also monitors annual reports filed by federally-regulated companies under the Employment Equity Act, and where appropriate, initiates compliance actions.

The Commission also has a statutory responsibility to discourage and reduce discriminatory practices through public education, liaison, and any other means it considers appropriate. This responsibility is discharged by producing promotional and educational materials, developing and conducting information programs to foster public understanding of the principles of equal opportunity enshrined in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and by working cooperatively with employers and service providers both at the headquarters and regional levels.

The Commission functions as an independent agency and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice.

Legislation
- Age Guidelines (SI/78-165, October 25, 1978)
- Canadian Human Rights Act (R.S., 1985, c. H-6)

- Immigration Guidelines (SI/80-125, July 23, 1980)
- Immigration Investigation Regulations (SOR/80-686, August 27, 1980)
- Protection of Personal Information Regulations (SOR/78-145, February 22, 1978)

Organization
The Commission is headed by the Chief Commissioner who has deputy minister status. In this role, he is supported by the Secretary General. There are seven operational and administrative branches at headquarters: Executive Secretariat, Legal Services, Anti-Discrimination Programs, Employment Equity Programs, Human Rights Promotion, Policy and Liaison, Corporate and Personnel Services. In addition to the aforementioned, there are also six regional offices.

Anti-Discrimination Programs Branch
The Branch is responsible for the investigation and conciliation of complaints, including pay equity complaints. The Branch also provides a quality assurance function for the cases presented to the Commission.

Corporate and Personnel Services Branch
This Branch provides the Commission with support services in assets and facilities management, finance, telecommunications, informatics, security, information management and library services. It is also responsible for strategic planning and human resources management.

Employment Equity Branch
This Branch is responsible for monitoring employers' compliance with the Employment Equity Act by means of employment equity audits.

Executive Secretariat Branch

This Branch provides administrative services to the executive offices, including coordinating Commission meetings, managing executive correspondence, and preparing briefing materials. It is also responsible for access to information and privacy.

Legal Services Branch

This Branch provides advice to the Chief Commissioner, Commission members and staff. Legal officers also represent the Commission in litigation before tribunals, review tribunals and the courts.

Policy and Liaison Branch

This Branch monitors human rights issues of interest to the Commission, conducts research on policy issues and coordinates international liaison activities.

The Human Rights Promotion Branch

This Branch, which includes six regional offices, fosters public understanding of the Canadian Human Rights Act and human rights issues through information programs, the media, and community activities.

Canadian International Development Agency
Chapter 30

General Information

Background
The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) supports the sustainable development in developing countries in order to reduce poverty and to contribute to a more secure, equitable and prosperous world.

Responsibilities
CIDA is the federal agency responsible for implementing Canada's Official Development Assistance (ODA) program and for administering most of the ODA budget. CIDA's aid program is administered through a number of aid delivery channels: bilateral (government-to-government) assistance, multilateral development institutions, and supports the development activities of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and the private sector.

Legislation
- Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade
- Financial Administration Act
- International Development (Financial Institutions) Continuing Assistance Act

Organization
The Agency is headed by the President who reports directly to the Minister of International Cooperation. The President is assisted by the Secretary General, eight vice-presidents and two director s general. These branches are: Africa and Middle East, Americas, Asia, Canadian Partnership, Central and Eastern Europe, Communications, Human Resources and Corporate Services Branch, Multilateral Programs, Performance Review Branch and Policy.

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the coordination of four executive committees and forums, the executive correspondence and requests received under the Access to Information and Privacy Acts. It is also responsible for the activities related to Parliamentary Relations and Cabinet Liaison.

Africa and Middle East Branch
CIDA's Africa and Middle East Branch is headed by a Vice-president and is subdivided into ten divisions: Policy, Strategic Planning and Management; Management Services and Employee Development; North Africa and Middle East; Sahel and Ivory Coast; Atlantic West Africa; Gulf of Guinea Region; Southern Africa; Eastern Africa and the Horn of Africa; Central Africa and Great Lakes; and Panafrican Program and Francophonie.

The policies and strategies developed for co-operation with Africa and the Middle East complement the foreign policy objectives and the specific mandate of CIDA, in particular poverty reduction and the promotion of peace and security.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Management
The Policy, Strategic Planning and Management Division provides advice and managerial support to the Branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects; and co-ordinates corporate studies and exercises on behalf of the Branch. The Division also provides technical expertise in certain sectors.

The Strategic Planning Unit elaborates and evaluates the policies, programs and systems which allow the branch to fulfil its mandate and provides advice and support to the Branch in regard to the Agency's development priorities. The unit is responsible for performance review and result-based management and undertakes strategic planning functions for some technical sectors.

Strategic management responsibilities and services include: support for programming through the development of current program and project delivery processes, procedures and tools; advice on program delivery issues; information management within the Branch, including influencing corporate systems, development and their implementation to ensure that they meet Board requirements.

Management Services and Employee Development Division
The Management Services and Employee Development Division is responsible for developing systems and procedures to promote effective and economical branch management. It plans and directs financial administration, contracting, administration and human resources development services to manage resources wisely and to promote the effectiveness of the Branch's activities and the quality of its outputs.

In this context, the Management Services and Employee Development Division is responsible for a team of specialists in administrative, financial and contracting services who contribute a wide-ranging background of knowledge and experience. The Division employees support program managers and project officers in their respective fields. They give professional and impartial financial management advice to ensure the proper management, accounting and explanation of the aid budget. They manage the administration and salary budget for the Africa and Middle East Branch as a whole. They staff all vacancies and plan training programs tailored to the needs of the Branch's employees.

North Africa and Middle East Region

CIDA's program in this region supports three themes: economic reform, environmental sustainability, and capacity building.

Sustainable development is an engine for building social stability and political harmony, contributing directly to the efforts made to reach a lasting peace in the region. To promote sustainable development in the region, the Canadian aid program aims to support the transition to an economy based on market forces as well as an equitable distribution of wealth; to strengthen the capacity of key public institutions; to promote the sustainable management of natural resources, especially water; to help support newly empowered segments of civil society meet new social, political and economic challenges; and to favour the emergence and consolidation of mutually beneficial partnerships between Canada and the region.

Sahel and Ivory Coast Division

The Sahel and Ivory Coast program comprises the bilateral cooperation activities that CIDA conducts in Mali, Burkina Faso, Niger and Ivory Coast, and with the Club du Sahel, the Permanent Inter-State Commission on Drought Control in the Sahel (CILSS), the Senegal River Development Organization (OMVS), as well as a number of regional activities in the Sahel.

Canadian cooperation strategies in these countries focus on poverty reduction and specifically basic human needs, the environment and good governance. Programs in the countries concerned are tailored to reflect the degree to which they assume responsibility for their development, the history of our cooperation, their political ties with Canada and, above all, particularly urgent needs relating to poverty reduction.

There are significant risks that the situation might get out of control throughout the region, considering the major impact of poverty, the fragility of political regimes newly committed to democratization, and the dependence of indebted economies supported by an inadequate resource controlled but remain constant.

Atlantic West Africa

The region is composed of 7 countries: Senegal, Guinea, Mauritania, Gambia, Cape Verde, Guinea-Bissau and Sierra Leone. There are major bilateral programs in Senegal and Guinea, a small bilateral program in Mauritania, and various smaller responsive programs in the other countries (including a Canada Fund for Local Initiatives in each country). The major programming themes in the region are (1) basic human needs, and (2) accelerated and equitable economic development. Under the first theme, the main project activities are in basic education and health. Under the second theme, the main projects are focussing on micro-finance, support for small/medium enterprises, basic infrastructures, sustainable management of natural resources and capacity-building to raise the productivity of the informal sector, with particular attention on women as a target group.

Gulf of Guinea Region

The Gulf of Guinea is responsible for managing CIDA's core bilateral development assistance programs in Ghana and Benin, along with the more modest development activities in Nigeria and Togo.

The Ghana program is one of CIDA's largest assistance programs, in which CIDA is continuing over 40 years of support to the country's development of basic human needs, establishment of sustainable potable water systems, and strengthening of central and local governments. The more modest Benin Program is aimed at supporting capacity in governance, management of the environment, and emergence of the private sector. While CIDA does not have a development assistance program for Nigeria, we finance several Canadian NGO-managed projects designed to support local initiatives that reinforce the emergence of democracy and respect for human rights. Togo is the beneficiary of a small embassy-managed Canada Fund which finances non-government activities aimed at reducing poverty and encouraging democracy.

Southern Africa Region

Southern Africa is composed of 11 countries, of which Malawi, Mozambique, South Africa, Zambia and Zimbabwe constitute the main countries of concentration for CIDA's Southern Africa Program. Some of the region's major development challenges include: the environment, poverty, education, health (especially HIV/AIDS), the status of women, population migration, good governance, democratic development, human rights, regional cooperation and economic reform.

CIDA's priorities for the region are to allocate 35% of its budget to basic human needs, particularly targeting women and children; to encourage economic reform and employment creation by supporting the region's private sector; to protect the environment and promote sound management of the natural resource base; to provide direct support for democratic development, good governance and human rights; to support regional cooperation and security through regional programming; to place special emphasis on HIV/AIDS with particular emphasis on its impact on women; and responding to humanitarian needs, including food shortages caused by drought.

Eastern Africa and the Horn of Africa

The general objectives of CIDA's programs in the Eastern Africa and Horn of Africa region are to: 1) promote regional peace and security; 2) promote economic development; 3) protect the environment; 4) support basic human needs including the promotion of democratic development, human rights and the needs of women.

A Canada Fund for Local Initiatives is active in each country to help support the realization of small-scale projects.

Central Africa and the Great Lakes Region

The region is composed of two core programming countries, Cameroon and Rwanda, two countries whose programs are in transition, Gabon (phasing out) and Democratic Republic of Congo (phasing back in), and six countries where Canadian bilateral support is limited to the Canada Fund and a small portion of regional or Panafrican projects, Burundi, Chad, Central African Republic, Republic of Congo, Sao Tome and Principe, and Equatorial Guinea. In terms of CIDA's six priorities, Cameroun and Rwanda share a programming focus on basic human needs, and good governance (especially Justice in Rwanda). In addition, the Rwanda program has an emphasis on promoting gender equality, while the Cameroun program supports women's access to credit and the environment. International Humanitarian Assistance, provided by CIDA's Multilateral Branch, provides substantial additional resources to Rwanda, Burundi and the Democratic Republic of Congo.

Pan Africa and Francophonie Program

The main objectives of the Pan-African Program are (i) to support efforts by Pan-African institutions, which give priority to addressing continental issues, such as endemic diseases, conflict prevention and good governance, and (ii) to help build interregional cooperation in seeking innovative solutions to continental and/or interregional problems, especially in the areas of health, human rights and good governance. The Pan-African Program also supports specific initiatives focusing on regional integration, especially in West Africa and private sector development.

The Francophonie Program basically aims to support the Government of Canada's goals to strengthen solidarity and cooperation among the countries of La Francophonie through its multilateral institutions

Americas Branch

The Americas Region consists of 35 developing countries. organized by the Branch, for program delivery and administrative purposes, into the following four geographic Divisions: the Caribbean (including Haiti and Cuba), Central America, Andean countries and the Southern Cone, Brazil and Colombia. In addition, for program management and policy co-ordination purposes, the Branch has a Policy, Planning and Management Division. The Americas Region is highly diverse geographically, developmentally, and with respect to resource distribution. ODA supports development activities that promote political, economic, social and environmental sustainability with a strategy of pursuing equitable development for increased economic growth and poverty reduction.

Sectors of involvement include: agriculture, economic development, environment, forestry, fisheries, transport, energy, health, education, telecommunications, mining, water and sanitation. Activities in the area of social development, institutional support, and industrial co-operation can be funded through Bilateral, Multilateral, and Partnership channels and implemented by Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs), Non-Governmental Institutions (NGIs), and private enterprise. CIDA also supports small development projects in almost all countries through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLIs).

Caribbean Program

The Commonwealth Caribbean program assists Caribbean countries to remain competitive in an increasingly liberalized global economy, and to strengthen their environmental management capabilities. The program also emphasizes support to projects which promote regional co-operation and integration to increase self-reliance, and which facilitate access to other regional markets. The Program focuses primarily on the countries of Jamaica, Guyana and the Eastern Caribbean islands of Grenada, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Dominica, St. Lucia, Antigua/Barbuda, St. Kitts/Nevis, and Monserrat. There are also small bilateral programs in Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Belize, with the CFLI in the British Virgin Islands, Anguilla, and the Dominican Republic.

In addition to food aid, the Haiti program aims to address basic human needs, support economic growth (eg. by improving electricity availability) as well as to consolidate democracy and strengthen civil society.

The Cuba program aims to provide assistance to the ongoing economic reform process; respond to social sector needs; and encourage dialogue on human rights, democratic development and good governance.

Central America Program:

CIDA's current bilateral program covers Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Guatemala and El Salvador and over the next four years will be focused on Post-Mitch rehabilitation and reconstruction. Panama and Mexico also receive assistance through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. The program is targeted toward the poorest countries and also supports the establishment of a lasting peace in countries emerging from prolonged civil conflicts. Ongoing programming themes are in the areas of environment, human rights, democratic development and economic modernization.

South America Program

The main objectives are: to assist in the reduction of poverty, to support reform processes, to help strengthen the capacities of key institutions, and to support partnerships between Canadian and South American institutions. The program concentrates its bilateral activities in the poorest countries of Bolivia, Ecuador, and Peru. Bilateral activities are also underway in Colombia and Brazil. In Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, and Paraguay, development assistance is only available through the regional program and CFLIs.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Management

The Policy, Strategic Planning and Management Division provides advice and managerial support to the Branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects; and co-ordinates corporate studies and exercises on behalf of the Branch. The Division also provides technical expertise in certain sectors.

The Strategic Planning Unit elaborates and evaluates the policies, programmes and systems which allow the branch to fulfil its mandate and provides advice and support to the Branch in regard to the Agency's development priorities. The unit is responsible for performance review and result-based management and undertakes strategic planning functions for some technical sectors.

Strategic management responsibilities and services include: support for programming through the development of current programme and project delivery processes, procedures and tools; advice on programme delivery issues; information management within the Branch, including influencing corporate systems, development and their implementation to ensure that they meet Board requirements.

Asia Branch

The principal role of Asia Branch is to plan, develop and implement Canada's development co-operation program in Asia by matching Canadian capabilities and resources with the needs of recipient countries.

Under the direction of a Vice-president, Asia Branch comprises seven geographic programs as well as strategic policy planning and strategic management divisions. Each geographic program is responsible for the identification, development and management of development co-operation activities with one or several recipient countries.

The goal of Asia Branch is to promote growth with equity in Asia. To achieve this goal, the Branch pursues three objectives: i) poverty reduction ii) strengthening the basis for prosperity and iii) promoting security. It has adapted its programs and projects to meet the changing realities of the increasingly diverse economies of the region and therefore undertakes a wide range of specific development initiatives, from direct grassroots poverty reduction to helping governments improve economic and social policy frameworks, as well as helping Asian private sectors access expertise and technology from the Canadian private sector. In specific countries where economic growth is strong, Asia Branch is gradually reorienting its programs away from a traditional focus on direct poverty reduction to one that sets the stage for mutually beneficial economic co-operation. In doing so, special attention is given to promoting sustained growth with equity, and to reinforcing national and regional security through support to better governance, democratic development and human rights activities.

The Branch implements projects across Asia by contractors, consultants, non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and individual cooperants. Some projects, such as Canada Funds, are managed in Asia by High Commission or Embassy staff. There are approximately 470 ongoing projects, including 17 Canada Funds, across the range of CIDA's six priorities. Programming in the areas of basic human needs and infrastructure services account for more than 50% of the Branch's operational budget of $231 million in 1999 / 2000. Other development priorities receiving strong support are governance, gender equity, environment and private sector development.

Geographic Program Divisions

Program Divisions are responsible for the management of development co-operation activities with one or more recipient countries. The Program Divisions are: Indochina (including Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia), Thailand, Malaysia Division, Indonesia, Philippines and the South Pacific Division, ASEAN and Regional Program Division, India, Sri Lanka and Nepal Division, Bangladesh Division, Pakistan and Afghanistan Division, and China Division.

Strategic Policy and Planning Division

The two main areas of activity of the Policy and Planning Division are policy development and performance review and reporting. Policy research, leading to the identification of issues and development of policy, is the basis for the formulation of coherent branch strategic plans and divisional programming initiatives and is linked to the corporate planning system through the Agency's Policy Branch. The Division acts in concert with Agency corporate functions to maintain broad coherence between Branch and Agency priorities and direction.

Technical and Strategic Management Division

The division provides training, technical expertise and managerial support to the branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects. Technical expertise is provided in the areas of financial management, contracting and contracting management, management systems and practises, information technology and management and in a range of scientific and technical disciplines required to support project activities undertaken by the program divisions.

Canadian Partnership Branch

The Canadian Partnership Branch (CPB) manages CIDA's relationships with a broad diversity of Canadian and international organizations involved in development activities worldwide. Its mandate is to promote mutually beneficial partnerships between Canadian and developing country organizations to support sustainable development and reduce poverty in the developing world.

The programs of the Canadian Partnership Branch respond to initiatives of Canadian civil society organizations, in accordance with Canada's foreign policy priorities. A principal distinguishing feature of CPB programming is its responsiveness. CPB's Canadian partners are responsible for the planning and implementation of their own policies, programs and projects in collaboration with their developing country partners. Another distinguishing feature of CPB's programming is cost sharing. All Canadian and developing country partner organizations are required to contribute resources to their development initiatives. The funds available to CPB represent approximately 16 percent of CIDA's resource envelope.

A final feature is the sheer magnitude of Canadian participation in terms of the number of activities, the diversity of programs and projects funded, and the involvement of Canadians from all walks of life. At any given time, CPB maintains relationships with more than 1,000 Canadian partner organizations and private sector firms, conducting over 3,000 projects in virtually every sector in over 100 developing countries. Canadian partners include private firms, business associations, non-governmental development organizations, universities and colleges, volunteer sending agencies, municipalities, professional associations, cooperatives, unions, and environmental groups.

The Canadian Partnership Branch is divided into five specialized divisions to deal with its diverses partners: the Industrial Cooperation Program Division for the business community; the Institutional Co-operation Division for educational institutions, professional associations, cooperatives and unions; the Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO) Division for non-profit organizations whose main focus is international development; the Policy, Strategic Planning and Operations Division; and the Youth Action Division.

Industrial Cooperation Division

This division provides financial support for the creation of long term partnerships between Canadian firms and their partners and customers in developing countries. In this way, the business communities of developing countries gain access to the technologies, capital and skills that are urgently needed to strengthen their economic and industrial growth.

The projects are carried out in a context of sustainable development and are mutually beneficial. Depending on the scope of the activities or the geographic preference of a business, the proposals are handled by the Division's Africa, Americas or Asia Bureaus, which operate within the same criteria.

Institutional Cooperation Division

The objective of this division is to support initiatives of Canadian institutions in partnership with developing countries to strengthen their capacity to achieve sustainable development. Programs emphazise human resource development and the potential of women, men and youth to contribute to the socio-economic development of their communities. Canadian institutions supported by the program are national, regional and local not-for-profit organizations, universities, colleges, unions, cooperatives or professional associations as well as environmental organizations. The division is also responsible for technical cooperation, notably scholarship programs. Scholarships are offered to individuals in developing countries that are members of La Francophonie and students in developing countries in the field of marine resources. Awards are also granted to Canadians wishing to pursue a career in international development.

The program also supports the Election Assistance Program which focuses on the improvement of the electoral process in developing countries.

Non-Governmental Organizations Division

CIDA especially encourages the implementation of projects and programs whose objective is community development, by establishing partnerships between Canadian NGOs and NGOs in developing countries. In this perspective, the Non-Governmental Organizations Division provides a portion of the funding needed to carry out the NGOs' programs and projects. Various mechanisms are in place for funding activities abroad, including programs, projects, programs for sending volunteers, and International NGOs (INGOs).

Support is also provided to global networks of national and local NGOs interested in development issues that are important to Canada, notably human rights, democracy, the environment, and population. The International NGO program has a strong policy and operational focus on civil society and governance and is a major "knowledge" contributor to CIDA in these areas. Canadian organizations that are members of INGO networks benefit through information exchanges.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Operations Division

This Division performs various functions essential to support the management and operation of the Canadian Partnership Branch and the delivery of its program.

The Policy section assesses and evaluates the policies, programs and systems that allow the Canadian Partnership Branch to fullfill its mandate. It also provides social issues/thematic guidance in areas such as human resources development, women in development and the environment. The Strategic Planning section is responsible for information management, results-based management and performance review for the Branch.

The management operational functions of the branch comprise technical services, financial management, information management, human resource development, and administration.

The External Relations and Consultations unit plans, co-ordinates and organizes CIDA's consultations with its Canadian partners and is one of the Agency's chief intermediaries with stakeholders. This unit is responsible for scheduling, coordinating and organising stakeholder consultations on behalf of all operational CIDA branches.

The International Conference Secretariat provides funding to organisations that host international conferences. CIDA funds are used to pay for the travel costs (as defined by the Treasury Board) of participants from developing countries and countries in transition. To be eligible, conferences must have a genuine developmental impact that falls within at least one of CIDA's priorities. Conferences that are limited to participants from a single continent are not eligible. Funding is restricted to up to 20% of the total conference cost, with a maximum of $250,000. Guidelines are available upon request at (819) 953-3932 or at 1-800-230-6349.

The Centre for Intercultural Learning (CIL) assists professionals from private industry, government, non-governmental organizations, and universities to develop the intercultural competences essential for their success. CIDA's partners have access to the training sessions and knowledge of CIL.

Youth Action Division

CIDA's International Youth Internship Program is a two year (1997-1999) employment program for Canadian men and women between the ages of 19 and 30. It offers young people the opportunity to gain work experience in their field of education in an international setting for up to twelve months.

The program is part of the Canadian Government's Youth Employment Strategy, funded through HRDC, to help young people develop the experience they need to move successfully from education to work.

Central and Eastern Europe Branch

The Branch is composed of four Divisions:

- Russia, Ukraine, and Nuclear Programs: This Division administers Canada's technical cooperation programme with Russia and Ukraine, and the nuclear safety program.

- Central and Northern Europe, Regional, Multilateral, and "Renaissance": This Division covers the programming in the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia. It also administers a regional programme for these countries, plus multilateral projects with organizations such as the World Bank and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development. The Division also is responsible for the Renaissance Eastern Europe, which assists Canadian firms interested in establishing long-term business relationships in Central and Eastern Europe.

- Southern Europe, Central Asia, and Humanitarian Programs: This Division is responsible for programming in Romania, Bosnia, Croatia, and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, as well as the Balkans and the Central Asian Republics. It also administers the Branch's humanitarian program.

- Policy, Planning, and Financial Services: This Division is responsible for Branch policy, for liaison with other CIDA Branches, for financial and administrative services, for personnel management and staffing, for training, and for program and project performance assessment.

Former Soviet Union Division

The branch 's program builds on Canadian expertise and common experiences in response to the priorities in the recipient country. In private sector development, the program focuses on linking the economies of the region with the global economy, creating an enabling environment for the region. Democratic development initiatives include strengthening of democratic institutions, development of professional public service, and supporting good governance. The program is also involved in the revitalization of key sectors of the economy, such as energy and agriculture, through privatization and restructuring, and legal and regulatory reform. Drawing on Canada's common experiences, the Russia division is also contributing to projects which assist in aboriginal and economic development in the north, and the environment. Countries in the former Soviet Union are also eligible for assistance through the Canadian Nuclear Safety Initiative, which seeks to enhance nuclear safety through improved operation of nuclear plants, regulatory assistance and utility management.

Communications Branch

As the Agency's responsibility centre for Communications, the Branch supports CIDA in achieving its communications objectives, as set out in the annual CIDA Communications strategy, in addition to assessing major issues and determining CIDA's response.

The Branch comprises two programs:

Corporate, which informs Canadians about CIDA's programs and activities, and provides communications support to the Minister, Secretaries of State and the President. It develops and implements communications strategies, monitors and assesses public opinion through media analysis and public opinion polling, and produces and delivers information products and services.

The Communications Branch's Development Information Program (DIP) works in partnership with non-governmental and private sector organizations to provide Canadians with information on development issues with a special emphasis on the important role and unique contribution Canadians make in developing countries. The Program is built on establishing sustainable partnerships with organisations and firms that specialize in public awareness and have access to communications vehicles across television, radio, print and new media.

Human Resources and Corporate Services Branch

As an Agency partner, the Human Resources and Corporate Services Branch develops, implements and monitors corporate service tools, mechanisms and support services for optimal management of CIDA's resources. The Branch provides strategies, advice, programs and policies in the areas of human resources, administration and security, finance, contracts and procurement, information management and technology, and offers legal services. The Branch plays a leadership role in developing and facilitating Agency adoption of best practices in these areas.

Administrative and Security Services Division

This Division provides the Agency with full service in these two areas. It specifically involves telecommunications, office and work place organization, storage, maintenance and repair of physical property, audio visual services, procurement, room reservation system, graphics and desktop publishing services, production of administrative notices and bulletins, mail services, and general security. The Division also provides internal management services, such as information management and informatics.

Human Resources Division

Staff Relations and Employee Services Unit advises managers and human resource professionals on all issues pertaining to employment terms and conditions, provides information, interpretation, advice and guidance on staff relations in accordance with pertinent regulations and collective agreements, union/management relations, occupational health and safety standards and pay and benefits.

Special Advisory Unit provides advice and services to the Director General in the areas of EX staffing and competitions, change management and special projects to meet corporate needs.

Continuous Learning Section provides services related to the development, delivery, validation and evaluation of in-house and external training activities, programs and tools, including Distance education and Technology based education. The Section also manages the Learning Centre as well as the official and foreign languages training and Education Leave. It is responsible for co-ordinating the Human Resources Strategy, managing the Employee survey and other initiatives that form part of the Renewal plan. It also provides services related to renewal and organization change; individual counselling and learning.

Human Resource Operations Unit provides corporate services to the Agency (such as programs, policies, strategies and systems) in the area of staffing and classification including transactional services to managers. Through a team of individually assigned Branch Human Resource Advisors, provides strategic advice and guidance to Agency managers on all areas of human resource activities and planning.

Human Resource Planning, Programs and Systems Section is responsible for programs intended to mobilize employees, manage employee performance and create a supportive work environment, such as the Employee Performance Feedback program and the development of competency profiles. The Section is also responsible for the development of the employment equity policies, the monitoring, planning and implementation of the employment equity program, the administration of official languages, human resource planning and human resource systems (PMIS).

The Assignments Management Centre is responsible for the annual posting and reintegration/deployment exercises, liaison with field representatives, secondments, spousal employment assistance, internal and external assignments, the post secondary recruitment program and leave and career development programs.

Finance Division

This Division provides financial services to the Agency. It develops, interprets, and maintains Agency financial management practises and systems; provides specialized contract and contribution audit services; operates a financial risk assessment unit. Finance also provides a number of additional services including resource management; corporate planning; financial reporting; budgetary control; financial training; accounting operations; accounts verification services and information support.

Information Management and Technology Division and Phoenix Project Team Division

This Division provides corporate informatics support services associated with information management, information technology and office automation. As with most organizations today, informatics represents a significant strategic investment for CIDA in its internal, domestic and international operations. IMTD is charged with maximizing the benefits of information spending within CIDA and providing high quality services to the program delivery and administrative branches. The Phoenix component of the organization is charged with the replacement of CIDA's current technology platform, software, hardware and applications to address Year 2000 concerns, to update the available technology platform to ensure better functionality within the Agency and with partners world wide and to meet Treasury Board's requirement for an accrual accounting system.

Contracting Management Division

This Division develops, and disseminates appropriate contracting policies, processes, reporting mechanisms and quality assurance systems necessary to demonstrate and ensure the integrity and transparency of CIDA contracting activities. The Division is responsible for making presentations and explaining the contracting process and business opportunities to our Canadian Partners. Contracting Management consists of the following four groups: Contracting Policy, Information Management, External Business Relations and Corporate Contracting Operations.

Legal Services Division

This Division provides a full array of client driven legal services to CIDA. It provides legal advice, drafting services for all legal documents, negotiation support and ensures proper representation and instructions in all litigation matters. It provides proactive services in the area of identifying legal trends, analysing court cases which affect the Agency, presenting seminars and workshops on areas of law to increase the Agency's legal awareness. It participates as part of CIDA's committees, task forces, and ensures timely input to policy decisions. It is headed by a General Counsel who responds to the President directly and reports to the Department of Justice.

Multilateral Programs Branch

CIDA funds for multilateral programs are channelled through United Nations agencies and other international development organizations. In addition, CIDA and the Department of Finance provide funds to international financial institutions (Ifs) such as the Regional Development Banks and the World Bank. While the organizations are responsible for the administration of projects, Canada participates in their governing bodies to ensure that the organizations are operating within appropriate policy and operational guidelines, and that they meet Canada's interests and those of the international community as a whole. The Multilateral Branch is composed of five divisions.

Food Aid Centre

The centre is responsible for the CIDA food aid program, programs related to the Consultative group for international Agricultural Research and issues related to nutrition and food security. The centre manages Canada's input to the World Food Program of the United Nations; develops food aid policy; prepares and processes submissions seeking project approval from the food aid budget; co-ordinates the planning of food aid activities in consultation with other operating branches; initiates discussions on and participates in the process of food aid budget reallocations, in consultation with other operating branches during the fiscal year. The centre provides a co-ordinating role within CIDA in policy and program discussions concerning food aid with Treasury Board, the department of Foreign Affairs, Agriculture Canada, Finance, the World Food Program, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Canadian Dairy Commission and food producers and processors. The centre provides professional services to the Agency in the field of nutrition and co-ordinates the Agency's input to the Committee on Food Security of the Food and Agriculture Organization, and the International Grain Council.

International Financial Institutions Division

The division develops and implements Canada's policies towards the international financial institutions as mechanisms for development financing. It provides guarantees (i.e., callable capital) to facilitate the recycling of private capital resources for development financing, and in so doing significantly multiplies the availability of such financing. The funds are provided to Regional Development Banks. The division participates with other departments in the management of Canadian assistance provided through the Department of Finance to the World Bank Group. It ensures that the international financial institutions are managed in a manner to maintain their credit worthiness in the international capital markets. The division is also responsible for the management of Canadian assistance provided to the Global Environment Facility, the Multilateral Fund for the Implementation of the Montreal Protocol, and the International Fund for Agricultural Development. The division fosters policies within the IFIs that are consistent with the developmental and humanitarian principles of Canadian foreign policy. It also manages a portfolio of Trust Funds to support project preparation work and policy analysis by Canadian firms and institutions at the IFIs.

International Humanitarian Assistance Program

The division provides financial support for efforts to alleviate human suffering caused by natural and human-caused disasters abroad. This assistance is normally channelled through international institutions and Canadian and international non-governmental organizations involved in such work. Grants are given in support of the programs of three major institutions: the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the United Nations Relief and Work Agency for Palestinian Refugees, and the International Committee of the Red Cross. Grants are also given in support of special appeals launched by these and other humanitarian institutions, including Canadian NGOs specialising in relief work. To ensure the flexibility needed by an emergency response mechanism, a policy of providing largely untied international human assistance program grants is maintained. The Division also has a unit dealing with a special areas related to humanitarian assistance. The peace building unit manages the Peace building fund which provides grants for rapid peace building support to conflict-affected countries.

United Nations and Commonwealth Programs Division

The Division is responsible for promoting Canadian development policies in, and supporting the efficient and effective operation of multilateral technical cooperation organizations involved in enhancing the human and institutional capabilities of developing countries. These organizations include UN bodies such as the UN Development Program, UNICEF, the World Health Organization and the UN Fund for Population, plus institutions of the Commonwealth. The Landmines unit coordinates CIDA programming on demining and landmine survivor assistance which is funded from the Canadian Landmines Fund.

Policy, Planning and Management Division

The division is responsible for Branch management processes and issues, work planning, resources and budgetary allocations, computerised systems, information management and administrative services and for coherence and consistency with other branches on these issues. The division also provides policy support to the other divisions in the Branch and offers policy advice to the Vice-President on corporate policy issues.

Performance Review Branch

To help improve CIDA's management performance and development effectiveness, through its internal audit and evaluation activities, Performance Review provides assurance, independent and objective information and advice to management on the continued relevance, success and cost-effectiveness of key CIDA policies, programs and projects, and on the effectiveness of the management systems, processes and practices. It also provides methodological support to branches on performance measurement as well as on the development and implementation of results-based management and performance frameworks.

Policy Branch

Policy Branch formulates and maintains the ODA policy framework in support of the Agency's mandate and program priorities in the context of Canada's broader foreign policy objectives and interests. It monitors issues and trends in development assistance, such as the need to strengthen links between peacebuilding and development, and provides strategic advice and information to the Minister, the Agency and other government departments on a wide range of long- and short-term development policy and strategic issues. The Branch also provides specialized expertise on scientific and technical matters and, in certain cases - e.g. environmental assessment - verifies Agency compliance with legislation.

Policy Branch takes the lead on strategic planning and management of the International Assistance Envelope and allocations on behalf of CIDA. At the international level, the Branch focuses on improving the coordination of Canadian development policies with those of other donor countries - e.g., through the Development Assistance Committee of the OECD. Policy Branch also helps to represent Canada's interests in international fora and verifies that relevant international commitments undertaken by Canada are reflected in the government's international development policies. At the domestic level, the Branch works closely with other departments and agencies on policy research and development, as well as on issue management, to ensure that government policy reflects the full diversity of Canada's relationships with developing countries.

The Branch manages the Agency's Corporate Memory databank and the library, and produces the information required to meet national and international responsibilities for reporting on ODA expenditures.

Chief Economist Office and Economic Development and Poverty Reduction Division:

The Division is responsible for contributing to the Agency's policy base on poverty reduction and economic development issues including ODA program priorities in private sector development and infrastructure services. It provides advice to the Minister, President, senior management and the various branches on poverty reduction and economic development issues and contributes to CIDA's inputs into Canadian positions at various international fora including the World Bank and International Monetary Fund Executive Board Meetings, OECD-DAC, UNCTAD, WTO, and G7/8 meetings. The Division has the corporate policy responsibility of overseeing issues of debt, trade, tied aid, information and communication technologies, urban development. In concert with other divisions and government departments, the Division monitors and advises the Agency on emerging issues in economic development and poverty reduction. The Division houses both economists and specialists in information and communication technologies and urban development.

Environment and Natural Resources Division

The Division functions as an integrated unit promoting and supporting Agency efforts in environment and natural resource management and is responsible for the formulation and implementation of environmental policy and legislation (Canadian Environmental Assessment Act) and sector guidelines in agriculture, forestry, fisheries, water, and energy. The Division provides analysis and advice on environmental sustainability and natural resources issues to CIDA's programs, senior management and the Minister. It also provides support by developing procedures, technical guides, training programs, and other tools to assist CIDA's operational branches to comply with environmental assessment legislation, regulations, standards, policies and international commitments. The Division also monitors and advises the Agency on environmental assessment compliance, through the Environmental Assessment and Compliance Unit (YEA), and on issues involving scientific and technical knowledge and practice. The Division represents the Agency in national and international fora addressing environmental and natural resources sustainability in developing countries and corporate level scientific and technical questions. It houses specialists in environment, energy, forestry, agriculture, water and sanitation, marine resources and oceans

International Development Information Centre

The Centre is responsible for managing the development information resources of the Agency. These resources include the data used in reporting to Canadians and to international organizations, the Corporate Memory, the Technical Cooperation Data Unit and substantial collections of monographs, CD-ROMs, archival material and Development Bank's documents. In addition to answering thousands of information requests, the Centre's services include loans, inter-library loans, purchases of books and periodicals, reference and external databases services.

Management and Planning Division

Responsible for the development and coordination of all mechanisms and systems for human, financial and information resources management and planning in Policy Branch. Also responsible for delivering internal contract and administration services, and for advising the Vice President and Directors on resources utilization, corporate exercises and on the achievement of branch objectives and results.

Policy Branch

Policy Directorate

The Policy Directorate is responsible for the Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination Divisions and the International Development Information Centre.

Strategic Planning Division:

Strategic Planning is responsible for providing strategic advice and information to the Government, its officials and other federal departments on issues related to development cooperation. The Division has four core functions. 1) Within CIDA, it takes the lead on the management of the International Assistance Envelope and budgetary allocations within the Agency. 2) It oversees the corporate policy planning process and supports the corporate resources planning process. 3) It is responsible for scanning the policy environment and tracking new issues of growing importance in development cooperation. 4) The Division also plays a key role in enhancing the coordination of Canadian development policies with other donor countries, for example through the Development Assistance Committee of the OECD.

Policy Coordination Division

The Policy Coordination Division supports the Agency's executives and the Minister in the coordination of current, critical and horizontal public policy issues. It promotes consistency and coherence in development policy at all levels in CIDA through dialogue and information exchange with CIDA's other branches. It is also responsible for the agency's relations with other donor countries and with Crown Corporations involved in Official Development Assistance (ODA) such as the International Development Research Centre (IDRC), International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development (ICHRDD), and International Institute for Sustainable Development (IISD).

Political and Social Policies Division

The Division is responsible for articulating CIDA's policy and good practices on political, social and cultural aspects of development including basic human needs, children's rights, human rights, democratic development, good governance, social dimensions and public sector reform. The division houses specialists in education, health and population/ reproductive health who are responsible for maintaining a policy framework in their areas and for providing corporate information as well as strategic and tactical advice. The Division is also responsible for encouraging more effective development programs through its focus on enhancing the ability of developing countries to identify and address their own problems (the concept of effective programming and capacity development).

Gender Equality Division

The Division is responsible for the development and support of CIDA's Gender Equality Policy. The Division provides analysis and advice on gender equality issues to CIDA's programs, senior management and the Minister. It also provides support by developing procedures, technical guides, training programs, and other tools to assist CIDA's operational branches to comply with policy guidelines, the Federal Plan for Gender Equality and international commitments. Program Records

Africa and Middle East Branch

Algeria

Description: Cooperation between Canada and Algeria focuses on technology transfer and capacity building. It is designed to support the development of Algeria's productive sector and to build training institutions. This is done through two complementary mechanisms. The Private Sector Development Fund transfers know-how and technology to private enterprise. The Institution Building Program ensures a better fit between training and employment. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 116

Angola
Description: Canadian assistance to Angola has been limited to food aid, humanitarian assistance, assistance with de-mining and support channelled through the regional program. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 128

Benin
Description: The central theme of the CIDA program in Benin is support to economic growth mainly through the development of the private sector. The major initiatives in this area are directed at improving the economic and legal environment, the development of a cooperative network, and support to women entrepreneurs. CIDA is also providing assistance for the management reform of the office of the President. Benin is also benefiting from regional projects, such as l'Institut supérieur panafricain d'économie coopérative and the "SIDA" project against AIDS. CIDA also supports the activities of several NGOs in Benin, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 326

Botswana
Description: Because of Botswana's favourable economic situation, CIDA's bilateral assistance to Botswana is being phased out. Botswana will continue to benefit from CIDA's multi-country (regional) projects and the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFO 200

Burkina Faso
Description: CIDA intends to focus its bilateral programming on support for the non-mechanized and urban private sector so that they truly contribute to growth, and on empowering groups and individuals to contribute to their own development through basic education (especially for girls), social communication, and administrative decentralization. Regional approaches will be favoured for environmental issues and opening up remote areas (roads and telecommunications). CIDA also supports several NGOs, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 960

Burundi
Description: The political instability prevailing in Burundi makes the planning of development interventions difficult. The several hundred thousand Rwandan refugees on Burundian soil constitute an urgent problem that must be resolved before development assistance can be resumed. Canadian assistance in the short term will consist of support for the peace process, humanitarian aid and support for local NGOs in human rights and democratic development initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 224

Cameroon
Description: The assistance program in Cameroon emphasizes private-sector support to assist the recovery of the Cameroonian economy (Yaounde business creation centre, the promotion of agricultural exports, small business support, job training). It also focuses on forest environment sector support to help the country to conserve and manage its considerable forest resources with a view to sustainable development. Other activities are also being implemented in the areas of energy, basic human needs and democratic development. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 232

Cape Verde
Description: The CIDA program in Cape Verde supports small projects financed by the Canada Fund, as well as NGO projects. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 251

Central African Republic
Description: Several small-scale projects are financed by the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI): rural development, health care, and education. The Central African Republic is also eligible for various regional programs or projects, including: (a) the Francophone Africa Technological Institution Building Program (PRIMTAF); (b) the AIDS program; (c) the Institut africain d'informatique (IAI) institutional support project; (d) the integrated management program for foreign executives (PIMCE). Program Record Number: IDA BFG 266 for Local Initiatives (CFLI). In addition, two institutional support projects relate to staff training in the public service and in specialized schools. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 294

Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC)
Description: The situation in the Great Lakes region of Africa is characterized by the emergence of successive violent crises, disregard for human rights, and considerable risk that the situation might get out of control on regional scale. These events prove the urgent need to stabilize the situation in DRC. CIDA developed a policy framework and planned programs for DRC in February 1998, after dialogue with Congolese authorities resumed thanks to the "Friends of Congo". The Canadian approach developed by CIDA proposes a transition program to support the Government's efforts to stabilize the situation and to lay the foundation for a genuine constitutional state. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 352

Djibouti
Description: Canada contributes to the implementation of small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 332

Egypt
Description: CIDA seeks to assist Egypt to promote sustainable development and encourages a mutually beneficial partnership between Canada and Egypt. The two major themes of the program are social and economic reform (transition to a market economy and a participative society), water and the environment (sustainable resource management). Assistance focuses on capacity building, notably through the transfer of Canadian technology. Key projects aim at integrated land and water resource development, the protection and development of the Nile, the establishment of an industrial adjustment service, improved Agency management and training in electrical engineering, the implementation of an environmental information system, and employment creation in the small and medium business sector. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 344

Equatorial Guinea
Description: This country benefits from the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 437

Eritrea
Description: Activities are implemented in support of Basic Human Needs (food security and basic education) and of Governance (census, economic planning). The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI) supports the implementation of small scale projects. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 371

Ethiopia
Description: The program focuses on two main areas: food security and human rights / good governance / democratic development. Projects aim at building the capacity of local institutions in areas such as: disaster mitigation and early warning, justice and parliament. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI) supports the implementation of small scale projects. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 362

Gabon
Description: The program is being reduced. Technical cooperation consists mainly of a shared-cost technical and scientific training project, which is about to terminate. Economic cooperation, basically consisting of a parallel CIDA/EDC line of credit, is ongoing. A rural electrification project is currently being implemented by means of this line of credit. Gabon also benefits from the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFG 386

The Gambia
Description: The bilateral activity in The Gambia is to support small projects through the Canada Fund as well as from the Democratic Development Fund (DDF). The DDF is intended to support and encourage democratic activities in Nigeria, Sierra Leone and The Gambia. In addition, CIDA supports NGO activities in the country. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 390

Ghana
Description: The oldest and largest CIDA program in Africa, initiated in 1958, the primary objective of the CIDA-Ghana program is to assist the Government of Ghana achieve its goal of poverty reduction. Over the past decade, this has largely been through support to structural adjustment and economic reform. Canada has also been involved in initiatives in support of the democratic process, NGO and private sector activities, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. The program is now in transition, seeking a new balance between macro-economic programming, poverty targeted projects and private sector-trade related programming. A focus on water, governance and food security is planned. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 400

Guinea
Description: Current programming primarily supports the development of infrastructures, especially in the energy sector, as well as vocational/technical training. Initiatives in support of fisheries management and democratic development are financed by the bilateral program. In addition, CIDA is supporting various projects ranging from a regional health project, assistance to refugees, industrial co-operation, NGO activities and small projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Finally, new expanded programming has started in basic human needs and micro-finance. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 436

Guinea-Bissau
Description: The CIDA program in Guinea-Bissau supports small projects financed by the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI), as well as NGO activities. In 1998, CIDA was providing emergency humanitarian assistance in response to the recent civil war. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 746

Ivory Coast
Description: CIDA's cooperation program with Ivory Coast goes back to 1966. The program's two main focuses are support for the private sector, mainly the development of labour-intensive cooperatives and small business, and support for good governance, mainly strengthening decentralization and civil society. Ivory Coast also benefits from several initiatives funded by the Pan-Africain Program in the same areas, as well as additional areas such as health, training, and women in development. CIDA also funds NGOs active in Ivory Coast and small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 500

Jordan
Description: Key projects executed in Jordan focus on supporting the peace process in the Middle East and addressing basic human needs. Canada is helping Jordan to pursue its reforms in the areas of water and professional and technical training. Environmental protection, income-generating activities for women, and support for grass-roots activities are also key elements of this program. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 516

Kenya
Description: The main areas of intervention are human resource development, education, agriculture, and rural development. One important new initiative is a project encouraging gender equity. Support is also provided to rural development and community health care programs, as well as well as to an AIDS program. Several local organisations and community groups are supported through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 524

Lebanon
Description: The main project supported by CIDA aims to support taxation reform in order for the government to better fulfil its own mandate. The creation of a professional college is under way; support to Geographic Information Systems of the City of Beirut will shortly be completed, as well as support to public service reform. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 546

Lesotho
Description: Canada no longer has a bilateral program with Lesotho. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives is administered from Pretoria. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 554

Liberia
Description: Canada does not have a bilateral program or a Canada Fund with Liberia. Canada has contributed several million dollars in humanitarian and food aid to the region since the beginning of the civil war. It is anticipated that a Canada Fund will be re-established when the civil war ends. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 558

Madagascar
Description: Assistance for small projects is provided through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives and number of scholarships for studies at Canadian colleges and universities are provided through "les bourses de la francophonie". Madagascar also receives some assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and private businesses from CIDA's Partnership Branch and receives support for educational and training institutions through the regional Francophone Africa technological institution building program. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 590

Malawi
Description: Malawi is one of the target countries for CIDA in Southern Africa. Programming priorities include at least 80 per cent basic human needs (education and health), complemented by governance initiatives that contribute to an improved investment climate. Emphasis is placed on increasing women's capacities and decision-making roles. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 594

Mali
Description: The Canadian cooperation program has begun a transition in recent years. We have gradually shifted from structural adjustment programs and protection of the plant cover, to programming based on economic development, social development and good governance. At the same time, we have continued to give priority to women in development as a cross-cutting theme. Mali is also a recipient of several initiatives funded by the regional program. Key initiatives include the OMVS project (hydro-electric development of the Senegal River and commissioning of the electric power plant to be installed at the Manantali dam); the AIDS project; the Strengthening Civil Society in the Sahel project, a regional project to help build the capacities of civil-society organizations dedicated to development and especially combating desertification in three Sahel countries; and finally, the Democracy and the Media project. CIDA also funds many NGOs active in Mali and small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 608

Mauritania
Description: The bilateral program consists of two projects, a line of credit which supports poverty reduction activities through basic human needs projects, as well as new projects in micro-finance. There are also numerous projects financed through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI) in training and natural resources management. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 636

Mauritius
Description: Assistance to Mauritius is currently being provided through scholarships to Canadian universities administered under the francophone program, and from regional programming. Small projects are supported through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 640

Middle East Regional
Description: CIDA funds projects supporting the peace process in the Middle East. The Canadian Fund for Dialogue and Development encourages contact and cooperation on key development issues through seminars, conferences and workshops. The Consultant Services Fund supports Canadian involvement in the multilateral negotiations of the peace process. A new project will soon provide core water-management training for the three key parties in the peace process. Finally, McGill University offers a training program in Social Work and Architecture that aims to improve access to low-cost housing for Palestinians and Jordanians. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 591

Morocco
Description: In accordance with the "Maghreb Today and Tomorrow" policy framework, the cooperation program in Morocco focuses on private-sector development support. It is executed primarily through two complementary mechanisms. The Private Sector Development Fund (PSDF) is designed to meet the know-how and technology needs of economic operators. The Institution Building Program in Morocco (PRICAM) enables training institutions to ensure a better fit between training and employment. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 660

Mozambique
Description: Programming priorities include basic human needs (including education, water and sanitation) governance, the transport sector, food aid, the environment and support for mine action. Mozambique also receives significant benefits from CIDA's multi-country projects for the region. Mozambique is the co-ordinator of the Southern Africa Development Community's transportation and communications program, and has received considerable assistance in the rehabilitation of its ports and railway lines. It also receives management and training assistance in the transport sector. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 664

Namibia
Description: Canada no longer has a bilateral program in Namibia. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives is administered from Pretoria. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 850

Niger
Description: In recent years, the main objective of the CIDA program has been to support Niger's development efforts in macro-economic balance, human resource development and rural development. CIDA also received substantial support in the development of its democratic process. Over the next few years, CIDA intends to focus its bilateral program on empowering human resources (especially women) and to contribute to their development by supporting education for girls and by strengthening democratic society. Environment and food security issues will be considered by the regional component and the multilateral program, respectively. Niger also benefits from the regional telecommunications project and the AIDS program. CIDA funds NGOs in Niger, as well as many small projects through the Canada Fund. The suspension of the execution of the bilateral program was lifted in August 1997. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 700

Nigeria
Description: Canada's bilateral aid program with Nigeria was terminated in 1995 in response to continued deterioration of economic and political circumstances. However, Nigeria is a recipient of assistance from a set of Democratic Development Funds (DDF). The DDFs are intended to support and encourage democratic activities. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 702

Organisation pour la mise en valeur du fleuve Sénégal (OMVS)
Description: OMVS is a regional agency created in 1972 to develop the resources of the Senegal River basin, shared by Mali, Mauritania and Senegal. The program focusses on agriculture, navigation and energy. Canada has supported this program to conduct studies prior to the building of dams; to procure, transport and install water inlet and outlet facilities for the Manantali dam and to implement the training and maintenance program for these facilities; to conduct technical studies on management of the waterway, harbours and ports of call of the Senegal River; and to conduct studies of the power transmission system. In cooperation with other donors, CIDA and the Canadian Industrial Sector are finalising their participation in the installation of power generation equipment and to the planning of transmission lines to Bamako, Dakar and Nouakehott. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 900

Republic of South Africa (RSA)
Description: Given the rapidly evolving situation in South Africa, an Interim Programming Strategy of bilateral assistance has been developed for project identification activities. The Strategy is centred on four areas: governance, human resource development (HRD), civil society and economic development. Future CIDA support will also concentrate on activities that foster regional co-operation on key development issues in all of the countries of the region, including South Africa. CIDA's current government to government program concentrates on governance, through policy, election support and human rights projects; human resource development, through institutional linkage, educational and training activities, and a student loan fund; and economic development, with assistance to information technology. Canada's assistance to South Africa in 1997-98 was almost $16.5 million, of which over $10.5 million was bilateral assistance; about $3.5 million was through multilateral agencies and $2.5 million was channelled through Canadian NGOs, NGIs and businesses.

Program Record Number: IDA BFO 842

Rwanda
Description: In addition to the provision of humanitarian assistance to prisoners and displaced persons, Canada is now actively supporting the social reconstruction of the country and the reorganization of the judicial system, through various UN organizations and Canadian NGOs and institutions. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 778

Sao Tomé and Principe
Description: This country benefits from the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFG 874

Senegal
Description: The bilateral program is focused on strengthening the productivity and efficiency of the private sector, sustainable management of natural resources, basic education, proactive WIDGE initiatives, micro-finance, decentralization and support for improved governance. Senegal benefits as well from regional projects in health, natural resources management and training. Some small projects are financed through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). In addition to bilateral assistance, CIDA's program in Senegal supports NGOs, institutions and industrial co-operation. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 808

Description: CIDA provides emergency assistance to populations affected by conflict, and finances the implementation of small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for local initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 838

Southern African Development Community (SADC)
Description: Canada has supported SADC since 1983. Since regional integration and cooperation are goals shared by SADC and CIDA a significant portion of projects in CIDA's Southern Africa Program have been multi-country (regional) projects. However, of the total Southern African Program, less than 20 per cent of program funding consists of direct assistance to SADC. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 050

Sudan
Description: CIDA provides emergency assistance to populations affected by conflict and finances the implementation of small-scale projects through the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFK 876

Swaziland
Description: CIDA's assistance program focuses on human resource development and natural resource management. Two projects currently help strengthen the government's pool of trained personnel in areas related to national development. Swaziland also enjoys significant benefits from CIDA multi-country projects for the region, and from projects supported through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFO 888

Tanzania
Description: CIDA's assistance program in Tanzania focuses on basic education, micro-enterprise development, transportation and telecommunications. As a member of SADC, Tanzania is eligible for the Southern Africa regional program for project implementation. Apart from the provision of equipment and materials, projects usually include a significant technical assistance and training component. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 902

Togo
Description: This country benefits from the financing of small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 918

Tunisia
Description: In accordance with the "Maghreb Today and Tomorrow" policy framework, the cooperation program between Canada and Tunisia increasingly focuses on supporting the development of Tunisia's productive sector and building training institutions, while aiming to help strengthen mutually beneficial partnerships. The program is executed primarily through two mechanisms. The Private Sector Development Fund (PSDF) transfers know-how and technology to private enterprise in Tunisia. The Institution Building Program (PRICAT) enables training institutions to tailor their services more effectively to the needs of the labour market. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 934

Uganda
Description: The program supports the health care, education and democratic development sectors. In the health sector, funds are provided to implement health care planning and delivery projects, including an AIDS education component and the purchase of pharmaceuticals. In the education sector, funds are provided to support primary education and democratic development and to strengthen human rights and good governance. Through Canadian NGOs and institutions, Partnership Branch supports a number of small scale rural development projects. Uganda also benefits from the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFK 942

West Bank and Gaza
Description: The bilateral program focuses on supporting the peace process in the Middle East and addressing basic human needs, especially those of Palestinian refugees. To this end, various projects provide support for community groups and local organizations, shelter for refugees, support for the city of Rafah, technical assistance, support in water planning and management, and support for democratic development. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 493

Yemen
Description: This country benefits from the Canada Fund which is administered by the Canadian Embassy in Riyadh and is intended to finance small projects providing technical, economic, educational, cultural or social development assistance to the local communities. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 986

Zambia
Description: Canadian assistance to Zambia focuses on support for environmental and natural resources management and basic human needs initiatives primarily in the areas of education and health. Zambia is also a beneficiary of several regional projects in the energy, transportation, forestry, and water sectors. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 994

Zimbabwe
Description: CIDA concentrates its interventions in Zimbabwe in the areas of governance and the environment. Several regional projects have a focus in Zimbabwe, encompassing the transportation, energy, forestry, and water sectors as well as HIV/AIDS training and education. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 766

Americas Branch

Bolivia
Description: Canada's bilateral assistance to Bolivia is the second largest program in South America. The program focuses on poverty reduction through meeting basic human needs in areas such as health, and private sector development at the micro-entrepreneur and small producer level to support the productive capacity of the poor. Governance is also an important focus of the program, which is addressed through support to key policy reforms of the Government of Bolivia, such as popular participation, decentralization, sustainable urban development, and public sector reform (e.g. technical assistance in the hydrocarbon and mining sectors). The main mechanism for addressing poverty and basic social needs is a counterpart fund, whose funds are generated through the sale of Canadian oil and gas and telecommunications equipment. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 192

Brazil
Description: The goal of CIDA's bilateral program is to promote equity by supporting trends toward public sector reform and broader participation in public decision-making. The program is based on the concept of "transfer of technology", where "technology" refers to Canadian know-how: expertise or experience, policy or regulatory approaches, and institutional, organizational, participatory, or managerial models. The program is predicated on (1) responding to Brazilian developmental needs and priorities, (2) providing access to relevant Canadian know-how, and (3) supporting partnerships between Canadian and Brazilian institutions. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 204

Caribbean Region
Description: Canada's bilateral assistance to the Caribbean Region involves regional projects such as the Caribbean Regional Oceans and Fisheries Program, the Caribbean Regional Human Resource Development Program for Economic Competitiveness, the Caribbean Gender Equity Fund, the Caribbean HIV/AIDS Project, and the Caribbean Regional Institutional Strengthening Project. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 017

Colombia
Description: The objectives of CIDA's bilateral program are to promote equity by improving access to justice and respect for human rights; to support good governance through assistance to economic reform and to regulatory reforms in telecommunications, mining and oil and gas; and to contribute to sustainable development, particularly in the area of environmental management. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 286

Costa Rica
Description: CIDA's objectives are to assist the country in its economic modernization efforts and to support sustainable development of its natural resources. Ongoing projects include conservation and socio-economic development of the Arenal Conservation area, and a program to support the modernization of the country's productive sector. Support is also being provided for local rehabilitation in areas of Costa Rica affected by Hurricane Mitch. Benefits are also received from two regional projects to assist in the implementation of reforms to improve efficiency, private sector participation, and equity in the electrical sector. Program Record Number: IDA BML 302

Cuba
Description: CIDA has a bilateral program in Cuba to provide assistance to the ongoing economic reform process, provide assistance in Health and Education and

Description: The following Eastern Caribbean island states or territories comprise this program unit: Anguilla, Antigua/Barbuda, British Virgin Islands, Dominica, Grenada, Montserrat, St. Kitts/Nevis, St. Lucia and St. Vincent and the Grenadines. CIDA's program focuses on education/human resources development and strengthening economic and environmental management. Major projects now in the implementation stage include the Eastern Caribbean Economic Management Project and the Eastern Caribbean Education Reform Project, and the Small Project Implementation Facility (providing small-scale economic infrastructure and hurricane rehabilitation assistance). In addition, CIDA approved funding for an OECS Environment Capacity Development Project and a Trade Policy Project. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 253

Ecuador
Description: The bilateral assistance program in Ecuador supports poverty reduction and promotes economic development. In addition to food aid, lines of credit for the sale of Canadian equipment in the oil and gas and telecommunications sectors provide funding for a counterpart fund. The counterpart fund in turn supports income-generating productive activities, sustainable development of natural resources, the strengthening of civil society, and the promotion of marginalized groups such as women, indigenous peoples, and children. In addition, a new health program provides support to Ecuador's Tuberculosis Control Program and enhances the laboratory network, treatment therapy and community participation and awareness. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 342

El Salvador
Description: The bilateral program in El Salvador support four priorities: promotion of human rights, democratic development and good governance; the development of a strong civil society; the improved productive and earning capacity of the poor; and improved sustainable management of natural resources . These priorities are being achieved through the Social Reconstruction Program (SRP) which funds initiatives that promote democracy, protection of human rights, income generation and poverty reduction. Longer term assistance is also being provided to communities working with the bilateral SRP, for rehabilitation and reconstruction of infrastructure and crop damage sustained by Hurricane Mitch. The Fund for the Environment supports sound management of natural resources, environmental protection and sustainable development. El Salvador also benefits from two regional projects, the Regional Energy Project, which supports existing recipient country reforms to improve efficiency, private sector participation, and equity in the electrical/energy sector, and the Regional Initiatives Project, providing support for regional institutions head quartered in El Salvador (e.g.OIRSA and SICA). Program Record Number: IDA BML 350

Guatemala
Description: Objectives of ODA in Guatemala are to support poverty reduction, democratic development, human rights and good governance. Post-Hurricane Mitch activities include local emergency and reconstruction initiatives. The bilateral program is focused on poverty reduction in support disadvantaged groups, especially indigenous and women, and democratic development and human rights. Two major projects provide support to communities. The Local Development Project helps strengthen agricultural and forestry co-operatives and producers' associations; provides training and promotes income generating activities among impoverished populations, and supports re-integration of refugee populations and persons displaced by the conflict. A Democratic Development Fund supports dialogue among many elements of civil society, promotes peace, and strengthens human rights through legal support in cases where it is needed. The PREAPAZ, or Socio-economic Reactivation project, supports strengthening of social and economic infrastructure in one of the hardest hit ex-conflict zones. Guatemala also benefits from the Regional Energy Program and the Regional initiatives Project (PAR). Program Record Number: IDA BML 432

Guyana
Description: CIDA's program focuses on strengthening economic and environmental management and poverty reduction. Major projects now in implementation include the Guyana Economic Management program, the Building Community Capacity Project, Social Infrastructure Project and the Guyana Business Advisory Project. Recently, CIDA approved two new projects that will move into implementation in 1999. They are the Capacity Development in Environmental Management Project and the Guyana Basic Education Teacher Training Project. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 440

Haiti
Description: The main objective of the bilateral program is to help poverty reduction. However, reforming justice system is also a priority. The current program provides support to basic human needs, which currently focuses on food aid, such as school meal, and gives support to the rehabilitation after hurricane George, basic education and agricultural production. Programming in economic development includes projects in the environment, agricultural and savings and loans cooperatives, as well as support to Haïti Electricity Society. The program also provides supports to good governance, human rights and democratic development, with a particular focus on institution building in the areas of Justice (administrative reform, training), Police (advisory services, training) and public administration reform. Program Record Number: IDA BMH 444

Honduras

Description: Canada intends to play an active role in post-Mitch reconstruction by doubling its aid flows to Honduras over the next four years. The main objectives of the current program are sustainable management of natural resources, poverty reduction, provision of basic human needs, and assistance to infrastructure services, mainly water and energy. A Mitch Reconstruction Project contributes to the rehabilitation of water and sanitation systems, emphasizes health and hygiene education, brings support to local government structures for prevention and medical treatment, brings financial support to the food distribution process, assists in the rehabilitation of houses, and reactivates agricultural production. A forest project promotes employment generation for local communities and sustainable management of the hardwood forest; an agricultural diversification and rural employment creation in the Guayape Valley; and a water project is directed at increasing the supply of potable water to poor communities. A regional project will assist in the implementation of reforms already under way to lead to improved efficiency, private sector participation, and equity in the electrical sector. Program Record Number: IDA BML 448

Jamaica

Description: The main objectives of the program are environmental management, economic competitiveness, good governance and the development of civil society. Capacity development projects with the Forestry Department and the National Environmental Agency support environmental management objectives, while a fund for small initiatives supports environmental activities at the community level. In the area of economic competitiveness, a human resource development project will provide short-term work-related training opportunities. Projects in the governance sector support the strengthening of civil society organizations, the local government reform process, conflict management through strengthening legal institutions and community level interventions. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 504

Nicaragua

Description: Canada intends to play an active role in post-Mitch reconstruction by increasing its aid flows by about 30% over the next four years. The main objectives of the current program are to contribute to poverty reduction, support economic revitalization, and assist in the provision of basic human needs. A Mitch Reconstruction Project has provided funds to be transferred to a local Counterpart Fund for rehabilitation of water and sanitation systems, small health and education infrastructure, and rehabilitation of the agriculture sector affected by the hurricane. A Line of Credit project provides a balance of payments support through the export of Canadian commodities (plastics, paper and fertilizer) to the Nicaraguan private sector, and also provides the financing of socio-economic projects to the poorest through a local counterpart fund. An Agro-Pastoral Sector project strengthens the capacity of private co-operatives serving small and medium-sized producers and to increase post-harvest production. Another project supports the marketing of agricultural products and the production of improved seeds. Projects in potable water supply and sanitation are targeted toward rural communities. A regional project will assist in the implementation of reforms already under way to lead to improved efficiency, private sector participation, and equity in the electrical sector. Program Record Number: IDA BML 696

Peru

Description: Canada's development assistance program to Peru is the largest in South America and addresses four main themes. The first is poverty reduction and the promotion of equity. This is addressed in part through a counterpart fund, which use funds generated through lines of credit and food aid to support income-generating productive projects. Other initiatives which work to raise family income include support to agricultural cooperatives and cooperative credit, and micro-entreprise training for women. CIDA is also working to improve the human capital of the poor through projects in water and sanitation, and peri-natal health. A second focus of bilateral programming is environmentally sustainable economic growth, which includes activities such as environmental management in mining and natural gas distribution, and lines of credit for mining, oil and gas, and telecommunications equipment. A third area of programming is governance, which includes technical assistance in municipal strengthening, and economic policy research and training. The fourth program area is human rights, which includes dissemination of international humanitarian law, and support to human rights activities, for example through the office of the Human Rights Ombudsman. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 730

Asia Branch

Southeast Asia Regional Program

Description: The purpose of the Southeast Asia Regional Program is to address the regional dimension of development issues of common concern in Southeast Asia. Projects are designed to complement country-level programs and provide a mechanism for dealing with issues which may be considered sensitive at the national level. Issues such as the promotion of human rights, rule of law and other democracy and governance issues, cooperative security, and trans-boundary issues, including illegal trafficking in women and children, regional migration and regional air and marine pollution are examples of matters often dealt with most effectively at the regional level. As countries struggle with these issues, a regional approach can be helpful in fostering broader perspectives, constructive dialogue and a positive vision for the future. Over the years, the Regional Program has strengthened regional institutions and organizations through linkages with Canadian counterparts, deepening mutual understanding of priority issues through dialogue and involvement in key networks. In pursuing its development goals, the Regional Program seeks to promote regional cooperation and integration through awareness building, networking, technical assistance and technology transfer. The Regional Program focuses on three priorities: environment, governance/democratic development/human rights, and gender equality, and utilizes multiple channels to deliver programming, including regional institutions, regional organizations and networks, regional fora such as ASEAN and APEC, and trilateral cooperation Program Record Number: IDA BSD 150

Bangladesh
Description: CIDA's program in Bangladesh is focused strongly on poverty reduction. Priorities are basic human needs and governance with gender as a primary crosscutting theme. Basic human needs programming includes non-formal education, microfinance, skills development for the disadvantaged, a major multi-donor project in maternal health and food aid. Governance efforts are geared to improving systems of economic management and include projects to facilitate investment increase efficiency in infrastructure, water management and agricultural production. Gender programming is designed to mainstream gender issues into government line ministries complemented by targeted programs to address specific issues. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 170

Burma (Myanmar)
Description: CIDA suspended its regular assistance program in 1988. However, the humanitarian assistance program for refugees along the borders of Thailand, Bangladesh and India has remained active. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 220

Cambodia
Description: Canadian assistance to Cambodia consists largely of humanitarian and community-based projects aimed at building the capacities of people and institutions. Bilateral activities are funded mainly through the Cambodia-Canada Development Program, a $5.0 million project which contributes to building the capacity of Cambodian organizations and institutions that deliver programs in food security, health and human resource development. In addition, there are small-scale projects of local organizations which get funding from the Canada Fund. There are also several small activities in the areas of respect for human rights, public administration reform and legal/judicial reform. Support is also being provided to address the landmines problem in Cambodia.
Program Record Number: IDA BSD 228

Laos PDR
Description: Canada's objective is to support sustainable development in Lao PDR by addressing basic human needs and supporting community development, by fostering Canadian- Lao business and institutional cooperation, and by encouraging Lao participation in Southeast Asia regional cooperation. Much of Canada's bilateral assistance is provided through the Canada Fund for community projects such as rural water supply, school repairs and health care training.

China
Description: CIDA's development cooperation program with China emphasizes three main themes: (a) developing economic cooperation between China and Canada with special attention to the support of China's ongoing economic reforms in those areas necessary for the development of a socialist-oriented market economy, and the promotion of economic linkages; (b) promoting environmental sustainability with special emphasis on global issues such as global warming, the promotion of economic cooperation in environmental goods and services and the transfer of environmental impact assessment technology; (c) increasing China's capacity to improve governance, respect for human rights and democratic development processes. In addition, the program supports gender equity and poverty reduction in all aspects of its activities. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 282

India
Description: The bilateral Development Co-operation Program, now nearly fifty years old, forms one of the cornerstones of India-Canada relations. Canada's current development goals in India are to promote sustainable development and to contribute to the transition to a more mature economic and political relationship between India and Canada. CIDA`s program priorities in India are: the support for economic and social reform; the environment; and private sector development. CIDA is assisting India to assess and develop economic and social policies in a variety of ways. For example, IDRC, UNDP and Indian National Council of Applied Economic Research are studying key issues arising from the liberalization program such as the impact of adjustment on the poor. Development International Desjardin is working with Indian NGOs and banking institutions on the "Banking with the Poor Project" to give the rural poor increased access to credit. Support to India's environmental development operates at three levels. At the village level, a treegrowers co-operative federation has reforested thousands of hectares benefiting thousands of marginal farmers. At the industrial level, CIDA is assisting the Confederation of Indian Industry to establish an Environmental Management Division to introduce improved environmental practices. At the institutional/policy level, CIDA is supporting partnership of the TATA Energy Research Institute and the International Institute of Sustainable Development of Winnipeg in the development of a national energy efficiency policy. Support to India's private sector development primarily involves activity in the telecommunications and energy sectors, as well as a project aimed at overcoming the administrative and policy bottlenecks facing private sector development in general.

Indonesia

Description: Canada's development co-operation program with Indonesia promotes sustainable development by (a) facilitating good governance and the broadening of public participation in the country's development, with a special focus on women's participation, (b) supporting the application of sound environmental policies, and (c) strengthening the role of the private sector in Indonesian development. Current major projects include: a large environmental program, co-operation in financial sector reform, institutional linkages between McGill University, Simon Fraser University and Indonesian Universities, a women's support program, water sector institutional development and Canadian-Indonesian NGO linkages. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 472

Malaysia

Description: Canadian assistance to Malaysia is continuously geared toward a relationship of economic cooperation based on the pursuit of common interests. Canadian aid is aimed at helping Malaysia to manage its developmental sustainability, and to encourage the establishment of long-term relations between Canada and Malaysia as well as Southeast Asia. There are currently bilateral activities addressing the CIDA priorities of human resource development, governance, gender equity and basic human needs. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 600

Nepal

Description: Informed by Nepal's development needs, CIDA's co-operation program with Nepal primarily focuses on human resource development and the environment. The latter includes regionally appropriate water and energy resource management. The objective is to reinforce key national and local community-based institutions to participate in and improve the delivery of development programs. Current activity includes: The Community Based Economic Development Project (CBED); The Water and Energy Commission Secretariat (WECS) Institutional Development Project (WIDP); and the Community Groundwater Irrigation Project (CGIP). Program Record Number: IDA BSD 676.

Pakistan

Description: CIDA's assistance program in Pakistan focuses on (a) social sector development through strengthening of civil society, empowerment of women, basic human needs, citizens' rights and responsibilities, health and community development; (b) environment and natural resource management, through support for the implementation of the National Conservation Strategy and measures to integrate environmental issues with economic planning; (c) energy development, through design and articulation of a regulatory framework for the oil and gas sector, the implementation of sustainable energy resource management policies and power generation works. The program promotes linkages between Canadian and Pakistani civil society groups. Special consideration is given to integrating gender issues in all aspects of the program. CIDA is also implementing the communications aspect of Pakistan's Social Action Program, a collaboration between the Government of Pakistan and the major development assistance donors that addresses basic human needs. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 714

Philippines

Description: The country program has two main thrusts: (a) promoting responsible governance at the national and local levels, including strengthening the capacity of democratic institutions and non-governmental and people's organizations and (b) expanding the Philippines private sector capabilities in the areas of mutual interests between the two countries. Cross-cutting themes such as environment, gender equity, basic needs and infrastructure services are also addressed. In order to maximize the program's impact, some program activities are directed at helping national level institutions while the majority of development projects are targeted to three of the country's poorest regions: Western Visayas, Southern Mindanao, and the Autonomous Region of Muslim Mindanao. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 734.

South Asia Regional

Description: The objective of CIDA`s South Asia Regional Program is to expand regional cooperation in five priority areas: Poverty Reduction, Environment, Economic Integration, Peace & Stability and Human Development. The focus of the program is to foster sustainable linkages between Canada and South Asia which promote dialogue between partners, support the development of regional networks and contribute to building awareness about regional issues both in Canada and in South Asia. To date, the South Asia Regional Program has supported projects in the area of health, gender equity and regional economic integration. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 154

South Pacific

Description: Canada's development cooperation programme in the South Pacific is directed towards the strengthening of key regional organizations in the effective management and protection of the region's marine resources. Emphasis is placed on human resource development involving training and technical assistance in the key area of fisheries. CIDA also provides technical support for the institutional strengthening of Pacific NGOs in cooperation with UNDP. In addition, assistance is channelled to small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Support is also given to Canadian non-governmental organizations and institutions as well as the private sector. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 844

Sri Lanka

Description: The objective of the Sri Lanka program is to address the political, social and economic causes of the current conflict, through: (a) support for key institutions engaged in improving economic reform policies, and promoting human rights and democratic values; (b) strengthening of the community-level institutions promoting economic activity, employment creation and provision of basic social services among those whose unfulfilled aspirations have fuelled the conflict; and (c) as circumstances permit, to assist in reconstruction and rehabilitation. In light of the present conflict, assistance to Sri Lanka is provided through multilateral organizations or channelled via non-governmental organizations. Current projects involve activity in the areas of Good Governance and Institutional Strengthening, Rehabilitation through Training, and enhancement of food security in the conflict area. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 270.

Thailand

Description: Canadian aid to Thailand has two strategic goals: to strengthen Thailand's capability in managing its development in a sustainable fashion and to reinforce broader Canadian efforts to foster a long-term relationship with Thailand and the region. Programming priorities include: human resources development, governance, environment, private sector development, basic human needs and gender equity. Canada's program of assistance to Thailand continues to develop toward a broader partnership based on the pursuit of mutual interests. As such, CIDA is providing technical assistance for sustainable development in Thailand by increasing Thai access to Canadian expertise, technology, and education and training. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 906

Vietnam

Description: CIDA continues to develop a long term ODA program with Vietnam focused on promoting sustainable development and on providing the Vietnamese with the means to meet the challenges faced during the transition to a market economy. The program focuses on three main themes - governance, poverty reduction and private sector development. CIDA involvement in Vietnam includes several bilateral projects in the following areas: support for the economic and administrative reform process; policy development; human resources training; transfer of technology and Canadian "know-how" in the priority areas of the environment, transportation, education and information technology; and support for the programs of institutions, organizations and communities that work to reduce poverty in the rural areas. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 975

Canadian International Trade Tribunal
Chapter 31

General Information

Background
Bill C-110, which established the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (CITT) and dissolved the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board, received Royal Assent on September 13, 1988. Sections of the Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act establishing the corporate structure of the CITT were proclaimed on September 15, 1988. Sections of the Act giving the CITT operational responsibilities and dissolving the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board came into force on December 31, 1988. Pursuant to the NAFTA Implementation Act, on January 1, 1994, the Tribunal became Canada's bid challenge authority in respect of federal government procurement as contemplated under Article 1017 of NAFTA. The Tribunal succeeds the Procurement Review Board of Canada in this capacity. The Tribunal also acts as the bid challenge authority under the Agreement on Internal Trade (AIT) and the World Trade Organization Agreement on Government Procurement (WTO).

Responsibilities
The CITT is a quasi-judicial tribunal responsible for conducting dumping and countervailing injury inquiries, making inquiries and carrying out recommendations as directed and considering import safeguard complaints by domestic producers. It is empowered to deal with appeals from decisions of the Minister or the Deputy Minister of National Revenue involving mainly customs and excise matters. The Tribunal receives and decides complaints from Canadian, American and Mexican suppliers who believe that the procurement process conducted by the Canadian Federal Government was not carried out in accordance with NAFTA, as well as complaints under the AIT and the WTO. The Tribunal also conducts investigations into requests from Canadian producers for tariff relief on imported textile inputs used in their production operations.

Legislation
- Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act, 1988
- Customs Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-54)
- Excise Tax Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-E14)
- Special Import Measures Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-515)

Organization
The Tribunal consists of a Chairman, two vice-chairs, and not more than six other permanent members to be appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council may also appoint up to five temporary members, as required. The Tribunal is supported by the Research Branch, the Legal Services Branch, the Procurement Review Division and the Secretariat.

General Information

Background
The Canadian Museum of Civilization Corporation (CMCC), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act.

The CMCC comprises the Canadian Museum of Civilization (CMC) and its affiliate: The Canadian War Museum (CWM).

The Corporation has two public facilities: The CMC located at 100 Laurier Street, Hull, Quebec and the CWM at 330 Sussex Drive, Ottawa, Ontario.

Responsibilities
The purpose of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, is: "to increase, throughout Canada and internationally, interest in, knowledge and critical understanding of and appreciation and respect for human cultural achievements and human behaviour by establishing, maintaining and developing for research and posterity a collection of objects of historical or cultural interest, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and by demonstrating those achievements and behaviour, the knowledge derived from them and the understanding they represent."

Legislation
- The Museums Act (Statutes of Canada 1990, Chapter 3)

Organization

♦ Canadian War Museum (CWM)
The CWM is an affiliate of the CMC. The purpose of the CWM is "to share in the remembrance of, and serve as a memorial to, those Canadians lost in, or as a result of, war; to examine the war and war-related history of Canada and its effect upon Canada and Canadians; and to document Canada's continuing commitment to peacekeeping and the maintenance of international security".

The CWM comprises: Office of the Director and Chief Executive Officer, Public Programmes and Collections Division, and Research and Exhibitions Division.

♦ Development Branch
This Branch is responsible for establishing and maintaining relationships with the business world and for carrying out fundraising and development activities.

♦ Directorate
The Directorate is responsible for the direction of the CMCC and the management of all its activities, resources and outputs. The Directorate comprises: Office of the President and Chief Executive Officer, Corporate Secretariat, Audit and Evaluation and Office of the Chief Operating Officer.

♦ Exhibitions and Programmes Branch
This Branch plans, develops, manages and evaluates a balanced programme of permanent, temporary and travelling exhibitions and interpretive programmes (live interpretation, special events and education) in support of the CMCC's purpose and objectives. The Branch comprises: Exhibitions and Design Division, Public Programmes Division, Canadian Children's Museum, and Canadian Postal Museum.

♦ Museum Services
This Branch is responsible for the provision of management and financial services. These include materiel and facilities management, as well as, protection, informatics and personnel services. Furthermore, this Branch plans, establishes and manages commercial programmes. The Branch comprises: Human Resources Division, Financial and Administrative Services, Commercial Operations, and Property Management, Hosting and Security Services Division.

♦ Public Affairs Branch
This Branch is responsible for the CMCC's public image, media and public relations, promotional activities and material, advertising, internal communications, official ceremonial events, liaison between the CMCC, government and the community at large. In addition, this Branch is responsible for the marketing activity of the CMCC.

♦ Research and Collections Branch
This Branch undertakes research programmes designed to add to the collections of the CMCC and to the level of knowledge relating to the analysis of regional cultural entities that make up our heritage and through investigation of the processes that have served to define the Canadian cultural experience. This Branch also maintains, preserves and makes accessible to users the collections of the CMCC and related information. The Branch comprises: History Division, Canadian Ethnology Service, Archaeological Survey of Canada, Cultural Studies, Publishing Group, Aboriginal Training, Program, Collections, Conservation and Display Services, Library, Archives and Documentation Services.

Classes of Personal Information

Some CMCC files summarized in the program records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about CMC and CWM collections, programmes and services, information and advice given to individuals by CMC and CWM employees about museums and museum objects, and information about individuals in documents relating to grants or proposed grants to institutions.

These classes of personal information are kept on the relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, the CMCC would need as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographic location and the time the information would have come to the CMC or the CWM.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are the same as those for the subject files containing the information.

Canadian Museum of Nature
Chapter 33

General Information

Background
The Canadian Museum of Nature (CMN), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act, and reports to parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage. It is administered by its own directorate under the authority of a Board of Trustees. The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the CMN.

Responsibilities
The purposes of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, are to establish and maintain for research and posterity a collection of natural history objects, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and to use the collection, the knowledge derived from it and the understanding it represents, to increase throughout Canada and internationally, interest, knowledge, appreciation and respect for the natural world.

Legislation
- The Museums Act, 1990

Organization
♦ Collections
This programme is responsible for the provision of collection-based products and services required to build knowledge and appreciation of nature by developing, managing, and preserving collections of natural history objects for the benefit of present and future generations to meet the increasing requirements such as the rapid changes in the Arctic, Canada's national and international role in biodiversity, and needed understanding of the changing natural world.

♦ Corporate Services
This programme is responsible for the provision of leadership in developing new and innovative techniques in the management of the CMN and to develop business initiatives to offset declining appropriations.

♦ Public Education
This programme is responsible for fostering an understanding of and empathy with nature, to build natural science literacy on this foundation, and to develop awareness and dialogue in Canadian society about crucial current issues concerning the natural world.

♦ Research
This programme is responsible for the creation of a critical mass of expertise and scientific knowledge so informed decisions can be made in three pressing areas: of natural science: Issues in Biodiversity, Paleobiological Studies and Rare Elements.

Canadian Polar Commission

Chapter 34

General Information

Background

In September 1985 the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development commissioned a study group to investigate the state of Canadian polar science. Based on extensive consultations with Canada's northern research community, government departments, and non-government organizations, the study group produced its report, Canada and Polar Science, in March 1987. Among its recommendations was a call for the creation of "a national body ...to provide ongoing contact, at a senior level, between the federal government and those concerned with Canadian polar science and research".

Professor Thomas Symon's report The Shield of Achilles, which became the draft of a mandate for the Canadian Polar Commission, expressed concern that a new commission not duplicate the efforts of other institutions, but "...build upon, complement and support the work of the many diverse existing Canadian institutions, programmes, and organizations that are dedicated to the development of polar knowledge".

As a result of these efforts, the Canadian Polar Commission provides a new focus for polar scientific research in Canada. Through active interchange with industry, the private sector, governments, aboriginal people and other northern residents, the academic community, and interest groups, the Commission can reinforce Canada's existing role and reputation in the polar world.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Commission is to monitor and to assess the state of polar knowledge in the country, and to foster the development of this important part of Canadian science. To this end, the Commission's role is to help determine scientific priorities with regard to polar regions, encourage Canadian organizations to support development and dissemination of knowledge of these regions, advise the minister responsible (Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs) on polar matters, disseminate information about polar research, and foster international cooperation regarding the sharing of polar knowledge.

It is within the mandate of the Commission to sponsor conferences, seminars and other activities, provide financial support for studies and the publication of reports, recognize achievements in polar science, support and encourage in various ways the endeavours of those who are involved in polar research.

Legislation

- Canadian Polar Commission Act (February 1991)

Organization

The Canadian Polar Commission is made up of 7 members, selected for their skills and merits. These members, who form the Board of Directors of the Commission, cannot be full-time employees in the Public Service of Canada. They are appointed for three year terms. Sub-committees have been established on science and the environment, international affairs, communications and the Canadian Polar Information Directory. The Polar Commission itself can call on others, especially northerners, to sit on these committees.

The Canadian Polar Commission offices are located in Ottawa and Yellowknife.

Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission

Chapter 35

General Information

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority that operates at "arm's length" from government and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage. It was established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency with a mandate to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction.

On 4 June 1991 a new Broadcasting Act was proclaimed. On 25 October 1993 the new Telecommunications Act, replacing the Railway Act and the National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act, was proclaimed. As a result of a 26 April 1994 decision by the Supreme Court of Canada involving Téléphone Guèvremont Inc., 49 telephone companies providing services on a strictly local or intra-provincial basis, but with interconnection to inter-provincial services, and formerly subject to provincial legislative and regulatory authority, were brought within federal legislative authority and became therefore subject to the CRTC's jurisdiction.

Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates both the public and private sectors with a view to implementing the broadcasting policy for Canada set out in section 3 of the Broadcasting Act. It has the power, inter alia, to issue, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences and to set any conditions of licence it deems necessary. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and not unjustly discriminatory. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic and certain other types of agreements and capital stock issues. In order to fulfil its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information pertaining to applicants and existing licensees operating programming, distribution or network undertakings across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns. Programming on radio and television is monitored: television stations, including pay television and specialty services, must submit detailed program logs monthly and radio stations must submit their program logs upon request. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Broadcasting Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express his/her views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure. The Commission receives complaints and inquiries from specific individuals or corporations, or interest groups regarding both broadcasting and telecommunications. The Commission forwards certain complaints to the Ombudsman for Telecommunications Services. Copies of complaints relating to broadcasting matters are forwarded to the licensee concerned for comment and placed on a file available for examination by the public. As appropriate, they may be forwarded to the Canadian Broadcast Standards Council (the CBSC), which administers industry standards and codes of conduct or to the Cable Television Standards Council (CTSC) which administers Cable Service Standards.

Organization

The Secretary General and Chief Operating Officer

The Secretary General and Chief Operating Office of the Commission is responsible for corporate leadership for the development and implementation of strategies and initiatives to further the Commission's Vision. This includes co-ordination of Broadcasting and Telecommunications regulatory activities as well as Legal advice, Secretariat services for and on behalf of the Commission. The Office of the Secretary General is the formal point of contact for the general public and industry with the Commission and communicates decisions and notices on behalf of the Commission. The Secretary General directs the effective operations and administration of the Commission and co-ordinates internal management services.

Broadcasting Directorate

The Broadcasting Directorate is responsible for providing the Commission with all information needed to regulate those broadcasting undertakings subject to the CRTC's jurisdiction and for developing general broadcasting regulatory policy for adoption by the Commission. The Directorate develops advice and recommendations to the Commission in order to implement the Broadcasting Policy for Canada set out in section 3 of the Broadcasting Act. The Directorate enhances the policy and research capabilities in Broadcasting by devoting additional resources to these areas and removing one level of management; integrate the English-language and French-language radio and television programming activities; enable us to co-ordinate the growing number of television specialty channels; and to raise the profile of both New Media and international activities to respond to developments and expectations both domestically and in the global marketplace. The Broadcasting Directorate is headed by the Executive Director, Broadcasting. The responsibilities of the Directorate are carried out by six divisions reporting to the Executive Director, Broadcasting.

♦ Broadcast Analysis

Broadcast Analysis keeps track of the programming activities of broadcast undertakings, including radio, television, specialty, pay and pay-per-view services, and the community channels. It also keeps track of who's who and what's going on in the industry and how much it all costs. Broadcast Analysis is also responsible for the processing of each broadcast application from its initial submission through to the issuance of a decision and a licence.

♦ Broadcast Distribution and Technology

Broadcast Distribution and Technology develops the policy framework for all technologies used now or to be used in the future for the distribution of broadcast programming, including cable, satellite, various wireless technologies, and telephone companies' (telco) networks. The directorate is consulted on the interpretation of existing cable policies and regulations, and for the development of regulatory approaches to "new media" services.

♦ Discretionary Services and Social Policy Branch

The Discretionary Services and Social Policy Branch deals with social and other cross-media issues and is also responsible for pay and specialty policy as well as for aboriginal broadcasting.

♦ New Media and International Branch

The New Media and International Branch recognizes the expanding role and responsibility of the Commission in the field of new media. In addition, our growing links with broadcasting regulators in other countries, our work with the International Institute of Communications, and the recognition that Canadian broadcasters are increasingly affected by the global marketplace require us to establish a focal point for coordinating our international work.

♦ Radio and Television Branch

The Radio and Television Branch is responsible for the activies related to English-language and French-language programming in radio and television.

♦ Regulatory Research Branch

The Regulatory Research Branch is responsible for consolidating our activities in research into economic industry and consumer trends affecting the broadcasting industry in Canada.

Communications Branch

The Communications Branch:

- develops and carries out all communications strategies to inform the public, media, and regulated industries;

- elaborates on our messages and put in place strategies and initiate public forums to better engage open discussions with the general public;

- works towards ensuring that the Commission's views and decisions are transmitted in user-friendly language and area accessible to all Canadians; and

- ensures that the Commission's role, mandate and vision are clear.

Finance and Corporate Services

This Branch provides financial, program planning, management and administrative services to ensure the most effective operation of the Commission and the most cost-effective and efficient development and use of new services and facilities. It collects broadcast licence fees and helps to formulate licence fee regulations. The Branch also coordinates informatics activities throughout the Commission, maintains a library for communications industry information in Canada and administers the Commission's records management, mail room and fleet management services. It prepares business plans and performance report and also conduct internal audits, evaluations of CRTC activities and business reengineering studies.

♦ Corporate Services, Review and Renewal

Corporate Services, Review and Renewal supports management in renewal initiatives and ensures that accountability requirements and change initiatives of the Treasury Board are met. It liaises with appropriate Branches of the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Office of the Auditor General. The Corporates Services Division coordinates the execution of a variety of special and ongoing corporate activities such as the preparation of business plans, Part III of the Main Estimates (Plans and Priorities, Performance Report), comprehensive briefs for the Chairperson's appearance at various committees of Parliament and Senate, various Management Conferences/Retreats, and corporate performance measurement systems, including Service Standards development.

The Internal Audit/Program Evaluation/Review Division performs comprehensive management and compliance audits of all operational and functional units and advises and assits management in corporate business reengineering and renewal initiatives. The Division also evaluates the CRTC's regulatory activities with respect to broadcasting and telecommunications services to assess whether the intended regulatory results are achieved, and identifies and evaluates ways in which these results might be achieved more efficiently and effectively.

Human Resources, Official Languages and Security

Human Resources is responsible for assisting the Commission to conduct its activities by advising managers and employees, executing decisions and delivering services relating to employees of the CRTC. Many of these services are governed by public service-related acts, including the Public Service Employment Act, the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Financial Administration Act, Canadian Human Rights Act, the Employment Equity Act and the Official Languages Act.

Legal Directorate

The Legal Directorate is responsible for providing the Commission and its Chairperson with legal services and advice respecting the implementation and interpretation of broadcasting, telecommunications and other related legislations. The Legal Directorate:

- advises the Commission and its Chairperson on the CRTC Act, the Broadcasting Act and Telecommunications Act, as well as statutory instruments such as regulations and Rules of Procedure made pursuant to these Acts, related federal and provincial legislation, and conflict of interest rules and guidelines;
- conducts questioning at public hearings and represents the CRTC during legal proceedings;
- provides advice on applications, procedural matters and the legal implications of policies formulated to further Commission objectives.
- deals with complaints received by the Commission alleging violations of statutes or regulations;
- develops amendments to regulations; and
- maintains a law library.

Secretariat and Client Services Branch

Secretariat and Client Services Sector:

- provides secretariat support to committee activities of the Commission.
- coordinates the Commission's Vision agenda management, and public hearing schedule.
- directs the Commission's regional offices, including all the public examination rooms.
- responds to requests under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.
- drafts Commission decisions on all broadcasting applications.
- issues all broadcasting and telecom notices, decisions and orders.
- responds to requests for general information and handles telephone inquiries and complaints on broadcasting and telecommunications issues.
- responds to public inquiries and written complaints.
- provides liaison with self-regulatory councils.

♦ Regional offices

Our representatives located in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal and Halifax explain the Commission's mandate, policies and decisions to the public, industry, special interest groups, governments and the media. They also deal with complaints and inquiries from the public and other interested parties and provide regional feedback to headquarters on a variety of issues, including regional concerns and licensee performance and maintain a public examination room and research facilities on broadcasting and telecommunications items.

Telecommunications Directorate

The Telecommunications Directorate develops advice and recommendations to the Commission to ensure the implementation of Canadian telecommunications objectives set out in the Telecommunications Act and to ensure that Canadian carriers provide telecommunications services and charge rates on terms that are just and reasonable, and do not unjustly discriminate or provide an unreasonable preference toward any person. The responsibilities of the Telecommunications Directorate are carried out under two branches reporting to the Executive Director.

♦ Telecommunications: Competition, Consumer & Tariff Policy

Competition, Consumer & Tariff Policy is responsible for the review of complex policy issues, usually Commission initiatives or priorities that cross a number of sectors/programs, including matters of competition, economics and technology respecting telecommunications carriers under the Commission's jurisdiction. It also assesses the rates, terms and conditions of tariffed services offered by the regulated telecommunications companies. It also plans and coordinates telecommunications staff agendas, receives and schedules applications, advises applicants on proper procedure, and formulates, drafts and edits public notices, orders and decisions issued by the Commission. The Branch is also responsible for analysis and advice to the Commission on the rates and costs of tariffed services, for the resolution of complaints and inquiries from subscribers and competitors of the federally-regulated carriers and for liaison with the independent telephone companies.

♦ Telecommunications: Financial Analysis Branch

Financial analysis provides analysis and advice on all aspects of rate regulation, including access (contribution) charges paid by competition in the long distance market, reviewers the intercorporate activities of the telephone companies and their accounting practices, and reviews carrier's activities. These responsibilities are carried out by three groups.

Canadian Security Intelligence Service
Chapter 36

General Information

Background
The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) has operated pursuant to the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act, since its inception in 1984.

Responsibilities
CSIS collects, analyzes and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada, and reports to and advises the Government of Canada in relation to these matters.

The Service also plays a role in providing security assessments to departments of the Government of Canada (in accordance with section 13 of the CSIS Act and government security policy) and may provide security assessments to the government of a province or any department thereof, any police force in a province, and to the government of a foreign state or institution thereof or an international organization of states or institutions thereof when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. As well, CSIS may advise any Minister of the Crown on matters relating to the security of Canada, or provide any Minister of the Crown with information relating to security matters or criminal activities that is relevant to the exercise of any power or the performance of any duty or function by that Minister under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act. It may also conduct such investigations as are necessary in order to provide security assessments or advice to Ministers.

Further, CSIS may, in relation to the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs, assist the Minister of National Defence or the Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, within Canada, in the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states or any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, or corporation.

Legislation
- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Organization
The Director, under the direction of the Minister, has the control and management of CSIS and all matters connected therewith. The Assistant Director, Secretariat has the responsibility to support the activities of the Director and senior management. The Deputy Director Corporate has general responsibility for information management, internal security, management services, technical and scientific services. The Deputy Director Operations has responsibility for foreign liaison, human sources, operational support and the regional offices. The Assistant Director Operations reports to the Deputy Director Operations regarding the counter-terrorism, counter-intelligence, security screening, analysis and production programs. The Deputy Director Human Resources has overall responsibility for human resource programs.

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Investigational Records

Description: This bank contains personal information on identifiable individuals whose activities are suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada; on identifiable individuals who are or were being managed as confidential sources of information; on identifiable individuals no longer investigated by CSIS but whose activities did constitute threats to the security of Canada and which still meet the collection criteria stipulated in section 12 of the CSIS Act, and on identifiable individuals the investigation of whom relate to the conduct of international affairs, the defence of Canada or any state allied or associated with Canada or the detection, prevention or suppression of subversive or hostile activities. Exempt Bank Status: This bank has been designated as an exempt bank by Order-in-Council No.14 (CSIS) dated 26 November 1992. Class of Individuals: Individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or the interests of Canada; individuals involved in foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are clandestine or deceptive or involve a threat to any person; individuals involved in activities within or related to Canada directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or individuals whose activities are directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; or any other activities described in the definition of "threats to the security of Canada" at section 2 of the CSIS Act; individuals identified relating to a national security concern, the defence of Canada or the conduct of the international affairs of Canada; and individuals who are confidential sources of information. Purpose: Collected under section 12 of the CSIS Act with respect to threats to the security of Canada; under section 15 concerning the collection of information for the purpose of providing advice pursuant to section 14; and under section 16 concerning the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons. Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information it obtains if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report, and give advice, thereto in relation to activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in its possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then it may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and Attorney General, to the Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade and to the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential in the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to section 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act. Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee. All linkages are in compliance with Privacy Act provisions. Information in this bank may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to twenty years after the last action, subject to the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 TBS Registration: 002872 Bank Number: SIS PPU 045

Self Protection Activity

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals in contact with CSIS with a view of providing services directly or through contract to CSIS. The information may include the individual's name, any aliases and other personal identifiers. Under subsection 16(2) of the Privacy Act, CSIS consistently responds to all applicants in a manner that neither confirms nor denies the existence of personal information in this bank, regardless of whether or not personal information about the applicant exists in this bank. Class of Individuals: Individuals in contact with the Service. Purpose: The purposes for which the information in this bank was recorded is in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. The information will allow CSIS to better protect itself from infiltration by hostile foreign services and others whose interests are inimical to the interests of Canada. Consistent Uses: Information in this bank may be used in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. Information in this bank may also be used for audit purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be retained for a minimum of ten years, and destroyed when considered to be of no further value. Related to: SIS DDS 010 TBS Registration: 003297 Bank Number: SIS PPU 050

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of carrying out the daily investigative activities and functions of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, personal information may be accumulated such as in the security assessments and crisis management programs which are not described in the specific personal information banks. This information is not used for an administrative purpose affecting an individual, and can include names, addresses and other identifying data in a record. Such information is only retrievable if full specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. The retention period for this form of information is in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist.

Unsolicited opinions or requests for information are received by the Service. This information is not used for an administrative purpose, other than to respond in some instances to the originator. This correspondence is stored in a file associated with the subject matter, and is disposed of in a manner authorized by the National Archivist.

Some interview clips on video cassettes purchased from the Public Service Commission are being used to help English and French speaking CSIS employees to prepare for oral interaction tests conducted as an administrative measure in support of the CSIS official languages program. The personal information in the cassettes is not being used for an administrative purpose respecting any of the individuals presented in the videos.

Under the National Archives Act, index cards and registers are required to be created on all files opened by the Service since its inception. They contain general information such as the file numbers, titles, file creation and disposition dates. These personal information holdings serve as an information management tool that is created and used to account for the opening and disposition of each file. The index cards and registers are retained for specified periods after the disposition of the information holdings itself. An individual wishing access to the general information about themself that may be contained in the index cards and registers is required to provide the file number or sufficiently specific information as to render it reasonably retrievable.

Canadian Space Agency
Chapter 37

General Information

Background
The Act of Parliament establishing the Canadian Space Agency was proclaimed into force on December 14, 1990. The Canadian Space Agency was created from divisions of the former Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST), the National Research Council of Canada (NRC), the Department of Communications (DOC) and Energy Mines and Resources (EMR).

Responsibilities
The Canadian Space Agency is committed to leading the development and application of space knowledge for the benefit of Canadians and humanity.

To achieve this, the Canadian Space Agency will promote an environment where all levels of the organization will:

- pursue excellence collectively;
- advocate a client-oriented attitude;
- support employee-oriented practices and open communications;
- commit to both empowerment and accountability;
- pledge to cooperate and to work with partners to our mutual benefit.

Legislation
- The Canadian Space Agency Act.

Organization

Core Functions

♦ Canadian Astronaut Office
Support the operational, scientific and technical planning and implementation of Human Space Flight; prospect, identify and negotiate flight opportunities; provide training and support to Canadian astronauts in preparation for flight assignment; raise awareness of Space Program Activities and their social and economic benefits for Canada and encourage Canadian Youth to pursue careers in science and technology.

♦ Space Operations
Provide an environmental test facility capable of meeting current and emerging needs of Canada's space community and the nation's space related objectives and operate the space and ground segments of the space-related assets of the CSA.

♦ Space Science
The mandate of this Branch is to advance the knowledge of space through science and to ensure that the space science and technology provide social and economic benefits to Canada.

♦ Space Systems
The Space Systems Branch conducts research and development in four key technology areas: spacecraft systems analysis, RF technology, digital technology and space systems applications.

♦ Space Technologies
The Space Technologies Branch is the functional centre for technical expertise within the Agency. It ensures the development of space technologies to enhance Canadian industrial competitiveness and to support Canadian space programs.

Corporate functions

♦ Administration
Manage the Agency's facilities and telecommunications, ensure the physical security of the Agency's facilities and assets, manage the Agency's procurement and contract management activities, manage and maintain the Agency's corporate memory physical and electronic holdings database and manage the information technology infrastructure for the Agency.

♦ Human Resources
Guide and support the overall management of the Human Resources required to implement the mission of the CSA.

♦ Legal Services
Provide CSA with legal expertise on all aspects of its operations.

Executive Functions

♦ Audit, Evaluation and review
Assist Senior Management to improve the performance of, and enhance accountability for, the Agency's mission and objectives.

♦ Communications
Support the entire CSA's communications towards the objectives of the CSA, the Government of Canada and the responsible Minister through:

- Supporting the CSA's executive management in communications decision-making;

- Developing and implementing operational and strategic communications plans at the corporate and program levels;
- Coordinating with the Minister of Industry's office and Central Agencies;
- Developing and implementing policies and procedures; and
- Providing services to the major activity sectors of the CSA as close to the clients as possible.

♦ Corporate Management

Conduct financial planning and analysis, budget preparation, financial control, accounting & reporting, develop and manage financial policies, systems, procedures and controls, act as official Spokeperson with Treasury board, manage the Business Planning cycle, provide regular, integrated comprehensive status on Agency performance against Business Plans and provide Executive Secretariat services (PCO type).

♦ Policy and planning

Develop, coordinate and report on Programs, Policies, strategies and Plans of the Canadian Space Program and CSA, coordinate portfolio-related activities, provide strategic program-level interface and relationship with stakeholders (international, national, provincial, industrial and academia), lead international relations, cooperation and marketing and assure CSA active presence in Ottawa.

Executive Office

♦ Chief Scientist/Engineer and Transition Team Head

As Chief Scientist/Engineer, provide an independent source of expertise to analyze, review and advise the President on the technical and scientific aspects of CSA's programs and projects.

As Head Transition Team, define and manage the organizational transition of the CSA, including the process of transition, the review of functions, the organizational structure and the implementation of the new organization design.

♦ Chief Systems Engineer

Provide an independent source of expertise to analyze, review and advise the President on all systems engineering aspects of CSA's programs and projects.

♦ LTSP III

Develop the long-term vision for the Canadian Space Program and specific project proposals for LTSP III and negociate common systems operating cost offsets with NASA.

♦ President's Office

The mandate of the President's Office is to ensure that the Agency is effective in meeting the Government's objectives for the Canadian Space Program, particularly in the use of space technology to meet Canadian needs and the development of an internationally competitive space industry; and that the Programs of the Agency are delivered efficiently.

Cosmic Ray Balloon Experiment (CRAYBEX); International Microgravity Laboratories (IML) I and II; Aquatic Research Facility (ARF); Torso Rotation Experiment (TRE); Neurolab/ (Visuo-Motor Coordination Facility) (VCF); Cosmic Background Radiation; Microgravity processes in Fluid Dynamics, Chemistry, Crystal Growth, Metals and Alloys, Glasses and Ceramics, Biotechnology and Combustion; Radiation Biology; Human Physiology; Canadian Float Zone Furnace (CFZF); Canadian Advanced Protein Crystallisation Apparatus (CAPCA); Large Motion Isolation Mount (LMIM); Spacebound microgravity conferences; Canadian Space Agency Rocket (CSAR) Program; Parabolic Aircraft (T-33, Falcon & KC-135); Protein Crystallisation. Program Record Number: SPA APP 065

Space Technologies
Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of Space Technology, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. The holdings of the branch office include administration, personnel and finance for the Branch. There are also general files on committees, international cooperation and agreements, contracts, inter-departmental coordination and ESA programs. Program Record Number: SPA APP 070

♦ Space Operations

David Florida Laboratory – Administration
Description: Correspondence; reports and memoranda pertaining to policies, contracts, test programs, program forecasts, and other administrative matters as they pertain to the overall operation of the laboratory. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; visits/tours; facility use and loan agreements; co-operation and liaison with industry, federal departments, universities, associations, international organizations, and countries; technical support; resource documents; conferences and seminars; buildings and properties; equipment and supplies; and facility documents. Program Record Number: SPA APP 050

David Florida Laboratory – Operations
Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of the individual test facilities (i.e. thermal vacuum, vibration, radio frequency). Topics: Environmental testing/space simulation; thermal vacuum (infrared testing, outgassing studies, helium leak detection); (structural vibration, modal analysis, shock testing, static load, seismic block); radio frequency (passive intermodulation measurements, electromagnetic interference/compatibility, radar cross section measurements, spherical near field measurements); mass properties measurements (vertical and horizontal axis measurement systems); integration facilities (high bays, class 100,000 clean rooms); quality assurance; Data acquisition/data processing systems; enquiries and results of various subsystem and spacecraft level testing. Program Record Number: SPA APP 055

RADARSAT 1
Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the RADARSAT Program; the provision of international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the RADARSAT Program. Topics: Configuration management, equipment – RADARSAT Studies, ground systems, simulation facility, tests and integration, remote sensor development, solar arrays – technology, working groups, panel meetings and document reviews, regional development and technology exploitation. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 025

♦ Space Systems

Space Station Program Office
Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the Space Station Program; the provision of the Mobile Servicing System, including international and national agreements, all technical research and development within the Space Station Program, technology transfer agreements, licences and patents. Topics: Configuration management, space robotics, Space Station studies, space assembly and maintenance systems, simulation, ground control facilities, NASA working groups, panel meetings and document reviews. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 030

♦ Space Technologies

Spacecraft Engineering
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, and working papers: general directorate correspondence; DOC – Agency; EMR – Agency MOUs and correspondence. Topics: Current research activities include: dependable processing systems, knowledge based systems, control of large space structures, robot controls, sensor technology, materials & structures, thermal control technology, composite materials, dynamics/test of space structures, robot dynamics, and in-orbit characterization of SSRMS. Program Record Number: SPA APP 060

Spacecraft payloads
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, working papers and reports related to projects. Topics: General directorate correspondence; CRC, NRC and NSERC-Agency MOUs correspondence concerning current research activities: far infrared laser, bolometric detectors, detector passive cooling techniques, laser range finder, optical data processing techniques, optical fibre system elements, optical sensors for remote sensing, selective optical coatings, 3D-vision systems, object recognition systems, spacecraft payloads systems group, RF technology group, digital technology group, high-temperature superconductive multiplexer, power transistor development, solid-state power amplifier (X-band), digital modular (X-band), passive intermodulation (PIM), radiation damage to gallium

arsenide, space qualification of GaAs devices, satellite system modelling, remote sensing microwave instruments, dual-polarization antenna, smallsat cost reductions. Program Record Number: SPA APP 080

Corporate functions

Human Resources

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries. Topics: Organization charts, job descriptions, position classifications, staffing, planning, training, development, equity, redeployment, competition posters. Program Record Number: SPA COR 215

♦ Administration

Contracts Administration

Description: The files contain general correspondence, proposals and evaluations, contracts and purchase orders with industry. Topics: Correspondence, contracts for professional services and purchase orders for materials, equipments and supplies. Program Record Number: SPA COR 200

EDP Operations

Description: Information on the operation of the Division. Topics: Administration and Scientists requirements; strategies, standards, policies, computer hardware/software, data communication, office automation, database management, EDP training, computer maintenance, technical support, computer needs, system development, internal and external EDP Professional consultants, future planning. Program Record Number: SPA COR 220

Facilities Management and Telecommunications

Description: In accordance with Treasury Board and CSA policies, provide facilities and telecommunications service to all CSA employees. Topics: Processing requests regarding office disposition services, telephone system services, vehicle fleet management, parking management and forms management. Program Record Number: SPA COR 210

Inventory Control, Customs and Excises

Description: Coordination and steering of programs for Life Cycle Material Management of assets throughout the Agency. Topics: Statistics on Agency assets, movement of material on international level, recording and documenting capital acquisitions through crown research projects and grants establishing up to date information on equipment used throughout the Agency. Program Record Number: SPA COR 225

Records Management

Description: Information on the planning, development and implementation of records and of information systems and programs including related services. Topics: Records classification scheme, records retention schedules, equipment relating to records, retrieval and reference services, mail and messenger services, review and analysis of forms. Program Record Number: SPA COR 240

Security

Description: The security Division is responsible for administering the Canadian Government Security Policy for the various programs of the Canadian Space Agency. It has responsibility to develop policies and procedures in the areas of access control, physical security, security of personnel, security of material, security of information technology, security of informatics and communications security. Topics: Data files are kept on the following topics; PROTECTED personnel information in support of the security clearance program, general investigation reports and general correspondence documents. Program Record Number: SPA COR 235

Executive Functions

Audit, Evaluation and review

Description: Correspondence, reports, studies, memoranda. Topics: Internal audit, evaluation studies, review matters, performance measures. Program Record Number: SPA COR 241

Communications

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals and organizations. Topics: General correspondence; Annual Reports; Industry directories; mailing lists; communications strategies; publications; A/V documents; speeches; exhibitions. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 100

♦ Policy and planning

Economic Studies

Description: Studies, reports, analysis. Topics: Potential economic spin-offs of major space-related projects. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 105

European Space Agency

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries relevant to Canada's membership in the European Space Agency. Topics: General correspondence, Statutes, Annual reports, Council deliberations; ESRIN; financial data, reports of committees, progress reports on projects, contracts to Canadian firms, etc. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 110

Federal/Provincial Relations

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from provinces. Topics: General correspondence, Annual Reports of Provincial Organizations, documents on provincial space activities and programs; Feasibility studies. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 115

Industrial Development
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries and scientific organizations pertaining to economic and financial aspects of private organizations. Topics: General correspondence; Annual reports; Industry directories; regional conferences. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 120

International Relations
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries and foreign organizations relevant to Canada's space cooperation activities with foreign countries and organizations. Topics: Foreign Agencies Annual reports, documents on foreign space activities and programs; NASA; NASDA; [etc]; Cooperation arrangements and MOUs; minutes of steering committees, Panels, working and ad hoc groups meetings. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 125

International Space University
Description: Correspondence, reports, course catalogues, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals, relevant to Canada's contribution to the International Space University activities. Topics: General correspondence, Annual reports, Canada's contributions, Canadian ISU foundation; ISU permanent campus; ISU summer sessions. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 130

Ottawa Office
Description: The files contain ministerial and parliamentary relations information. Topics: Ministerial memoranda, memoranda to Cabinet, Treasury Board Submissions, Written and Oral Anticipated Questions, Correspondence. Program Record Number: SPA COR 205

Regional Distribution
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, and data on the regional distribution of Canadian Space Program expenditures. Topics: General correspondence, regional distribution of space and space-related contracts and expenditures; industry team; Government team; SPAR MOU; data base. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 145

Space Agency Forum
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals, national and international organizations relevant to the Space Agency Forum activities. Topics: General correspondence, reports of the Space Agency Forum, Hand-out for distribution; preparation and organization of meetings, participation in working groups. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 135

Executive Office

Chief Scientist/Engineer & Transition Team Head
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda Topics: Information relating to technical and scientific activities proposed and on the organizational transition of the CSA. Program Record Number: SPA TTT 001

Chief, Systems Engineer
Description: Memoranda, reports, correspondence. Topics: Information regarding systems engineering aspects of CSA's programs and projects and RADARSAT II. Program Record Number: SPA CSE 001

LTSP III Task Force
Description: Correspondence, feasibility and market studies, program proposals, project documentation. Topics: information relating to new Canadian space activities/programs and applications. Program Record Number: SPA LTSP 001

President's Office
Description: Working papers, memoranda, correspondence and reports on the administration and operation of the Agency, Information on visits, lectures, gifts, interviews, correspondence with the Minister, agenda, minutes and documents pertaining to executive committee and managers' meetings. Topics: General Administration, speeches, audits. Program Record Number: SPA PRE 005

Personal Information Banks

♦ Space Science

Space Science
Description: This bank contains information on Committee Membership, information regarding names, affiliations, and primary disciplines of all individuals nominated for service on Advisory Committee. Class of Individuals: Employees of the Institution and members of its Advisory Committee. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain general information on individuals who are not employed by the institution but who serve on its Advisory Committee. Retention and Disposal Standards: 5 years TBS Registration: 003060 Bank Number: SPA PPU 010

Canadian Transportation Agency
Chapter 38

General Information

Background
The Canadian Transportation Agency (CTA) is a quasi-judicial tribunal which replaced the National Transportation Agency as a result of the proclamation of the Canada Transportation Act on July 1, 1996.

Responsibilities
The mandate of the CTA is that of an economic regulator and decision-maker with respect to transportation services under federal jurisdiction. Its responsibilities include the issuance of licences to air carriers and railways, a dispute resolution power over various air, rail and marine transportation rate and service matters, and the determination of the annual maximum rate scale for western grain movements. The CTA continues to have powers to remove undue obstacles to the mobility of travellers with disabilities in the federally-regulated transportation network.

Legislation
- Aeronautics Act
- Canada Marine Act
- Canada Transportation Act
- Civil Air Navigation Services Commercialization Act
- Coasting Trade Act
- Energy Supplies Emergency Act
- Excise Tax Act
- Expropriation Act
- National Energy Board Act
- Pilotage Act
- Railway Relocation and Crossing Act
- Railway Safety Act
- Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, 1987

Organization
The CTA consists of a Chairman, Vice-Chairman and up to five other full-time and three part-time members.

The Agency comprises two program branches, Rail and Marine Transportation, and Air and Accessible Transportation, two support branches, Corporate Management, and Legal Services and Secretariat, and the Communications Directorate.

♦ Air and Accessible Transportation Branch
The Branch protects the interests of consumers and carriers by ensuring that air carriers operating to, from and within Canada meet certain minimum economic requirements. To this end, it administers an air carrier licensing and international charter permit system, international air agreements and air tariffs. The Branch reviews new and revised Nav Canada user charges on appeal. The Branch is also responsible for ensuring that undue obstacles to the mobility of persons with disabilities are removed from federally regulated transportation services and facilities. Regional Field Investigators, responsible for the enforcement of CTA regulations and licence conditions, are located in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Moncton.

♦ Communications Directorate
The Directorate is accountable to the Chairman for the planning and management of communications programs, initiatives and policies. The Directorate works with the branches to develop the communications strategies and activities. It provides general information to the public on the mandate and responsibilities of the Agency and it answers questions from the media on decisions and orders, as well as programs administered by the CTA. It is also responsible for all CTA publications.

♦ Corporate Management Branch
The Branch is responsible for the design and operation of the CTA's management processes and related information systems; it also provides comprehensive services in support of CTA programs in the areas of informatics, records management, human resources, library, finance, planning, administration and security. It is responsible for developing and implementing personnel, finance, administration, information technology and official languages policies, systems and programs that will assist the CTA. It also ensures that the management of human resources and financial matters is in accordance with policies established by the central agencies.

♦ Legal Services and Secretariat Branch
Legal Services is responsible for providing legal advice to CTA members and staff. It acts as the Agency's legal representative at meetings, conferences, public hearings, inquiries, and, when required, at judicial proceedings in the Federal and Supreme Courts. Its other responsibilities include drafting and processing regulations in accordance with government policy. The Secretariat is responsible for recording CTA decisions and orders; and writing, editing, reviewing, producing and issuing decisions, orders, reports and notices. It plans CTA meetings, administers public hearings and inquiries, coordinates all translation services and produces the quarterly ministerial briefing notes. It also maintains parliamentary liaison, and coordinates ministerial and executive correspondence.

♦ Rail and Marine Branch

The Branch is responsible for the following legislation and related CTA functions as they affect the rail and marine modes: the Canada Transportation Act, the Railway Safety Act, the Coasting Trade Act, the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, 1987, the Pilotage Act and the Canada Marine Act.

With respect to the rail mode, the Branch administers the certificate of fitness program for the construction and operation of railways as well as various dispute resolution provisions relating to disputes between railways and other affected parties such as shippers, municipalities, utility companies, landowners and other railways. It also inspects railway accounting and operating statistics systems to ensure compliance with the law, sets the annual maximum rates for the transportation of western grain and undertakes railway costing activities as required under the Canada Transportation Act.

With respect to the marine mode, the Branch manages applications, complaints and investigations affecting various marine activities within federal jurisdiction.

Information Holdings

Accessible Transportation
Description: Information relating to the regulation of, and resolution of complaints related to transportation facilities, equipment and services provided within Canada to travellers with disabilities. Topics: Co-operation and liaison with associations and various levels of government; committee and conference participation; service complaints; regulations on fares and conditions of carriage; accessibility standards; aircraft accessibility data; public awareness and education programs; procedural and attitudinal training; monitoring programs; and various studies, surveys and projects. Program Record Number: CTA AIR 061

Agreements, Tariffs and Enforcement
Description: Information relating to international air agreements; commercial agreements between airlines; the regulation of air tariffs; the enforcement of CTA regulations and licence conditions; and to the investigation of illegal operations by air carriers. Topics: Compliance; bilateral and multilateral agreements and negotiations; commercial agreements; conventions and protocols; scheduled and non-scheduled tariffs; special permissions; industry complaints; general schedules; computer reservation systems; charter contracts; foreign air transport regulations; air relations between Canada and foreign countries; investigation reports on possible illegal activities by air carriers; and referrals to RCMP for investigations. Program Record Number: CTA AIR 096

Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program
Description: Information relating to the administration of freight subsidy programs applicable to the Atlantic Region. Note that since July 1, 1996 the CTA has no responsibility for the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Subsidy claims including waybills and other supporting documentation; desk and field audits; and payments pursuant to the Maritime Freight Rates Act and the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act and Regulations. Program Record Number: CTA MAR 183

Audits
Description: Information relating to audits and analyses for the determination of rates, railway costs, rail freight mouvements and rail networks. Topics: Railway annual reports; railway audit manuals; comprehensive system review; special costing; schedule "A" directives; and specific costs. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 156

Industry Monitoring and Analysis
Description: Information relating to the comprehensive coverage of changes in structure, service levels, prices and competition in all modes of the transportation industry under federal jurisdiction, and the assessment of related effects on transportation users. Note that since July 1, 1996 the CTA has no responsibility for Industry Monitoring and Analysis and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Annual reviews of transportation in Canada including supporting surveys and data bases, for example: specific air, marine and motor vehicle surveys; commercial travellers, freight forwarders, and port terminal operators surveys; shippers surveys covering all modes of transportation; scheduled air services data; air tariff information; liner trade data; and rail traffic information. Program Record Number: CTA IMA 111

Licensing and Charters
Description: Information relating to the administration of the licensing system for Canadian and foreign air carriers. Topics: Applications for licences or modifications to licences; applications for international charter flight permits; Canadian ownership; financial evaluation; terms and conditions on licences; liability insurance; air operator certificates; suspension or cancellations; discontinuance or reduction of services; and investigations of service complaints on discontinuance of domestic service. Program Record Number: CTA AIR 080

Marine
Description: Information relating to the administration and enforcement of legislation governing marine activities under federal jurisdiction. Topics: Shipper and carrier complaints; coasting trade licences; pilotage authorities; pilotage tariffs; St. Lawrence Seaway Management Corporation; Canadian ship database; marine associations data bank; operations and rates investigations; and Shipping Conferences Exemption Act tariffs and service contracts. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 081

Rail and Marine Complaints
Description: Information relating to economic disputes between carriers and users; competitive access provisions; tariffs; and mediation services and arbitration support. Topics: Dispute investigations; competitive line rates; interswitching; fares, rates, and conditions of carriage; track usage; rail freight traffic data; discontinuance of services; level of service; rail connections; rail liability; and arbitration cases. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 021

Rail Infrastructure
Description: Information relating to applications and complaints concerning the construction and modification of rail lines, highway/railway crossings, farm crossings, and other rail infrastructure; to railway licensing; to rail line transfers or discontinuance; and to track determinations. Topics: Crossing files; modification of subdivision name/mileage; noise, vibration and pollution complaints; connections and interchange; drainage; fencing; relocation of railway lines; right of way; spurs, sidings and lead tracks; environmental issues; and railway licensing and certificates of fitness. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 062

Rail Rates and Cost Development
Description: Information relating to the management of rate programs that determines appropriate compensation for rail services provided by eligible transportation companies. Topics: Railway unit costs and service units; rates costing; railway costing manuals; historical railway input price indices; maximum grain rate scales; traffic workloads; cost of capital rates; depreciation rates; uniform classification of accounts; and net salvage value determinations. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 121

Rail Rationalization
Description: Information relating to the evaluation of proposals to rationalize rail networks prior to July 1, 1996. Since then, the CTA has no approval responsibility for Rail Rationalization and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Railway costs and revenues; applications for abandonment of rail lines and removal of stations; branch line and passenger subsidy programs; branch line rehabilitation; conveyance of railway lines; and track determinations. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 176

Secretariat Services
Description: Information relating to Agency decisions, orders, reports and notices; the administration of Agency meetings, public hearings and inquiries; and the coordination of translation services. Topics: Agency orders, decisions, applications for review of orders and decisions; minutes of Agency meetings; and transcripts and exhibits of Agency public hearings and inquiries. Program Record Number: CTA SEC 006

Trucking and Commodity Pipeline
Description: Information relating to the administration and enforcement of legislation governing trucking and commodity pipeline activities under federal jurisdiction. Note that since July 1, 1996 the CTA has no responsibility for Trucking and Commodity Pipelines and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Newfoundland Roadcruiser Bus Service tariffs and complaints; specific merger and acquisition proposals; and applications to construct and operate commodity pipelines. Program Record Number: CTA MAR 082

Personal Information Banks

Access Requests
Description: This bank contains the access requests submitted by individuals seeking access to CTA information or personal information pursuant to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, the replies to such requests, and information related to their processing. This bank may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; and identifying numbers. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have requested access pursuant to the Access to Information Act or Privacy Act. Purpose: To process access requests and report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for two years after resolution. PAC Number: 86/001 TBS Registration: 000322 Bank Number: CTA PPU 040

Air Service Licence Applications
Description: This bank contains a record of air service licence applications for use in granting or denying licence authorities under the Canada Transportation Act. The bank contains applications and interventions in support or opposition thereto. The bank may contain personal information relating to the applicant or other parties of record in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; nationality; age; identifying numbers; and financial information. Note that since July 1, 1996 interventions are no longer a part of the air service licence application process. Class of Individuals: Applicants and intervenors in the licensing process. Purpose: For granting or denying licences under the Canada Transportation Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are held for ten years following the cancellation of the licence. PAC

Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Subsidies
Description: This bank contains information regarding federal assistance made to certified carriers – truck, water and rail – who offer lower transportation rates to manufacturers, shippers and producers within the select territory and from points within the select territory to points in Canada west of the select territory, under the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act and Regulations. This bank may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; claim identifying numbers; and financial information relating to the claims. Note that since July 1, 1996 the CTA has no responsibility for Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Subsidies and the records in this bank will be disposed of in accordance with the Retention and Disposal Standards outlined below. Class of Individuals: Trucking companies, railways and water carriers who applied for assistance under the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act and Regulations. Purpose: To administer the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program, establish the eligibility of claims and the certification of subsidies, as well as for accounting and statistical purposes. Consistent Uses: To comply with requests from federal investigative bodies. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed seven years following payment. PAC Number: 95/025 Related to PR#: CTA MAR 183 TBS Registration: 001864 Bank Number: CTA PPU 038

Complaints Regarding Services Provided to Persons with Disabilities
Description: This bank contains a record of investigations of complaints concerning the possible existence of undue obstacles to the travel of persons with disabilities under the Canada Transportation Act and the Aeronautics Act. This bank may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; medical condition; age; and marital status. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in the investigation of complaints. Purpose: To determine whether or not undue obstacles to the travel of passengers with disabilities exist and, if so, to determine the appropriate action. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed ten years after the complaint is resolved. PAC Number: 95/023 Related to PR#: CTA AIR 061 TBS Registration: 002154 Bank Number: CTA PPU 033

Enforcement
Description: This bank contains information relating to the enforcement of Agency regulations and licence conditions, and investigation of possible infractions or alleged illegal operations by air carriers. Enforcement activities may involve communication with other government departments, including the RCMP and the Department of Justice. This bank may contain, depending on the nature of the investigation, personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; investigation details; and views or opinions of another individual about the individual. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in possible infractions and occasionally information relating to the plaintiffs. Purpose: To determine whether or not there have been infractions and, if so, to determine the appropriate action. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are held for ten years following the completion of the investigation. PAC Number: 95/023 Related to PR#: CTA AIR 096 TBS Registration: 000319 Bank Number: CTA PPU 010

Mailing Lists
Description: This bank contains mailing lists which may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name and his or her home, business or mailing address. Class of Individuals: Individuals in the general public and business community with an interest in transportation. Purpose: To notify interested parties of applications and proposed acquisitions made to the CTA, changes in regulations, policies or other matters relating to CTA programs; to solicit comments; mailing of surveys and data forms; and the distribution of orders and decisions, the Annual Report, press releases, and other information of interest. Retention and Disposal Standards: Mailing lists are destroyed when superseded or obsolete. PAC Number: 86/001 TBS Registration: 002926 Bank Number: CTA PPU 046

Mergers and Acquisitions
Description: This bank contains information on all modes of transportation regarding proposed mergers and acquisitions of Canadian transportation undertakings. This bank may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; nationality; and financial information. Note that since July 1, 1996 the CTA has no responsibility for Mergers and Acquisitions and the records in this bank will be disposed of in accordance with the Retention and Disposal Standards outlined below. Class of Individuals: Individuals submitting applications regarding proposed mergers or acquisitions. Purpose: To review proposed acquisitions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records relating to Air and Rail matters are destroyed ten years after merger or acquisition is completed, and Marine and Trucking records after seven years. TBS Registration: 003734 Bank Number: CTA PPU 030

Northern Marine Licensing
Description: This bank contains applications for authority to operate a resupply service on Lake Athabasca, along the Mackenzie River and in the Western Arctic Region, including interventions in support of and opposition thereto. Canadian Wheat Board

Chapter 39

Note: This institution is not subject to the Access to Information Act.

General Information

Background

The Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat produced in the area designated by the Act. Barley and oats were added to the mandate in 1949. The marketing of oats was removed from the CWB in 1989.

Responsibilities

The CWB is obliged to purchase wheat and barley offered to it for sale by farmers in accordance with established delivery calls and to pay an initial payment for same in accordance with the Act. The CWB then markets this grain in interprovincial and international markets. The surplus proceeds received upon sale and available for distribution are divided equitably among the farmers delivering grain to the CWB after the initial payment is made to the farmers and the CWB's operating costs are deducted. The CWB is also responsible for administering a delivery system which is designed to maximize marketing opportunities, as well as allocate delivery opportunity among farmers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets. The CWB also administers the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to farmers undertaking to deliver wheat and barley as delivery opportunities are available.

Personal Information Banks

Grain Growers Advance Payment Records

Description: This bank is used to record the value of cash advances issued and refunds received from grain growers under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act. Class of Individuals: Grain growers who have taken cash advances under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act. Purpose: The information gathered is used to monitor the grower's repayment of monies advanced. Repayment is conditional on the grower's delivery and sale of grain as soon as he or she is able to do so. The information is summarized and controlled as required by the federal government. Consistent Uses: The information is shared with grain companies that act as agents of the CWB in making and collecting cash advances. It is also shared with Revenue Canada, lending institutions and secured parties (secured parties are any person or business organization with a lien on the grain pledged by the grain grower on the advance payment application) when requested. Information would be shared for the purposes of completing the advance payment application. The grain grower agrees to permit the CWB to share this information with these other parties to protect their security interest in the grain. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for three years following the retirement of the advance payment. TBS Registration: 004082 Bank Number: CWB PPU 010

Grain Growers Delivery Records

Description: This bank contains a record of each producer certificate issued to a grower by a grain company in payment for the grower's delivery of wheat and barley to the CWB account. Class of Individuals: Grain growers who deliver to the CWB. Purpose: The growers' delivery records are the basis for equitable distribution of profits realized from the sale of wheat and barley by the CWB. The information produces statistical statements by district(s), grain company and type of wheat and barley. Consistent Uses: The information is shared with Revenue Canada, Human Resources Development, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's farm safety net programs, provincial crop insurance organizations and grain companies that are agents of the CWB. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for seven years. TBS Registration: 004083 Bank Number: CWB PPU 015

Grain Growers Payment Records

Description: This bank contains a record of each payment made to wheat and barley growers which resulted from an increase in the price paid for wheat and barley or from the profits realized from the sale of wheat and barley by the CWB. Class of Individuals: Wheat and barley growers who deliver to the CWB. Purpose: The information is maintained to control the value of payments and monitor bank cashings, lost cheques, uncashed cheques, etc. Statements are produced to show the value of payments by district(s), kind of wheat and barley, dates of Issuance and bank clearance and for other control purposes (verification of rates and tonnes; verification of accounting transactions, stale-dated cheques; cancelled/re-issued cheques). Consistent Uses: Information in this bank is shared with Revenue Canada, Human Resources Development, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's farm safety net programs and, in the case of non-resident farmers, with their representatives in Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for seven years. TBS Registration: 004081 Bank Number: CWB PPU 005

Grain Growers Permit Records

Description: This bank is used to establish and maintain a record of each wheat and barley grower's entitlement to market wheat and barley. Under the authority of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, this bank may contain the Social Insurance Numbers of those farmers who choose to supply them. Class of Individuals: Wheat and barley growers who have obtained a CWB permit book. Purpose: The permit book application information is used to monitor and record each grower's delivery and sale of wheat and barley to CWB account and to verify entitlement for cash advances under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act. The grower's name and address are used to distribute profits realized from the sale of wheat and barley. Summary statements for planning purposes are produced by district(s) and type of wheat and barley. Information in this bank is used to prepare voters' lists for Canadian Wheat Board elections. Consistent Uses: Various components of the information are shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, Canada Customs for inter-provincial and export licenses, provincial crop insurance organizations, various other provincial institutions, departments and related commodity groups, universities for consistent use and statistical research purposes and the grain companies that are agents of the CWB. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for seven years. TBS Registration: 004084 Bank Number: CWB PPU 020

Citizenship and Immigration Canada
Chapter 40

General Information

Background
The federal government has administered immigration matters since Confederation. The Department of Citizenship and Immigration (CIC) was created by an Act of Parliament which received Royal Assent on June 23, 1994. This brought together, in particular, the Citizenship Registration and Promotion component of the Department of Canadian Heritage (previously with the former Department of Multiculturalism and Citizenship); the Immigration Policy, Selection and Enforcement components of the former Department of Public Security (previously with the department of Employment and Immigration); and the Immigration Settlement previously part of Employment and Immigration. The Department reports to Parliament through its Minister, who is also responsible for the independent Immigration and Refugee Board (IRB). The IRB functions are separate from those of the Department. CIC's authority stems, notably, from the Department of Citizenship and Immigration Act, the Immigration Act and the Citizenship Act. These provide the Deputy Minister, the Minister and Governor in Council with the discretionary authority required to develop and implement responsive and flexible policies and programs.

Responsibilities
The Department of Citizenship and Immigration Act establishes a specific federal mandate for the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. This mandate includes all matters relating to the administration of the programs and polices of immigration and citizenship that are not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government.

The department consists of three main sections: Departmental Support, Program Delivery, and Strategic Support. The Associate Deputy Minister works closely with the Deputy Minister to set departmental priorities and to develop strategies to meet these goals. The department consists of three main sectors: Policy and Program Development, Corporate Services and Operations. Each sector is composed of a number of branches and regions, both in Canada and overseas. In the case of Operations, Directors General report directly to their respective Assistant Deputy Minister. The ADM, Operations' role is to ensure that departmental processes are well designed and maintained, and that the various branches work together harmoniously towards a common purpose. The Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Services, provides a strategic orientation and ensures effective program objectives as they relate to resources, i.e. capital, financial, human and electronic infrastructure necessary to the department's operating platform. In addition, Corporate Services provides ministerial executive services and manages the Communications program activities through the department. In addition, the Sector is responsible for partnerships with other departments, central agencies, provincial governments, other national governments, international agencies and the private sector. Another important function of the position is to ensure that CIC remains client oriented in all its activities. The ADM Policy and Program Development is responsible for the formulation of effective policy and lending support to the DM to develop a coherent and forward looking strategic vision for the department.

Organization

Departmental Support

This group is responsible for providing specialized support in leading the Department as it fulfils its broader role in the governance of Canada to support the Minister, the Deputy Minister and those charged with the overall management of the Department and to provide services to branch heads. This group is composed of the following branches: Communications, Human Resources, Finance and Administration, Information Management and Technology, Department Delivery Network, Executive Services and Strategic Policy Planning and Research.

♦ Case Management Branch

The Case Management Branch directs the development of strategies and procedures for the efficient management and coordination of cases, including the resolution of cases under litigation and/or which have security, organized crime, criminal and potentially serious public policy dimensions and which require a representation to the Minister's personal attention, or for which special exemption is sought from the provisions of the Immigration Act and Regulations.

♦ Finance and Administration

The Finance and Administration Branch provides services, advice and information to departmental management concerning the financial and administrative management of the Department's policies and programs. This includes: providing financial and administrative policies and systems; providing accounting services; managing the loan portfolio; developing cost recovery/revenue generation plans; developing resource management plans for reallocating departmental funds or securing funding approval through central agencies to fund departmental programs; providing financial analysis and reporting services; providing facilities and real property asset management services; and supplying materiel, contracting and security services.

♦ Human Resources Branch

The Human Resources Branch provides a full range of personnel services such as staffing and classification, official languages, pay and benefits, training and development services to staff, as well as management of staff relations, professional conduct, conflict of interest, compensation, employee assistance, workforce adjustment, workforce analysis, human resources planning including employee appraisals and telework, awards and diversity management programs. This branch also develops, disseminates and monitors human resources policies and programs.

♦ Information Management and Technologies Branch (IMTB)

The Information Management and Technologies Branch (IMTB) is responsible for the design, development, implementation and maintenance of all of Citizenship and Immigration Canada's automated systems. It establishes and administers all policies and standards related to information management and information technology and is responsible for the effective introduction and innovative use of all information technology solutions for the department. The branch also ensures the integrity, accuracy and effective delivery of departmental information holdings, including departmental records (both paper and microfilm) and library holdings.

♦ Executive Services

The Branch consists of Briefings and Parliamentary Affairs, Ministerial Enquiries and Public Rights Administration. It is responsible for support and coordination services to the office of the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister. The branch is also responsible for the management of access to information, privacy and human rights activities.

♦ Communications Branch

The role of the Communications Branch is to provide services which will meet the communications needs of the Minister, Deputy Minister, the department and its clients. The Branch informs the public, in both official languages, about departmental policies, programs and services, alerts key audiences to major new initiatives, and provides advice and guidance to the Minister and senior departmental officials on all aspects of Communications activities. Communications is divided into four units: Public Relations and Media Relations; Publishing and Distribution Group; Corporate Communications Services and Strategic Communications. The key functions carried out by these units include media relations; speechwriting for the Minister and senior departmental officials; communications advice and planning; community education and outreach; internal departmental communications; public environment research; program related communications assistance; and departmental publishing.

Communications is also responsible for the maintenance and upkeep of the departmental Internet Web Site. The Web Site gives access to a wide variety of departmental publications, and includes answers to frequently asked questions.

♦ Strategic Policy Planning and Research Branch

SPPR provides strategic policy, planning and research support to the Department, including the integration of priorities with the broader government agenda.

The Intergovernmental and Stakeholder Relations component: establishes frameworks and acts as the Department's focal point for federal-provincial relations; supports existing immigration agreements; establishes negotiating frameworks; manages federal-provincial negotiations for immigration agreements; manages negotiations of memorandums of understanding on the exchange of information with provinces; and supports other branches in federal-provincial consultation exercises.

The Strategic Policy component: provides strategic policy advice and briefings for the Minister, Deputy Minister and the Associate Deputy Minister on government-wide and Department-wide issues.

The Planning component: leads the development of Departmental planning and develops planning and accountability processes.

The Research and Review component: provides support to policy and program development; develops and manages the Departmental Research and Review plans; is the Departmental focal point for the development and contracting of research; develops Departmental review processes and products; and provides advice and support to Service Lines on the review of new and existing programs and activities.

The Regulatory Affairs component: supports other branches in the development of regulations and legislation; and is the focal point for relations with central agencies on regulatory and legislative issues.

Program Delivery

Program Delivery is the area of the Department responsible for the delivery of the programs developed by the various Service Lines. The Program delivery group is divided into six geographic regions (which cooperate with National Headquarters to meet the needs of CIC's clients): International Region, British Columbia and Yukon Region, Prairies and Northwest Territories Region, Ontario Region, Quebec Region and the Atlantic Region.

♦ Departmental Delivery Network

The Departmental Delivery Network (DDN) provides integrated program management and delivery on a product line basis in Canada. It ensures that CIC's seven centralized points of service have access to management and program support.

DDN includes a small NHQ structure (including Support Services and Project Services Divisions), three central processing centres (Case Processing Centres are in Vegreville, Alberta (CPCV), in Mississauga, Ontario (CPCM), and in Sydney, Nova Scotia (CPCS)), and four Ottawa-based central points of service (Interim Federal Health Program; Immigration Health Services; Immigration Warrant Response Centre; and Query Response Centre).

The Support Services Division is responsible for developing systems for Information Management, Information Technology, Human resources practices, finance and administrative matters.

The Project Services area manages the major projects and initiatives of which DDN has the lead. It supports the other branches of CIC with the aspects of their projects that require service delivery expertise. The Citizenship Services Division is responsible for issues relating to the delivery of the Citizenship program, and is the principal contact for issues related to CPCS. The Immigration Services Division provides advice, guidance and operational instructions on the immigration program to CPCM AND CPCV.

CPCV opened for full processing on April 1, 1994 and is responsible for:

1) Visitor Extensions; 2) Student Authorizations; 3) Employment Authorizations; 4) Minister's Permit Extensions; 5) Immigrant Applications for Landing in Canada; and 6) Right of Landing Fee (ROLF) Loans.

CPCM is the national case processing centre for all immigration Family Class sponsorships and is responsible for reviewing undertakings to determine eligibility of sponsors; assessing the financial information provided by sponsors and determining whether or not they will be able to meet their obligations; providing administrative support from Family Class sponsorships, i. e., liaison with Le Ministère des Affaires internationales de l'Immigration et des Communautés Culturelles (MAIICC), respective provincial adoption ministries, ministries of social services, and issuances of appeal notices to sponsors.

CPCS has operated since 1984 and provides direct service in all matters concerning Canadian Citizenship. Through the Citizenship Registration System (CRS), the staff administers the Citizenship Act while serving as a citizenship card production centre.

The Interim Federal Health (IFH) Program which was known as the Non-Insured Health Benefit Program under Health Canada was transferred to CIC on April 1, 1995. IFH is designed to cover emergency and essential health care costs for refugee claimants, refugees and others under immigration control.

The Immigration Health Services Division is responsible for centralized medical processing in North America; developing medical assessment guidelines; maintaining quality assurance standards; and providing statistical and qualitative medical information.

The Immigration Warrant Response Centre is responsible for managing immigration warrants on the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) database; and for responding to requests for warrant confirmation from police agencies. The centre also responds to police requests for immigration and citizenship status checks.

The Query Response Centre is responsible for all requests for verification of admission records of immigrants and visitors to Canada; all enforcement cases for Immigration; inquiries; and court cases.

♦ International Region

The International Region is responsible for the delivery of Canada's immigration programs at Canadian missions abroad. This includes immigrant selection, non-immigrant processing, immigration medical services, interdiction, and reporting and liaison. The International Region plays a lead role in international migration, and in the co-ordination of the Department's international activities, particularly with respect to relations with Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), other countries, and multilateral organizations. The International Region comprises eight divisions – Asia and the Pacific, Africa and the Middle-East, Western Hemisphere, Europe, Resource Management, Personnel, Operational Co-ordination and Overseas Medical Services.

The International Region is responsible for the delivery of all program activities at Canadian diplomatic missions around the world. This includes all operational aspects of immigration programs such as delivery of annual immigration levels; management of immigration, visitor and refugee programs abroad; ensuring a consistent approach across geographic regions; and co-ordination and liaison with other departments and agencies such as Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS), Health Canada and the RCMP. The International Region ensures that the delivery of the program is consistent with Canadian law and policy and with Canada's bilateral and multilateral foreign policy interests.

Resource Management is responsible for the maintenance of an operational structure through the allocation of financial and human resources to ensure global immigration is consistent with levels established by Cabinet. This includes those resources in the DFAIT financial base that support the immigration program.

Operational Co-ordination is responsible for the development and dissemination of statistical information relevant to international operations, communications policies and activities with missions abroad, managing overseas mission reconfiguration, promotion and recruitment, and issues of global interest within the International Region.

In consultation with the departmental Human Resources and Finance and Administration Branches, the Personnel Division is responsible for the management of human resources relating to the International Service.

Overseas Medical Services identifies immigrants, refugees, and certain classes of visitors who are medically unfit for admission to Canada, for those applicants applying at missions abroad. In association with Health Canada (Occupational and Environmental Health Services), it ensures that federal employees and dependents are medically fit for posting abroad and helps them to remain healthy while serving abroad.

The four geographic branches are responsible for managing the delivery of immigration, visitor and refugee programs at missions within their respective territories.

Service Line Management

This Group is responsible for policy development, program design and direction for CIC's core Service Lines. Service line branch heads are accountable to the Deputy Minister for all Service line related issues, up to but not including program delivery. Each branch is responsible for policy development, program design and direction of one of the four core CIC Service Lines. The Department in divided into four service lines: Integration, Refugees, Enforcement and Selection.

♦ Enforcement Branch

The role of the Enforcement Branch of National Headquarters is to develop national policy, procedures, guidelines and strategies to ensure that violations of the provisions of the Immigration Act and Regulations are properly actioned in accordance with the Immigration Act, to counter illegal immigration movements to Canada, and to preserve the integrity of Canada's immigration and refugee determination systems. The Enforcement Branch also provides to field officers and to other Branches of National Headquarters, functional direction, coordination and training regarding national policies and procedures on enforcement activities. In addition, the Enforcement Branch liaises with service delivery partners for the purpose of developing and updating national memoranda of understanding with other Departments, Provinces, or agencies, for the exchange of information. It also develops removal arrangements with other countries, and it coordinates activity through liaison with partners in enforcement and the airline industry. The Branch also directly manages carrier compliance by negotiating Memoranda of Understanding with individual transportation companies and by ensuring compliance with Memoranda of Understanding. National Headquarters also administers the program of administrative fees assessed against transportation companies for carrying improperly documented passengers to Canada.

The Enforcement Branch (SED) is composed of four core sections, namely Intelligence and Interdiction, Port of Entry Management, Hearings and Detention and Investigations and Removals. The Branch is also comprised of three additional units who lead Enforcement Branch's efforts in planning, program development and in developing a long-term strategic vision for the Enforcement program. These include, a Border Policy Directorate, a Program Development Directorate and one other section, the Service Line Support Directorate.

The Intelligence and Interdiction section (SEZ) monitors, analyzes and reports on illegal migration practices and abuse of the Immigration program.

The Port of Entry Management Division (SEM) overseas, monitors and evaluates port of entry operations across Canada. It develops and implements national policies, strategic directions, operational priorities and service standards applicable in the examination of all persons seeking admission to Canada at land borders, airports and marine ports of entry.

The Hearings and Detention section (SEA) develops and implements national policies, strategies, operational priorities, instructions and procedures regarding the issuance of removal orders by senior immigration officers; eligibility determinations and re-determinations; multiple refugee claim determinations; inquiries; appeals to the Immigration Appeal Division from removal orders and from refusals of applications for permanent residence by sponsored family class applicants; interventions into refugee claims by the Minister before the Convention Refugee Determination Division; and with respect to detention of individuals pursuant to the Immigration Act.

The Investigations and Removals Directorate (SEO) develops and implements national policies, strategic directions, operational priorities, service standards, procedures, and operational instructions for the investigative and removal functions of the Immigration Enforcement program. In conjunction with the Program Development Directorate, SEO develops a comprehensive international removals strategy in partnership with DFIAT and other key international partners.

The Program Development section (SEP) is responsible for the development of and coordination of a coherent international enforcement strategy. This is intended to support the Branch's objectives with respect to interdiction, removals, and migrant smuggling.

The Border Policy Directorate (SEF) develops, recommends and manages policies and legislative provisions to support the Department's leadership role in the area of managing border issues and strategies with national and regional partners.

Service Line Support Directorate (SED) supports Enforcement Branch management's responsibility for Branch planning and priority setting. The section leads Branch participation in various corporate exercises related to establishing program and corporate objectives and plans, budget forecasting, planning and reporting and accounting for program results. The section provides internal services to managers in the areas of human resources (staffing, training, succession planning), IT systems, organizational development, expenditure control and other administrative matters.

♦ Integration Branch

The Integration Branch is responsible for the development of policy and programs that define membership in Canadian society, enhance the role of Canadian citizenship, and support the settlement, adaptation and integration of newcomers. The Branch develops policies and programs that promote integration and Canadian citizenship; ensures that the federal government's responsibilities towards the immigrants it accepts for permanent residence are met; educates potential new Canadians about the rights and responsibilities of Canadian citizenship; promotes the value of Canadian citizenship to newcomers; and administers and interprets the Citizenship Act. The Integration Branch oversees the delivery of programs under its jurisdiction through a network of national partnerships, as required. The Integration Branch is composed of four program division: Citizenship Division; Settlement Division; Integration Promotion Division; and Service Line Support Division.

The Citizenship Division manages the overall administration of the Citizenship Act and Regulations. The main activities are developing and revising the regulations and policies for the administration of the Act, maintaining legislative compliance, providing functional guidance on citizenship matters implementing new citizenship Legislation and maintaining a historical body of knowledge on past and present nationality legislation.

The Settlement Division provides functional guidance; develops policies, operation procedures, work instruments; designs program terms and conditions for the settlement programs and services which are provided to newcomers; manages national settlement realignment agreements with the provincial governments; manages the orientation abroad initiative; and manages contribution program allocations and expenditures.

The Integration Promotion Division is responsible for the development of activities and programs which promote the citizenship and settlement programs and initiatives. This Division is also responsible for the development, production and distribution of promotion/education material in support of its mandate.

The Service Line Support Division provides the Branch with the capability to plan, analyze and coordinate activities and to provide an efficient infrastructure to support the other division in the Branch, corporate initiatives and CIC priorities.

♦ Refugees Branch

Refugees Branch is composed of the Asylum, Resettlement, International Liaison and Refugee Program Support Divisions. They are responsible for the management of refugee policy, programs and targets; liaison with the Immigration and Refugee board (IRB); representing the interests of CIC and the Government on international migration issues; and coordinating reporting and liaison activities.

♦ Selection

The Selection Branch is responsible for the development of policy, program design and procedural guidance affecting the selection of people to Canada both immigrants and non-immigrants. The goal is to develop policy with an operational perspective, provide procedural guidance to the field both nationally and internationally, and feed back field perspectives into the policy-making process.

The Social Policy and Programs Division is responsible for development of policy and programs for the social benefit of Canada including Family Class immigration, international adoption, landing in Canada programs, Live-in-Caregivers in Canada and related humanitarian issues. The Division is also responsible for the policy on Minister's Permits and on immigration representatives (lawyers and consultants).

The Economic Policy and Program Division is responsible for developing policy and designing programs for the economic benefit of Canada including the selection criteria for skilled workers, for all non-immigrant programs including foreign students and temporary workers, for returning residents and for provincial nominees. The Division is also responsible for international agreements (e. g. NAFTA, GATS, etc.) concerning temporary entry of business persons.

The Immigration Health Policy Division is responsible for the legislation on medical inadmissibility. It is also responsible for developing immigration health policy in consultation with federal and provincial partners and for maintaining liaison on immigration health issues with federal government departments, other immigrant receiving countries, and with international organizations.

The Business Immigration Division is responsible for policy formulation, program development and procedural compliance for self-employed, investor and entrepreneurial programs.

The Service Line Support Division is responsible for the establishment of branch objectives and monitoring of branch policy, program performance and guidance. It is responsible for ensuring compliance with program guidelines and directives, through the establishment and management of the national Quality Assurance program for all inland activities by monitoring the reliability of client information provided in applications and the quality of decision-making made by the staff. The division is also responsible for the development of the annual immigration plan for production of annual statistics and management reports including levels and mix information.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems
Description: EDP (Electronic Data Processing) systems are those used to gather or update the information needed for the operational support of immigration programs. Immigration-related programs and services are delivered using integrated clerical, manual and EDP systems. The EDP component consists of the sub-systems listed below. The information banks supported by each system are given by number after each description. All sub-systems are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by common data elements that allow comparisons of information across systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system may affect the smooth running of others. Approximately 500 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year.

(1) Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1); Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2): IDSO

and IDSC are used by overseas offices to maintain records of all applications for permanent resident status. Both systems provide information used in recruitment and selection processes. The data are case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfilm records, date back to 1935. EDP records are available as far back as 1968. (EIC PPU 225)

(2) Landed Immigrant Data System (LIDS) (EDP-3): The Landed Immigrant Data System (LIDS) retains a permanent record of individuals granted permanent residence. Its main purpose is to create an official name index, which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada. It is also legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family Allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all of CIC's reports on permanent residents. (EIC PPU 230)

(3) Visitor Information Data System (VIDS) (EDP-4): VIDS retains a permanent record of all persons granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period (whether as visitors, students, temporary workers or permit holders). The system's main purpose is to provide an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. Information from VIDS is also used to produce the Department's reports on visitors and permit holders. Data used in the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits are retained here. (EIC PPU 285; 290;295;300)

(4) Enforcement Information Index (EII) (EDP-5): Please see EIC PPU 265 for details. A set of EII (EIC PPU 265) cases produced on CD is distributed to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.

(5) Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): Please see EIC PPU 270 for details. A set of EDS (EIC PPU 270) cases produced on CD is distributed to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.

(6) Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP7): The FOSS database is a central repository of information on all persons who have been or are wanted to be seen by Immigration staff. FOSS is the main operational support system for Immigration operations in Canada. The system is comprised of numerous components including query functions, status entry, document creation, refugee monitoring, case processing support, medical profiles, registry functions, client name and address, statistical functions, airport primary inspection line functions, access and security, appeals and litigation, quality assurance and records maintenance. All Immigration staff that work with the public and the staff that support these officers use FOSS. It is also used at all international airports by Customs inspectors and by a number of specialized groups, such as: Case Management, Query Response Centre, Social Insurance Registry, Immigration Health, Immigration Statistics, External Affairs Protocol Office and the U.S. Immigration Offices at Detroit and Buffalo. There are over 8 million client records and over 6.5 million document reference records.

(7) Settlement Management Information System (SMIS): SMIS which ceased to be operational in early 1996, was used to monitor the effectiveness of settlement services delivered by contracted non-governmental organizations. It also serves as a record of the adjustment assistance granted to newcomers in need, used in the administration of financial assistance loans. Associated settlement programs are the Immigrant Settlement and Adaptation Program (ISAP) (PPU 250), the Host Program (PPU 226) and Adjustment Assistance Program (AAP) (PPU 235), and Language Instruction for Newcomers to Canada (LINC) (PPU 500).

(8) Computer-Assisted Immigration Processing System (CAIPS): CAIPS is the Department's automated system for application processing outside Canada. Information is entered in the system from application forms and supporting documentation submitted by applicants for immigrant and visitor visas, returning residence permits and student and employment authorizations.

(9) Stand Alone Immigration Reporting System (STAIRS): STAIRS is used to capture immigration and visitor information from non-CAIPS immigration missions overseas. It allows operational data for a mission to be produced and transmitted to National Headquarters for further processing in IDSO and ISIS. There are at present 12 STAIRS missions overseas. The system enables users to search by applicant and/or dependent in an automated case index; to print non-immigrant visas; to conduct tracking by case status; and to produce operational reports and key indicators.

(10) Case Processing Centre System (CPC):

The CPC system supports the processing of all in-Canada applications for the following six lines of Business: in-Canada sponsorship of relatives; extension of tourist visas; extension of work permit applications; extension of student visa authorizations; applications for landed immigrate status from in-Canada; and applications for landed immigrant status for refugees. The system will interface very closely with the FOSS system, and with the AVRES (automated voice response enquiry system).

(11) Citizenship Registry System (CRS):

The CRS manages all processes related to citizenship: grants (of citizenship), proofs of citizenship certificates. The main functions are: Collect Fees; Collect Data; Certificate Preparation; Clearance; Decision: Scheduling; Log In (results) and File Retention. All record scheduling and workflow data related to citizenship processes are kept in this database and there is an interface with FOSS.

Classes of Personal Information

♦ Executive Services

Briefings and Parliamentary Affairs
Receives telephone and fax queries from MP's, Senators, NGO's, lawyers, consultants, the media and the general public. This activity includes requests for ministerial intervention, and compliments, complaints, comments and questions on specific cases, legislation, procedures, ministerial announcements and quality of service. Liaises with Minister's Office staff on ministerial intervention requests from MP's, lawyers, NGO's and members of the general public, particularly when requests are deemed by MEU to have significant political implications. Liaises with Case Management Branch, International Region Branch, and other departmental officials in responding to representations. Memos and other briefing documents may deal with the same topics and individuals.

Ministerial Enquiries Unit
Copies of internal and external correspondence addressed to or handled by the Minister's and Deputy Minister's offices, as well as information related to its processing. Letters written by the general public or their representatives, and by MPs, private sector and other governmental and non-governmental organizations may include enquiries, requests, advice and opinions on the policies and programs of CIC and on the handling of individual cases. They may also deal with individuals employed by CIC and questions on quality of service. Information is retrievable by personal identifier, including names of individuals and file numbers, from the automated Ministerial Tracking System containing processing and control data and from paper files containing copies of actual documents. The personal information contained in this correspondence is not used for an administrative purpose.

♦ Communications Branch

Communications
Distribution mailing lists, both on paper and computer disks, which include individuals, as well as groups and media, who receive various departmental and branch publications, notably press releases and speeches, or who are targeted to receive promotional/educational or information materials (e. g. National Citizenship Week and other campaigns) or key documents or legislation (e. g. Annual Immigration Plan). This information is not retrievable by personal identifier.

♦ Integration Branch

Immigration/Citizenship/Integration Promotion
Letters written by the general public asking for information on the programs and responses to these letters are placed on CIC program files and are not retrievable by personal identifiers. They may, however, contain personal information. Any questions relating to CIC's programs and services are referred to the appropriate program group and letters from the public will be found in the relevant program files. Mailing lists may be found by consulting the Communications Branch.

Copyright Board Canada
Chapter 41

General Information

Background
The Copyright Board was created by a series of amendments to the Copyright Act which were proclaimed on February 1, 1989. It replaced the Copyright Appeal Board which had been responsible since 1935 for approving annual tariffs respecting the public performance of music. Bill C-32 (Act modifying the Copyright Act) which received Royal Assent on April 25, 1997, modifies the mandate of the Board by adding the responsibilities, among others, for the adoption of tariffs for the public performance and communication to the public by telecommunication of sound recordings of musical works, for the benefit of the performers of these works and of the makers of the sound recordings ("the neighbouring rights") and for the adoption of tariffs for private copying of recorded musical works, for the benefit of the rights owners in the works, the recorded performances and the sound recordings ("the home-taping regime").

Responsibilities
The Copyright Board is an independent administrative agency which has been conferred department status for purposes of the Financial Administration Act. Its mandate stems from the Copyright Act.

The Copyright Board plays a major role in the collective administration of copyright, particularly where the public performance and the communication to the public, by telecommunication, of musical works, as well as the retransmission of distant radio and television signals are concerned. The Board plays a surveillance role in three ways with respect to collective societies which administer very large repertoires of work created by a multitude of originators both in Canada and in other countries: as an economic regulatory body, by approving tariff proposals by the various copyright collective societies; as an arbitrator in private disputes; and as an arbitrator of the public interest.

The Board's principal mandate is to set royalties which are fair and reasonable for both copyright owners and the users of copyright-protected works, as well as issuing non-exclusive licences authorizing the fully legal use of works when the copyright owner cannot be located.

The Board reports annually to Parliament through the Minister of Industry.

Legislation
- Copyright Act, R.S.C. (1985), c. C-42
- Local Signal and Distant Signal Regulations
- Retransmission Royalties Criteria Regulations
- Programming Undertaking Regulations

- Regulations establishing the Period of Royalty Entitlements of Non-members of Collecting Bodies
- Regulations defining "Wireless Transmission System"
- Regulations defining "Advertising Revenues"
- Exceptions for Educational Institutions, Libraries, Archives and Museums Regulations
- Regulations prescribing Networks

Organization
The Board consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a maximum of three other members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairman, who must be a judge of a superior, county or district court, directs the work of the Board and apportions its work among the members of the Board. The Vice-Chairman, who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Board, supervises and directs the work of the Board's staff. The Board has a staff of seven employees, three of whom report to the Chief Executive Officer: the Secretary, the General Counsel and the Researcher-Analyst.

Correctional Investigator Canada
Chapter 42

General Information

Background
The Office of the Correctional Investigator was established by Part II of the Inquiries Act. The office investigates complaints from inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act and reports upon problems of inmates that fall within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada and meet the following conditions:

(1) The subject matter of the complaint concerns an incident occurring within twelve months of the lodging of the complaint;

(2) The complainant has taken, in the opinion of the Commissioner, all reasonable steps to exhaust legal or administrative remedies;

(3) The subject matter of the complaint does not involve the preparation of material for consideration by the National Parole Board.

The Commissioner need not investigate if the subject matter of a complaint has previously been investigated, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, a person complaining has no valid interest in the matter.

Responsibilities
The Correctional Investigator investigates and reports on the problems of inmates that come within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada (other than those problems raised on complaint in certain defined circumstances). Investigations are undertaken at the request of the Solicitor General, on the Investigator's own initiative, or upon complaint from or on behalf of inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act.

Legislation
- Parole Act and Regulations
- Penitentiary Act
- Penitentiary Service Regulations
- Prison and Reformatories Act

Organization
The Office of the Correctional Investigator comprises three secretarial/administrative positions, a director of investigations and five investigators.

Correctional Service of Canada
Chapter 43

General Information

Background
In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service.

Responsibilities
Mission: The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system and respecting the rule of law, contributes to the protection of society by actively encouraging and assisting offenders to become law-abiding citizens, while exercising reasonable, safe, secure and humane control. The Correctional Service of Canada provides programs for offenders from admission until the expiration of their sentence. In order to carry out its responsibilities, the Correctional Service creates files to hold information on prisons, organizations and occurrences that affect or may affect it in the carrying out of its mandate. Information must be collected from and shared with numerous sources, such as the community at large, with special consideration for victims of crime, as is explained in the section "General Information on Data Matching", at the end of this chapter.

Legislation
- Corrections and Conditional Release Act, SC 1992, c. C-20
- Criminal Code RSC, 1985, c. C-46
- Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1976
- Criminal Records Act RSC, 1985, c. C-47
- Prisons and Reformatories Act RSC, 1985, c. P-20
- Young Offenders Act RSC, 1985, c. R-1

Organization

Communications and Consultation
The Communications and Consultation Sector is responsible for raising Canadian's awareness about correctional issues through public education, and encouraging citiùen engagement. The Sector provides communications planning and advice; handles relations with the media; and offers a variety of multimedia services to its clients, including exhibits, publications, film and video. It is also responsible for promoting citizen engagement through mechanisms such as the Citizen's Advisory Committees.

Corporate Development
The Corporate Development Sector is responsible for strategic and operational planning, research, policy development, intergovernmental affairs, offender affairs and public consultation. Specific responsibilities of this Sector include the legislative agenda (e.g. Correctional and Conditional Release Act and Regulations), federal/provincial projects, international relations, restorative justice/dispute resolution, and issues relating to human rights and to the Access to Information and Privacy Acts.

Corporate Secretariat
The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the daily liaison with the Office of the Solicitor General and for the coordination and preparation of executive correspondence to the Commissioner, the Minister's Office, other Members of Parliament and Legislative Assemblies.

Corporate Services
The Corporate Services Sector is responsible for informatics, technological support, technical services, construction program, finance and material management. More specifically, this Sector provides all goods and services (food, clothing and housing), technology, engineering, maintenance and capital program management services to support correctional facilities and activities.

Correctional Operations and Programs
The Correctional Operations and Programs Sector is responsible for the integrity of community and institutional operations and correctional programs across the Correctional Service of Canada, and for improving the delivery of safe corrections. More specifically, this Sector is responsible for: aboriginal issues; chaplaincy; health services; offender reintegration and correctional programs (e.g. sex offender, education, substance abuse, living skills and personal development programs); operational support; security and CORCAN.

CORCAN provides employment and training opportunities to offenders incarcerated in federal penitentiaries and, for brief periods of time, after they are released into the community, to facilitate offenders' reintegration into society and re-entry into the labour market.

Legal Services
This Sector is responsible for providing a variety of in-house legal services to the Commissioner and staff of the Correctional Service of Canada in connection with matters relating to the operations of the Service and provides interpretations of related acts, regulations, policies, directives and guidelines.

Office of the Commissioner

The Commissioner, as the Senior Executive Officer of the Correctional Service of Canada, is accountable to the Solicitor General of Canada in managing and guiding the policies and programs of the Service.

Office of the Deputy Commissioner for Women

The Women Offender Sector is responsible for the effective policy and program development, implementation and ongoing program delivery for federally-sentenced women.

Office of the Senior Deputy Commissioner

The Senior Deputy Commissioner supports the Commissioner in the management and direction of the Correctional Service of Canada to achieve the Service's program objectives.

Performance Assurance

The Performance Assurance Sector is responsible for audits, evaluations, investigations and the management of the accreditation process. It is also responsible for providing performance measurement tools and advice for the regions and sectors of the Correctional Service of Canada.

Personnel and Training

The Personnel and Training Sector is responsible for the identification, resolution and implementation of human resources activities and for providing interpretations of related policies, directives and guidelines. Overall this Sector is responsible for staff relations; staff training and development; employee assistance programs; occupational safety and health; corporate classification and staffing; personnel services for National Headquarters; and career management.

Regions

Five regional offices, located in the Atlantic, Québec, Ontario, Prairie and Pacific Regions, are responsible for administering the operations of correctional institutions and the supervision of offenders. Each Region is comprised of correctional facilities classified as maximum, medium and minimum security; women's facilities; district offices; parole offices and community correctional centres.

The five regional offices are responsible for implementing national policies and programs; developing regional policies, plans and programs for performance measurement, human resource and financial management, federal/provincial relations, liaison with the Commissioner's Office, public consultation, and provision of information to the media, elected officials, interest groups and the public.

Case Management - Community Bank

Description: Since 1991, as a result of the shift of case preparation from the community to the institutions, the CSC gradually introduced a major change to its case management records system. The existing three-bank case management records system, CSC PPU 035 Case Management - Institution "A", CSC PPU 040 Case Management - Institution "B", CSC PPU 030 Case Management - Community was phased out; as a result of the conversion the CSC has one, single ACTIVE case management bank called "CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank". (a) ALL the records filed before the conversion on the CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remain active and are transferred to the new "CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank", (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management - Community Bank disappears; (c) ALL case management records, be they generated from then on in the institution or in the community, are filed on the one, single case management bank CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. Therefore, all the CSC PPU 030 Case Management - Community records that were held on the former CSC PPU 030 Case Management - Community Bank are now all on the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. In order to access a CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank the requestor merely has to request the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank and he will thus get all his former CSC PPU 030 Case Management - Community records. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion of the case management records system and who DID NOT return under CSC jurisdiction: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remains inactive. This bank remains accessible under the Privacy Act. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion but who came back under CSC jurisdiction AFTER the conversion of the case management records system: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank is: (a) retrieved from Archives, (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community is deleted, (c) the content of this former CSC PPU 030 Case Management - Community Bank is reactivated and the file is renamed CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. From then on, the CSC continues filing ALL case management records on the offender on this one, single, CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank, be they generated in the community or in the institution." This bank contains records and data on an offender's release programs as well as background information on his/her incarceration. General Information on Data Matching

Data Matching - Data Sharing

Within the mandate of the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) is the requirement to share data with other areas of the Criminal Justice Community, to ensure that offenders are appropriately managed in a safe, secure and humane environment, and to ensure the safety of the offender, other inmates, staff and the community at large. Also, in order to accomplish its mandate the Service needs the information provided by other agencies and therefore a match is conducted.

Data Matching with Law Enforcement Agencies (municipal, provincial, international, federal police forces or another law enforcement body)

Following an offender's sentence to a federal institution, the CSC requests the criminal record (history information) from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP). This information is used to assess the impact of the offender's criminal behaviour and to alert staff who will deal with the offender. CSC also requests a police report from the arresting and/or investigating law enforcement body in order to have a full understanding of the events surrounding the offence.

Following a sentence to a federal institution in the case of foreign nationals, the CSC must also request from the Inland Service (Immigration) that they provide it with information that is relevant to the administration of the offender's sentence and to the case management process.

When an offender is released to the community, there is a requirement to notify the RCMP and/or the local police force, and, when necessary, the Inland Service (Immigration), of the offender's address and the terms and conditions of the release. If an offender violates conditions of release, or is considered to be a risk, CSC will issue a warrant for the apprehension of the offender. The warrant is transmitted to the local police and the data is entered into the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) system. The police is requested to locate and apprehend the offender.

Data Matching with the National Parole Board

CSC data is matched with the National Parole Board (NPB). With the implementation of the OMS (Offender Management System) there is one integrated system to meet the demand of both agencies.

While it is CSC's responsibility to manage the offenders for the duration of their sentence, it is the NPB's responsibility to assess the offenders' progress during incarceration, their risk to society, and their potential for successful reintegration into the community as law-abiding citizens. CSC information is shared with NPB pertaining to all aspects related to an offender prior to and during incarceration. Once NPB has assessed the information, and through a hearing process, makes their decision, CSC is notified. If the NPB makes a decision to conditionally release an offender, it is CSC staff who are responsible for the supervision and control of the offender in the community and keeping NPB informed of the offender's progress.

Data Matching with Provincial Authorities

An offender who is sentenced to a period of incarceration of two years or more, will serve this sentence under the jurisdiction of CSC. Offenders sentenced to less than two years will serve their sentence under a provincial jurisdiction. However, CSC is doing the case preparation and supervision for some provinces who do not have a parole board.

Often an offender will have a history of provincial incarceration, further, prior to sentencing the offender could be held in a provincial institution or a remand centre. Information collected during any period of incarceration is deemed significant and sometimes crucial to the successful management of that offender. It is for these reasons that information is routinely shared and matched between CSC and provincial authorities which include also the boards of education and hospitals.

Information is also requested from the sentencing judge and could also be requested from the crown attorney, from provincial parole and probation services. This information is used by CSC in the management of the offender and decision-making process.

Method of Data Matching/Sharing

In the preceding descriptions of CSC data matching/sharing, every effort is taken to ensure that the data matched/shared concerns the same individual. In order to validate that the different agencies are dealing with the same individual, a number of personal identifiers are matched. These include: name, sex, date of birth, finger print series number (FPS) and in some cases physical features.

CSC may conduct or assist others in conducting ad hoc data matching for the purpose of the enforcement of any law (i.e. Criminal Code).

Department of Finance Canada
Chapter 45

General Information

Background
The Department of Finance was formed in 1867 and received legislative authority pursuant to section 14 of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities
The Department is responsible for advice to the federal government on the economic and financial affairs of Canada. It oversees all government initiatives affecting the economy and monitors external factors that may have a bearing on domestic economic performance. The Department's most visible output is the federal budget. The Minister of Finance's budget speech reviews the government's accounts and presents fiscal projections for the coming years, including expenditures, revenues, tax changes and debt levels. In addition, the Minister is responsible for the management of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Organization

Access to Information and Privacy Division

This division is responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act for the Department. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to departmental officials on matters which concern the legislation.

Canada Investment and Savings

Canada Investment and Savings is a Special Operating Agency within the Department of Finance responsible for the retail component of the government's debt obligations, including the strategy, management and performance. The Agency was created in August 1995 and the name was changed from "Canada Retail Debt Agency" to "Canada Investment and Savings" in September 1996 to better reflect the agency's mandate. The Agency has three main functional areas:

♦ Marketing Services

Conceptualizes the government's overall marketing and communication strategy for the retail debt program (e.g. Canada Savings Bonds), develops and implements marketing plans and advertising campaigns for existing and new products, and monitors performance.

♦ Product Management

Manages existing portfolio of products and develops and introduces new retail debt products.

♦ Sales and Distribution

Manages the delivery network for the family of retail debt products, develop new partnerships with financial institutions, explores and pilot tests new distribution channels including elecronic alternatives and develops easier access to existing Government of Canada retail debt products.

Consultations and Communications Branch

This branch is responsible for developing communications and consultations strategies and initiatives that assist the Minister and other branches in formulating and implementing policy initiatives, including the annual federal budget. It organizes ministerial and departmental consultations, manages a range of information and public affairs activities, and provides related services. It is composed of two divisions.

♦ Communications Policy and Strategy Division

This division develops communications plans and strategies, and provides communications advice on the handling of departmental issues and the implementation of policies and programs. It also drafts speeches, press releases, various briefing papers, publications and multi-media presentations, including material in support of the federal budget. As well, the division undertakes communications research and analysis and monitors the media on a daily basis for issues of interest to the Minister, the Secretary of State and the department.

♦ Public Affairs and Operations Division

This division implements and supports external communications and public relations activities. It carries out an extensive media relations program, including preparing departmental and ministerial announcements and statements, and arranging for briefings and press conferences, including those for the release of the federal budget. The division also provides logistical support for all departmental publications. The division develops and maintains contacts with the business community, labour organizations, and social, voluntary and other interest groups, and assists the Minister, the Secretary of State and the department in consulting with the public and stakeholders on a range of economic and fiscal issues. As well, the division manages the Departmental Correspondence Centre.

The division also manages the Visits, Conferences and Protocol unit. This unit provides Finance with expertise and services in the areas of conference and meeting organization, management and logistics, visits by foreign dignitaries and officials, and other protocol services.

Corporate Services Branch

The role of this branch is to assist the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Secretary of the Treasury Board in the management of the internal administration of their organizations and to provide financial, personnel, administrative and management advice to branches and divisions. The Branch consists of six divisions: Administrative Services; Informatics Services; Financial Services; Human Resources; Security Services; Business and Technology Integration Division.

Economic and Fiscal Policy Branch

This branch analyzes and appraises all factors affecting Canada's economic and financial situation and recommends measures to meet the requirements of appropriate fiscal policies. It also analyzes and forecasts the financial requirements of the government of Canada.

♦ Economic Analysis and Forecasting Division

This division has primary responsibility for monitoring and analyzing current Canadian economic conditions and the economic outlook and for the preparation of quarterly economic forecasts for the Canadian (national and provincial) and U.S. economies. It also prepares assessments of the impact of policy measures and other events on the Canadian economy. In addition, the division produces the quarterly publication entitled "Economy in brief".

♦ Economic Studies and Policy Analysis Division

The division has primary responsibility for anticipating major policy issues the government of Canada is likely to face, develops tools to analyze these issues, prepares analysis and research of the highest calibre and, based on all this, recommends policy advice in both macroeconomic and structural areas. The technical work undertaken in the division is made public in the form of a working paper series.

♦ Fiscal Policy Division

This division has primary responsibility for advising on fiscal policy and analyzing the financial requirements of the Government of Canada and for monitoring and analyzing the developing fiscal positions of other levels of government. It also has primary responsibility for analysis and advice on the government's fiscal framework and co-ordinating the department's advice to the Minister on overall spending priorities. The division plays a key role in the budgetary process, and is responsible for the preparation of the Fiscal Monitor, as well as several budgetary papers. In addition, the division reviews the form and content of the Public Accounts and other statements for which the Minister has responsibility under the Financial Administration Act.

Economic Development and Corporate Finance Branch

This branch is responsible for providing policy advice and analytical support to the Minister of Finance on a wide range of economic, fiscal and financial issues related to the microeconomic policies of the government.

♦ Corporate Finance & Privatization Division

This division advises: on the economic and fiscal implications of policies and programs in the areas of transportation and infrastructure systems and services; provides corporate financial analysis and advice on proposals for government support to major development projects and in relation to corporate restructuring plans; plays a central role in the privatization of federal Crown Corporations, other corporate holdings and government services that no longer require government ownership or direct delivery to fulfill a public policy role; and provides a focal point for cross-cutting issues of interest to the Minister of Finance in the management and operations of federal Crown Corporations.

♦ Economic Development Policy Division

This division advises on the economic and fiscal implications of policies and programs to promote economic development in Canada in the specific areas of industrial and sectoral development, industrial innovation and science and technology policy, small business development, regional development, telecommunications policy and business framework legislation, agriculture and fisheries, and environment, energy and natural resources.

Federal-Provincial Relations and Social Policy Branch

This branch is responsible for providing policy advice on federal-provincial fiscal arrangements and social policy programs.

♦ Federal-Provincial Relations Division

This division is responsible for the federal government's major transfers to provinces and territories. It also provides advice on all matters pertaining to the federal-provincial fiscal arrangements, including the Canada Health and Social Transfer, Equalization, Stabilization and Territorial Financing.

♦ Social Policy Division

Advises on the development of the federal government's social policies as well as on specific proposals in the major functional areas of labour market, income security, aboriginal policy, health and culture programs.

Financial Sector Policy Branch

This branch provides policy analysis and advice with respect to the financial sector.

♦ Financial Markets Division

Provides policy analysis and recommendations with respect to the management of the federal government's borrowing program, the public debt and debt issues in both domestic and foreign markets, borrowing policy relating to Crown corporations, loan and loan guarantees, analysis and policy advice on matters respecting the exchange rate, international reserves and investments policies including the Canada Pension Plan, and trends and developments in Canada's financial markets.

♦ Financial Sector Division

Develops and analyses policies applicable to Canada's financial institutions. Among its responsibilities, this Division leads work on issues related to development of policy to ensure the proper regulation of the sector. This includes consideration of legislative changes to be considered by Ministers, considerations of precedent-setting transactions and developing policies on such matters as clearing and settlement, payments systems and deposit insurance. Also, the Division leads work on federal-provincial issues as well as international relations and negotiations, business financing and consumer issues.

♦ Financial Sector Review Group (FSRG)

Created in 1998 to better address the rapid pace of change in the Canadian financial services sector, the FSRG's mandate is to provide analysis and advice on the future direction of financial sector policy in Canada. A key part of this work will be to assess the recommendations of the Task Force on the Future of the Canadian Financial Services Sector, which tabled its report in September 1998. This work culminated with the June 25, 1999 release of the government's new policy framework for the sector, which is outlined in "Reforming Canada's Financial Services Sector: A framework for the Future". Among others, the group's current responsibilities will include the drafting of legislation and consequential regulations stemming from the new framework, and facilitating their passage through Parliament. In addition, this group will provide analysis and advice on proposed bank mergers, and will continue to provide analysis and advice on any other potential large transactions.

International Trade and Finance Branch

This branch has the responsibility for international trade, investment and economic and financial co-operation; the international monetary system, defence programs, international development assistance and export financing.

♦ International Finance and Economic Analysis Division

Responsible for all aspects of international monetary, financial and development issues, as well as export finance. Manages Canada's relations with major international financial institutions, such as the IMF, the World Bank, and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development.Provides analysis and policy advice on international economic policy coordination.

♦ International Trade Policy Division

Plays a central role in the development, management and implementation of Canadian trade and investment policy. Evaluates the implications of domestic economic policies on Canada's international obligations and relations with other countries. It is responsible for all aspects of tariff and other import policy (anti-dumping, subsidies/countervail and safeguards) and the related domestic legislation. Participates in international trade and investment negotiations.

Tax Policy Branch

This branch undertakes analysis of and makes recommendations on tax policy issues and prepares appropriate legislation for passage through Parliament.

♦ Business Income Tax Division

Undertakes economic and quantitative analysis of tax policy issues in the areas of corporate, business and resource sector taxation.

♦ Intergovernmental Tax Policy Division

Policy and administrative responsibility for the federal-provincial income tax collection agreements and reciprocal taxation agreements as well as analysis of issues in the area of federal-provincial tax relations. Reviews Indian taxation, develops federal policy on First Nation taxation, including the exercise of taxation powers by First Nation governments.

♦ Personal Income Tax Division

Undertakes economic and quantitative analysis of personal income tax policy issues and develops new policies in this area.

♦ Sales Tax Division

Analyzes and develops federal sales and excise tax policy and drafts amendments to the sales and excise tax law required to implement budget proposals and other tax policy measures.

♦ Tax Legislation Division

Provides policy advice from a legal and structural perspective on income tax related issues applicable to persons, corporate entities and tax-exempt entities and drafts amendments to the income tax law required to implement budget proposals and other tax policy statements. Negotiates income tax agreements, and modifications to existing agreements, with other countries.

Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade
Chapter 46

General Information

Background

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade had its origin in an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade policy and international trade component of the Industry, Trade and Commerce Department. In 1992 the Immigration component of the foreign service was transferred to Employment and Immigration Canada and certain other non-core functions, such as the World Exhibition program and international sport program, were transferred to other departments. In 1993 the Investment Development Division of Investment Canada was merged with the Department.

The Department of External Affairs Act of 1985 set forth the mandate of the Department and provided for a Secretary of State for External Affairs (SSEA) and a Minister for International Trade. The name of the Department was subsequently changed to External Affairs and International Trade Canada. In the fall of 1993 the Department assumed its present title, the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), and the SSEA's title was changed to Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Responsibilities

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its legal mandate, as set out in the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade Act, RSC 1985, c. E-22, is to:

- conduct all diplomatic and consular relations on behalf of Canada;
- conduct all official communication between the Government of Canada and the government of any other country and between the Government of Canada and any international organization;
- conduct and manage international negotiations as they relate to Canada;
- coordinate Canada's economic relations;
- foster the expansion of Canada's international trade;
- coordinate the direction given by the Government of Canada to the heads of Canada's diplomatic and consular missions and to manage these missions;
- administer the foreign service of Canada;
- foster the development of international law and its application in Canada's external relations.

The Department has four basic roles, which flow from the legal mandate. They are:

- the development and coordination of the Government's international policy;
- advocacy of Canadian interests and values overseas;
- the provision of services to Canadians (trade and investment promotion, securing and improving market access, consular assistance, passports);
- support for other government departments and agencies abroad (including provincial governments).

Organization

The Department has two Ministers (Foreign Affairs, International Trade) and two Secretaries of State (one for the Asia-Pacific region and one for Latin America and Africa). The responsibilities of the two Ministers extend beyond this Department: the Minister of Foreign Affairs is also responsible for the International Development Research Centre, the International Joint Commission and the International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development. The Minister for International Trade is responsible for the Export Development Corporation, the Canadian Commercial Corporation and the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) Secretariat. In addition, the Minister for International Cooperation is responsible for la Francophonie.

Canadian Foreign Service Institute (CFSI)

The Institute plans and delivers training and development programs to Departmental employees. The programs are designed to facilitate career development and improve the effectiveness of employees in the delivery of the Department's programs in Canada and internationally. They include training in official and foreign languages and a broad range of work-related skills. Organizational development services are also provided to assist the Department in managing change. A research function also exists.

Client Services Bureau (SBD)

The Bureau provides personnel and financial administration services to employees and responsibility centres. It comprises six divisions: Financial Services and Systems; Foreign Service Directives and Travel Policy Services; Compensation Services; Distribution Services; Staff Relations Services; and Headquarters Administrative Services. The Bureau also includes a Services Centre which provides one stop shopping to employees across the entire range of services offered by the Bureau.

Communications Bureau (BCD)

The Communications Bureau consists of the Media Relations Division, The Foreign Policy Communications Division, the Trade Communications Division, the Communications Programs and Outreach Division, the Communications Services Division and the Public Environment Analysis Unit. The Bureau is responsible for increasing awareness and understanding of Canada's foreign policy and international trade agenda, and of the Department's role in shaping and carrying out that agenda; supplying quality communications advice to ministers and officials on issues, events and initiatives; ensuring Canadian and foreign media, as well as other groups and individuals, receive timely and accurate information; operating anti-drug, outreach, speaker and other communications programs; providing the Department with public opinion research and analysis; and promoting public understanding of the historical background of Canadian foreign relations.

Consular Affairs Bureau (JPD)

The Consular Affairs Bureau has the sole responsibility for the provision of assistance to and protection of Canadians in other countries. In carrying out that mandate, it operates through staff at Canadian missions abroad as well as through five headquarters divisions consisting of: Case Management, Emergency Services, Program Services, Informatics Services, and Communications and Training. All divisions are under the direction of a Director General. The Bureau sets overall policy for the delivery of consular services, manages cases in cooperation with missions, establishes service standards, manages the cost recovery program, delivers passport and citizenship services overseas, manages the 24-hour, 7-days-a-week departmental/consular operations centre and ensures the application of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations and related multilateral and bilateral agreements to its consular activities.

Economic Policy Bureau (EED)

The Bureau is responsible for the development and coordination of Canada's positions on international economic and development assistance issues, including G8 Economic Summits and the OECD. It is also responsible for research and analysis for policy options on Canada's international trade and economic agenda. It consists of three divisions: International Economic Relations and Summit Division; Economic Relations with Developing Countries Division; and Trade and Economic Analysis Division.

Executive Services (DCD)

The objective of this new Bureau is to provide dedicated one-stop support to all ministerial offices. It is composed of three divisions: DCP (Access to Information and Privacy issues); DCL (Cabinet and Parliamentary Liaison); DCC (Ministerial Correspondence).

Export and Import Controls Bureau (EPD)

The authority to control the export and import of goods and technology through the Export and Imports Permits Act (EIPA) is the basis of the Bureau's foreign and domestic policy mandate. The Act sets out criteria to govern the inclusion of particular goods on an Export Control List and an Import Control List, and the inclusion of particular countries on an Area Control List applicable to exports. Control over the flow of goods contained on these lists and to/from these destinations is effected through the issuance or denial of export and import permits. The Act delegates to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the discretion to grant or deny requests for permits, and thus confers on the Minister broad powers to control the flow of goods. The principal role of the Export and Import Controls Bureau is to manage Canada's export and import control regime. This it does through policy development; issue management; processing and issuance of permits; and multilateral and bilateral negotiations.

Geographic Bureaux

For the conduct of external relations, the world has been divided among eight geographic bureaux, each under a director general. These are: Africa (GGD); Central, East and South Europe (RBD); European Union, North and West Europe (RWD); Latin America and Caribbean (LGD); Middle East, North Africa and Gulf States (GMD); North Asia and Pacific (PND); South and Southeast Asia (PSD); and United States (URD). Each bureau is separated into divisions according to smaller geographic areas, and within the divisions, a country desk approach is normally used. The responsibilities and activities of the geographic bureaux have much in common and are best described together.

Each bureau is responsible for the management and coordination of the full range of relations with its region. Included are the operations of the Canadian posts abroad in its area, their guidance and instruction, the on-going dialogue with them, and the provision and allocation of resources to them. Under the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade Act, a head of mission is defined as responsible for the management and direction of the mission and the supervision of the official activities of the various Canadian departments and agencies in the country in question.

The geographic bureaux provide policy advice to Ministers, based on country and regional analysis, and generally are responsible for the handling of bilateral political and economic issues and trade policy with various parts of the world. Each bureau normally manages directly certain core DFAIT programs or "business lines"; for example, "international security and cooperation" or "international business development". In addition, the bureau – with its component divisions – coordinates the delivery within its area of other departmental business lines, including DFAIT's public affairs, consular and administrative programs, as well as the programs of other federal departments and agencies with major operations overseas. As the main point of contact for the Canadian business community, geographic divisions handle export promotion and country-specific market access issues. Most of them support tourist promotion activities in conjunction with the Canadian Tourism Commission, fairs and trade missions, investment development and science and technology cooperation. They also serve as a point of contact for non-governmental organizations with interests abroad and for foreign diplomatic missions based in Ottawa.

Global and Human Issues Bureau (AGD)

This Bureau is responsible for policy development and coordination of activity in issues which are transnational in nature and contribute to sustainable human development and human security. The Human Rights, Humanitarian Affairs and Women`s Equality Division ensures effective monitoring of human rights, women`s equality issues world-wide and the effective integration of these considerations into all relevant aspects of bilateral and multilateral relations. It also coordinates the foreign policy aspects of humanitarian affairs and migration and refugee issues. The Bureau is also responsible for departmental coordination of aboriginal affairs and for the activities of the Ambassador for Circumpolar Affairs as well as the Counsellor for International Indigenous Issues. The Bureau is responsible for the development of the Government`s Peacebuilding and human security initiative, including programs involving conflict resolution and democratic development. Aspects of social development, including children`s issues, are the responsibility of this Bureau as is the implementation of the Youth International internship Program. The International Crime Division coordinates international policy development on crime, drugs and terrorism issues.

Human Resources Development Bureau (SPD)

The Bureau is concerned with the management of the Department's human resources through the recruitment, assignment, classification and promotion processes. Its scope includes rotational (foreign service) and non-rotational as well as locally-engaged staff in missions abroad. The Bureau is also responsible for personnel policy and planning, in addition to the application in DFAIT of government-wide Official Language, Employment Equity, and Workforce Adjustment programs.

Information Management and Technology Bureau (SXD)

The Bureau provides corporate information management and information technology services to the Department and to other government departments with operations abroad. Through MITNET, the Department's telecommunications service, it provides secure and unclassified voice, facsimile, and data transmission. Through SIGNET, its local and wide-area computer network, it supports e-mail and access to departmental data and applications for 8,200 Canadian and locally-engaged staff around the world. The Bureau is responsible for the Department's data banks and electronic and conventional registries. It supports the production, retrieval and delivery of timely information to staff and outside clientele. As Chief Information Officer, the Bureau's Director-General also coordinates planning, standards and policies for all information management and technology operations across the Department.

International Cultural Relations Bureau (ACD)

This Bureau promotes Canada abroad and helps achieve foreign policy and trade objectives by assisting Canadian scholars and artists to undertake international activities. It assists Canadian cultural and education industries by promoting and facilitating the exports of cultural goods and services and education services in cooperation with the cultural industries and education sectors. It is responsible for promoting Canadian Studies abroad; monitoring and coordinating Canadian representation at international education conferences; supporting international youth and cultural personalities exchange; and promoting abroad Canadian education and training goods and services. It provides funding for international tours by Canadian performing artists, writers and film directors, supports exhibitions abroad of Canadian visual art at leading museums and galleries and important international Biennales. It also provides support to Canadian missions abroad in delivering cultural services. Information on Bureau programs and activities may be found on the Internet at: http: //www.dfait-maeci.gc.ca.

International Organizations Bureau (IMD)

This Bureau coordinates Canada's participation in the United Nations and most of the specialized agencies and institutions that form part of the UN system. It is also responsible for coordinating Canada's multilateral relations with the Commonwealth and Canada's role and activities in la Francophonie.

International Security Bureau (IDD)

The International Security Bureau is the focal point of the Department's efforts concerning the Government's foreign policy objective of protecting Canadian security, within a stable global framework. The Bureau encompasses policy and operational responsibilities for non-proliferation, arms control and disarmament; regional security and peacekeeping; nuclear safety; North American and Euro-Atlantic security and defence relations.

Legal Affairs Bureau (JCD)

The main functions of the Legal Affairs Bureau are to promote the development of international law and dispute settlement mechanisms as instruments for peaceful change and the effective conduct of Canada's international relations. The areas of priority are: economic and trade law, international peace and security, state sovereignty and extraterritoriality, human rights law, international criminal law, environmental law, law of the sea, environmental management, and services to the public.

Office of Protocol (XDX)

The Chief of Protocol is the principal point of contact between the Government of Canada and foreign representatives accredited to Canada. The Office of Protocol is responsible for the accreditation and appointment of foreign diplomatic and consular representatives to Canada and of Canadian heads of diplomatic and consular missions to other countries. The Office manages all questions of privileges and immunities in respect to both foreign representatives in Canada and Canadian representatives abroad, as set out in the Foreign Missions and International Organizations Act, the State Immunity Act and the Vienna Conventions on Diplomatic and Consular Relations. The Office plans, organizes and manages state and official visits to Canada and participates in the logistical planning and conduct of travel abroad by the Governor General, the Prime Minister, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Minister for International Trade. The Office also organizes, arranges, and manages official hospitality functions for the Prime Minister, ministers and senior officials of this and other departments at Foreign Affairs Headquarters, at 7 Rideau Gate, the official Government guest house, and elsewhere in Canada and abroad.

Office of the Inspector General and Internal Audit and Evaluation (SIX)

The office of the Inspector General serves senior management of the Department by conducting a range of independent reviews, including Audits and Evaluations, at headquarters and Missions. Its purpose is to encourage accountability and improvements in Departmental management of processes and operations. The OIG's principal information holdings are reports of reviews performed.

Passport Office (JWD)

The Passport Office, a Special Operating Agency of the Department of External Affairs & International Trade, finances its operations entirely from the fees generated by passport services. Its administrative headquarters is located in Hull. The agency operates issuing offices (mail and personal service) in Hull and personal service counters at 27 regional offices across Canada. It also develops, promulgates, and monitors entitlement and issuance policies and procedures for application within Canada as well as at missions abroad.

Physical Resources Bureau (SRD)

The Bureau is a Special Operating Agency which is responsible for the Department's Long Range Capital Program directed at increasing Crown ownership of properties abroad and for the provision of chanceries and official residences through lease, purchase or design and construction. In addition, the Bureau is responsible for interior design services for accommodation abroad; the acquisition of materiel assets; and supervision of maintenance of overseas government properties. It performs a number of administrative functions relating to staff quarters at missions, and administers the Department's collection of Canadian works of art.

Planning Secretariat (CPD)

The Planning Secretariat provides general and specialized policy support to the Department. It is responsible for ensuring consistency and coherence across the whole range of Canadian foreign policy through the analysis, evaluation and development of policy, and by carrying out a number of specific policy tasks, such as the coordination of political input for G8 Summit.

Resource Planning and Management Secretariat (SMD)

The Bureau provides analysis and advice to the Executive Committee on program planning and resource allocation matters; liaises with central agencies on the Department's budget; manages the Department's internal business planning process; coordinates the preparation of the Department's annual Business Plan to Treasury Board and its Estimates, Plans and Priorities and Performance Report to Parliament; conducts activity based costing; manages the Department's salary budgets; and exercises comptrollership at the corporate level.

Security and Intelligence Bureau (ISD)

The Bureau is responsible for providing timely and critical intelligence on world events, assuring the protection of Canadian personnel and their families, the safeguard of government premises and assets and the promotion and protection of Canadian national interests. The Bureau is also responsible, as the National Security Authority, for overseeing the security of all NATO classified matter conveyed to Canada and for Communication Security (COMSEC). The Current Intelligence Division produces briefs for senior managers based on various sources available to DFAIT. It also produces analytical, operationally-relevant assessments and updates on key developing issues or breaking events. The Foreign Intelligence Division provides, inter alia, information support for Department operations and ensures the coordination of intelligence activities.

The security divisions are responsible for all aspects of physical and technical security and personal safety at headquarters and abroad. This includes the security of buildings, information and information technology, security measures at headquarters and abroad, personnel security, clearances and investigations and security education.

Trade Commissioner Service: Overseas Programmes and Services (TCD)

Analysis of the use and complementarity of government IBD resources.

Trade Policy Bureaux I and II and Office of the Coordinator for NAFTA (EAD, EBD)

The two Bureaux work closely together and collectively are responsible for all aspects of Canadian trade policy, including the management of trade-policy disputes. Trade Policy Bureau I is responsible for maintaining broad oversight of the international framework for trade. In this respect, it is responsible for coordinating Canadian trade policy on the WTO and regional agreements and initiatives, such as the Free Trade Agreement of the Americas, APEC, trade-policy relations with Europe, trade-related work of the OECD and bilateral free trade agreements, such as those with Chile and Israel. Trade Policy Bureau II is responsible for all services, investment and intellectual property related trade policy issues which are increasingly becoming the focus of trade agreements and trade negotiations. The Director General for Trade Policy Bureau II is also the Coordinator for NAFTA and, as such, is responsible for coordinating Canada's participation in the NAFTA and its institutions.

The two Bureaux consist of the following seven divisions: Trade Policy Planning Division; Trade Remedies Division; Technical Barriers and Regulations Division; Tariffs and Market Access Division; Investment Trade Policy Division; Services Trade Policy Division; and the Information and Technology Trade Policy Division.

♦ Headquarters organization

The Department is headquartered in Ottawa but operates throughout Canada via local and regional passport offices and through its network of trade commissioners in regional offices. Below the deputy minister level, the Department is organized by function, by geography and for corporate services at the assistant deputy minister level and is supported by the Legal Adviser and Planning Secretariat. There are special ambassadors, based in Ottawa, for specific subjects such as Fisheries Conservation, the Environment, Air Negotiations and Circumpolar Affairs. The present headquarters structure came into effect in September 1996.

The functional Assistant Deputy Ministers (International Business and Communications, Trade and Economic Policy, Global and Security Policy) are accountable for developing coherent, effective global policies and initiatives to achieve worldwide the objectives of the government's foreign policy. The geographic Assistant Deputy Ministers (Asia Pacific and Africa; Americas; Europe, Middle East and North Africa) are accountable for the implementation of objectives within their respective regions and ensuring that policies and initiatives are consistent with the development and maintenance of effective and coherent relationships between Canada and each country.

The Department is divided into a number of bureaux, as listed below alphabetically, each headed by a director-general. The bureaux in turn are separated into divisions, each under a director. There are also some divisions and work units that do not form part of bureaux. The acronyms by which each major unit is known is shown after the name.

♦ Missions abroad

Outside Canada, the Department operates through a network of 129 missions and 33 offices in 107 countries. Overseas representation also exists through a number of honourary consuls. Details of missions abroad can be found in the publication Canadian Representatives Abroad, issued annually.

Bilateral missions are accredited to specific countries. They include larger missions that provide a full range of services within the business line framework and smaller missions that specialize in specific services, including those of other government departments such as CIDA and Citizenship and Immigration.

Multilateral missions serve Canadian interests in specific international organizations such as the World Trade Organization (WTO), the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), the United Nations (U.N.) and the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the European Union (E.U.), and the Organization of American States (OAS). Missions also provide support to other government departments, including financial management, accommodation and property management, materiel management, communications, information management, personnel management of locally engaged staff, transportation and security.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. This information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files of the Department, which are described in the program records. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related departmental activity, the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed. The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject record schedules. The classes of personal information listed below describe particular program records which, because of their nature, are more likely to contain personal information.

International Security, Arms Control and CSCE Affairs Bureau
Personal information may be held by the bureau concerning individuals who have been involved in defence activities with NATO, NORAD, or other international defence or arms control organizations, or in conferences or visits. Personal information might include personal biographies, tours of defence colleges, military travel and training, and nominations of Canadians for positions in international defence organizations concerned with defence or arms control. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident,conference/organization, visits, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Legal Affairs Bureau
The Legal Affairs Bureau handles a number of important functions including multilateral legal issues, peace and security law, humanitarian law, economic law, trade agreements, treaties, international law, dispute settlement, individual legal cases, and implementation of environmental legislation and Access to Information and Privacy legislation. Personal information held by the Bureau may include enquiries from Canadian residents seeking advice about international and foreign legal systems or concerning authentification of documents, and claims by Canadian citizens for possible support by the Canadian government. Other personal information would relate to specific issues handled by the Bureau. Persons seeking access must specify the subject of the enquiry, as well as country and/or city, legal firm, contacts, incidents, dates and circumstances which may have led to the development of a record.

Office of Protocol
The Office of Protocol is responsible for the administration of protocol-related programs of the Department and for the development of policies and procedures which direct the administration of protocol programs. Personal information in this class would pertain to individuals who have participated in, or have been the subject of protocol-related activities within programs such as accreditation and ceremonies, privileges and immunities, government hospitality, protection of foreign representatives and foreign decorations, and awards and honours to Canadians. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, visits, conference, delegation, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Department of Justice Canada
Chapter 47

General Information

Background
The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This Act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged.

Responsibilities
The work of the Department consists of litigation, provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a very wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares recommendations or reviews recommendations, for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations. In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial and territorial governments in connection with young offenders, compensation of victims of violent crimes, legal aid in criminal cases for adults and young offenders, native court worker programs, and access to legal information. The Department also undertakes research in support of policy initiatives and other departmental responsibilities.

The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Organization

Aboriginal Justice Directorate

The Aboriginal Justice Directorate administers the government's Aboriginal Justice Strategy, which has been developed to help implement justice programs in Aboriginal communities, particularly communities wanting to negotiate self-government arrangements. The Strategy has two major objectives. The first is to respond to the aspirations of Aboriginal people to assume greater responsibility for the administration of justice in their community. The second is to help reduce the rates of crime and incarceration among Aboriginal people.

Canadian Firearms Centre

The Canadian Firearms Centre develops and implements the new firearms licensing and registration system required by the Firearms Act. The Centre also has responsibility for the overall coordination and management of the Canadian Firearms Program, involving its federal partners, provincial and territorial governments, law enforcement agencies and other organizations across the country.

Civil Litigation Section

This Section, along with its counterparts in the Regional Offices, is responsible for the conduct of all litigation by or against the federal government, except tax and criminal litigation. The practice applies to any matter that may be litigious or which requires legal advice, and covers many areas of law, including administrative, constitutional, debtor-creditor, employment, family, immigration, and native law, to name a few. Civil litigation services are provided to virtually every federal department and agency. Counsel appear before all levels of provincial and federal courts and before many federal administrative tribunals and international panels, such as NAFTA panels. Civil litigation counsel also advise on potentially litigious issues and are involved in finding policy and legislative solutions to problems that have come, or may come, before the courts.

Civil litigation services are provided by departmental litigation counsel and, in appropriate cases, by private sector lawyers appointed as agents of the Attorney General of Canada and working under the instruction of departmental litigation counsel.

Constitutional and Administrative Law Section

The principal function of this section is to provide legal advice and litigation support to the Government of Canada on all matters of constitutional, administrative law and Crown law, including the interpretation of statutes and regulations. The Section has developed particular expertise in issues related to Crown liability, Crown agencies, cost recovery under the Financial Administration Act, the machinery of government, commissions of inquiry, Parliamentary law and privileges, and the National Defence Act.

Another important aspect of the work of the Section is legal education, including educational activities and seminars conducted in conjunction with the Canadian Centre for Management Development.

Crimes against Humanity and War Crimes Section

The War Crimes Section is mandated to receive allegations and to investigate, assess and litigate cases against individuals suspected of involvement in war crimes, crimes against humanity and other reprehensible acts committed during time of conflict. In carrying out its mandate, the War Crimes Section works in close cooperation with Citizenship and Immigration Canada, the RCMP, and other government departments. Since 1995, all cases that have been brought forward for litigation have been based upon allegations that the subject concealed material information concerning his war time activities to gain entry to Canada and, in many cases, to obtain citizenship.

Criminal Conviction Review Group

The Criminal Conviction Review Group assists the Minister of Justice in the assessment of applications for the mercy of the Crown under section 690 of the Criminal Code. These applications originate from persons who allege that they were wrongly convicted of indictable offenses. It reviews allegations, investigates new information made available or supervises the work of outside counsel retained for that purpose, and provides advice to the Minister of Justice in the discharge of the statutory duty. Section 690 of the Criminal Code confers a discretionary power on the Minister of Justice to provide a remedy in the form of a new trial or appeal hearing.

Criminal Law Policy Section

The Section identifies and analyzes emerging criminal justice issues, and develops and implements government policies dealing with criminal justice. It monitors the development of the criminal law, advises the Minister and senior officials and proposes amendments to the Criminal Code, the Canada Evidence Act and other statutes whose basis is the criminal law power given to Parliament by the Constitution. The Section consults on an ongoing basis with provincial and territorial officials responsible for criminal justice, other federal departments, and non-government associations involved in criminal justice issues, and, as needed, with international organizations for the purposes of identifying emerging issues, sharing information and coordinating activities in areas of mutual interest.

The Section serves as a focal point in the provision of legal advice to other government departments in the area of substantive procedural criminal law. The Section plays a role in litigation support for all cases involving significant criminal law issues. It plays a lead role in the treatment of international criminal law issues. The Section directs its efforts as policy advisor in a number of international fora focussing on international criminal law matters.

♦ Criminal Law Section

This section consists of the Criminal Prosecutions Group for Ottawa/Hull, the International Assistance Group, as well as a group of criminal law lawyers (including the Supreme Court of Canada Criminal Appeals Coordinator and Environmental Prosecutions Coordinator).

The Section assists in the exercise of functional responsibility for criminal litigation in the Department, coordinates with the Litigation Committee any criminal cases before the Supreme Court of Canada in which the Queen in Right of Canada is a party or intervenor, and advises on criminal law and federal enforcement policy and programs.

The Ottawa/Hull Prosecutions Office handles all federal criminal proceedings at the trial level in the National Capital Region. It also supervises federal prosecutorial activities undertaken by private sector lawyers as agents in Northern and Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec.

The International Assistance Group handles extradition and rendition requests, develops extradition policy and negotiates extradition and mutual assistance treaties. It discharges the Minister's duties under the Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters Act, the Extradition Act, the Fugitive Offenders Act and related treaties.

The Criminal Law Section assists the work of the Northern Flying Squad in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon. The squad members, experienced prosecutors from regional offices and Headquarters, supplement the work of Crown counsel in the northern offices.

Diversity, Equality and Access to Justice Division

The Diversity, Equality and Access to Justice Division assists all sectors of the Department of Justice in building a more equitable and accessible justice system which aims to provide substantive equality to all Canadians. The Division identifies, responds to, and analyzes the impact of policy proposals on groups who have frequently experienced disadvantage in their dealings with the justice system. The work includes responding to requests for diversity analysis; working with the Department's regional offices to flag equality issues in both litigation and policy; developing community outreach initiatives and feeding the outcome into the departmental policy process; co-chairing the work of the Federal/Provincial/Territorial Working Group on Diversity, Equality and Justice and putting in place mechanisms to ensure that items brought forward for decision by Deputy Ministers of Justice have been screened for diversity implications.

Evaluation Division

The Evaluation Division develops, in conjunction with program managers, evaluation frameworks for the management of new programs, policies and legislation. It conducts all program evaluations required for departmental policies, legislation, other policy instruments and operational programs including interdepartmental initiatives in which the Department of Justice participates.

Grants and Contributions Fund

The Programs Branch administers a discretionary grants and contributions program designed to promote and implement selected reforms in the justice system. Projects can offer innovative programs, services, training or public legal education, or assist in research on possible reforms to the justice system.

♦ Human Rights Law Section

The Human Rights Law Section provides legal advisory services and litigation support to the Government of Canada on matters relating to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, the Canadian Human Rights Act and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Included within the Section is the Official Languages Law Group which provides legal advice on language rights issues arising out of the Constitution Act 1867, the Charter, the Official Languages Act and the language rights provisions of the Criminal Code. The Group also supports litigators at all levels of courts and develops and coordinates the position of the Government in language rights cases.

The Section also provides services in the area of international human rights law – advising and assisting in negotiating and developing Canada's position on international human rights instruments, negotiating provincial and territorial support for new human rights instruments, and developing and drafting Canada's position on complaints to the various United Nations and Organization of American States complaint bodies.

Legal education in all the above areas is an important aspect of the Section's work. It organizes conferences, seminars, prepares case briefs on Supreme Court of Canada Charter decisions and participates actively in the educational programs of the Canadian Centre for Management Development.

♦ Information Law and Privacy Section

The Information Law and Privacy Section's primary role is to provide legal interpretation and advice to the Government of Canada relating to the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) Acts. The Section also provides litigation support on ATIP issues and legal advisory services on policy development in the area. The Section has a continuing legal education role in conducting annual seminars for Justice lawyers, providing legal updates to the ATIP community, training at the Canadian Centre for Management Development and as requested by other departments. It works closely with the Treasury Board Secretariat in supporting their policy responsibilities under the ATIP legislation. The Section also participates in and supports a variety of special projects that relate to information law and privacy within the government.

♦ Integrated Anti Drug Profiteering (IADP) Units

Integrated Anti Drug Profiteering Units are staffed by Justice counsel, police investigators, forensic accountants and administrative support employees. Operating under Memoranda of Understanding, IADP counsel report directly to the Prosecutions Group Head in the Regional Office. IADP Units are located in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, and housed at RCMP Headquarters in each of these cities.

Investigators and prosecutors in these units are working as members of Atask forces@ on proceeds of crime and money laundering investigations. In addition to providing an on-call advisory service to the police and other members of the units on a wide variety of issues related to the conduct of their investigations, IADP counsel also supervise the initial drafting of court applications for special search warrants and restraining orders and draft any submissions needed to obtain the approval of the Attorney General for the giving of undertakings.

Intergovernmental and External Relations Division

The Intergovernmental and External Relations Division manages key relationships with the Department's policy partners in the federal government, the provinces and territories, and national non-government organizations (NGOs). It also manages the Department's consultative function to ensure timely and inclusive public involvement in justice policy development, and fosters consultation with other levels of government and NGOs.

♦ International Law and Activities Section

The International Law and Activities Section provides leadership and coordination in international law matters and ensures the consistency of the Department's legal advice on international law. It is responsible for international litigation and for the establishment of special litigation teams, legal education in the area of international law and advising the Department and Minister on the filing of briefs before foreign courts.

The Section works with the Canadian International Development Agency and the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade to provide legal technical assistance abroad and to promote the Department's legal technical assistance capabilities and experience.

Legal Aid Program

Through funding agreements with provincial and territorial governments, the Legal Aid Program ensures a minimum standard of legal aid services in criminal matters to the economically disadvantaged when necessary to ensure a fair trial. In general, all indictable offenses and those summary conviction offenses where there is a likelihood of imprisonment, including proceedings under the Young Offenders Act, are covered.

Legal Services Unit of Indian Affairs and Northern Development

The DIAND Legal Services Unit is co-located in DIAND Headquarters in the National Capital Region, in the Federal Treaty Negotiation Office in Vancouver and in the Quebec Regional Office. The Legal Services Unit is divided into several sections: Comprehensive Claims and Northern Affairs; Self-Government/Policy and Strategic Direction; Lands, Trust and Corporate Services; Specific Claims (East and West); Federal Treaty Negotiation Section; and Litigation Services.

The Legal Services Unit provide legal advice and support to DIAND and to Department of Justice litigators in relation to DIAND initiatives, policies and programs.

Legal Services, Foreign Affairs and International Trade (JLT)

This joint Department of Justice and Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade unit provides legal advice and services to the Government of Canada on the international and domestic implications of Canada's trade and investment obligations. In particular, the unit is responsible for advising on the rights and obligations arising out of the various trade agreements to which Canada is a party, such as NAFTA, the Agreement Establishing the WTO and the Canada-USA Softwood Lumber Agreement. The unit represents the Government before dispute settlement panels established under the NAFTA, the WTO, the Softwood Lumber Agreement and other trade and investment agreements. It also assists in the negotiation, preparation, elaboration, drafting and implementation of new trade agreements.

Legal Studies for Aboriginal People

Through the Legal Studies for Aboriginal People Program, the Department of Justice awards a limited number of bursaries each year to assist Aboriginal people who wish to enter the legal profession.

National Security Group

This group is responsible for advising the Assistant Deputy Attorney General (Criminal Law) on national security and intelligence matters.

Native Courtworkers

This program provides financial support to help Aboriginal persons in conflict with the law understand the criminal justice system and obtain access to required services. Objectives include meeting the counseling (other than legal) and referral needs of both adult and young Aboriginal persons accused of a criminal offence, and reducing communications barriers between Aboriginal people and those involved in the administration of the criminal justice system.

♦ Native Law Section

This Section coordinates Aboriginal law matters in the Department in order to ensure consistency of legal advice, early identification and consideration of emerging Aboriginal law issues and the presentation of a uniform view on Aboriginal law issues to other departments and agencies.

Northern Issues

Through consolidated Access to Justice Agreements, flexibility is being built into the delivery of legal aid, public legal education and native courtworker services to ensure that these services respond to the needs of Canada's northern residents. Other priorities include contributing to the development and implementation of justice-related policies and programs for Nunavut.

Priorities and Planning Division

The Priorities and Planning Division oversees the Department's strategic planning process, develops broad policy frameworks to support immediate and longer-term policy objectives and supports the Department's capacity for horizontal policy management by coordinating and integrating the inter-relationship of the policy-making process across the Department, with central agencies and other federal departments. It provides coordination to a range of committees and other policy forums. The Group also ensures effective and cooperative liaison between the federal Government and the new Law Commission of Canada.

Public Legal Education & Information (PLEI)

This program provides legal education and information to help citizens become legally literate and able to participate more fully in the justice system (generally aimed at those who are at a disadvantage in the justice system). A variety of tools are used and may include brochures, videos, workshop modules and learning aids. Areas where PLEI has provided accessible and pertinent information include: family violence, crime prevention, and child support guidelines.

Research and Statistics Division

The Research and Statistics Division conducts social science research in support of all departmental policy development activities and departmental programs, including statistical advice, information and services and public opinion research. It also acts as the liaison between the Department and the National Justice Statistics Initiative, a federal/provincial/territorial committee of Deputy Ministers responsible for justice system issues in Canada. Socio-legal research is also conducted in support of special projects such as the Child Support Initiative and the Firearms Initiative.

Revenue Canada Legal Services Unit

The Legal Services Unit provides legal services and advice, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, to Revenue Canada officials in matters relating to the Income Tax Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Excise Act, the Customs Act and Customs Tariff, and related legislation. In addition, the Unit coordinates, with other components of the Tax Law Services Portfolio, the provisions of an integrated service to Revenue Canada in the areas of tax avoidance, collections, customs and border services, GST and international trade.

Sentencing Reform Team

The Sentencing Reform Team identifies and monitors issues related to the administration of Canada's laws on sentencing and oversees the development of policies and legislation to address them, in consultation with other departments and agencies, other governments, voluntary organizations and with criminal justice professionals. Responsible for major sentencing reform (Chapter 22 of the Statutes of Canada, 1995), the Sentencing Team is promoting the implementation of the legislation , monitoring its impact on justice administration and practices, and providing advice to the Minister and to Senior officials on policy revisions and legislative amendments. The Sentencing Reform Team is also responsible for policy development in the area of Restorative Justice and for helping develop innovative alternatives to incarceration for low risk offenders.

♦ Strategic Prosecution Policy Section

This office (formerly called the Office of National Strategy for Drug Prosecutions) has the primary responsibility for providing assistance and direction on all drug and proceeds of crime investigations, wiretap issues and prosecutions as well as management of the law with respect to these areas and other related matters, including disclosure issues. Its main task is to support Regional Office counsel in the development of a strategic approach to the drug and proceeds of crime prosecution work of the Department. It develops prosecution policy, liaises with government agencies about drug and proceeds of crime prosecutions and provides input on policy issues concerning the development of legislation on substantive criminal law and procedure.

♦ Tax Litigation Sections

These sections, located in Headquarters and the major regional offices, are responsible, on behalf of the Minister of Revenue Canada, for all civil appeals concerning tax and customs legislation as well as certain appeals under the Canada Pension Plan, the Employment Insurance Act and the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act. They are responsible for the conduct of litigation on behalf of Revenue Canada in all areas and regions of the country as well as representing Revenue Canada in the Provincial Civil Courts in priority disputes, bankruptcy matters or litigation relating to collections enforcement action. In conjunction with the Legal Services Unit, these Sections also provide advice at the pre-litigation stage.

♦ Young Offenders

Under this cost-shared program, federal funding is provided for juvenile justice services.

Youth Justice Team

The Team will develop legislation and an implementation plan to support the government's Strategy for the Renewal of Youth Justice, launched in May 1998, which sets out a blueprint for a comprehensive and multisectoral approach to combatting youth crime. This approach promotes partnerships and coordination with other service-delivery systems for children youth, other departments, governments, agencies and interested Canadians. The group monitors the development of the law, provides advice to the Minister and senior officials and proposes changes, where necessary.

Program Records

LINKING STATEMENT

The Department of Justice files are maintained based on the subject content of the record or case name and/or details of the case using a central file classification system. Each Regional Office, Legal Services Unit and Headquarters Section classifies records according to the subject matter or case name. Generally the records can be categorized into four main groups: Administrative, Legal Operational, Legal Policy and Program Development. As a rule information is retrieved by name, subject, statute or term. Requesters need only describe the record they wish to access. If the request pertains to a specific case, the location indicating where the case took place is also required.

Classes of Personal Information

Mailing List
This class of personal information contains the names and addresses of individuals who are on mailing lists to receive publications and other publicly available materials relating to departmental activities. The lists are used by all sectors of the Department and are updated on a continuing basis. The correspondence and request cards from individuals used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists are retained until the mailing lists have been amended.

Management Effectiveness Survey (Upward Feedback)
This class of information contains employees' attitudes regarding management effectiveness with regards to work supervision, communications, training and development. The results of questionnaires serve as a catalyst to improve management practices within work units. Information from the questionnaires without respondent identifier is retrievable by location (client department) except for units having five employees or less, in which case the information is available by groups of three units without respondent identifier.

Subject Files and Routine Correspondence
Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks described above. This personal information is stored within subject files described as part of department's Information Holdings where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of enquiries concerning particular justice matters, as well as requests for publications and reports. The information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Environment Canada
Chapter 48

General Information

Background
The Department of the Environment was established by the Government Reorganization Act, 1970-71-72, ch. 42 on June 10, 1971. The Department, also known as Environment Canada, has as its primary duties renewable resources management and the protection of Canada's air, water and land resources. The departmental organization has three principal services: Environmental Protection which concentrates on response strategies and behavioral changes to prevent pollution of air, land and water ecosystems; Environmental Conservation which focuses on sustainable development of environmental resources; and Atmospheric Environment which focuses on integrated monitoring, atmospheric sciences, and services to Canadians.

The information holdings of the department are largely integrated and are often the product of more than one region or service. For example, Environmental Protection Service will benefit from science done in Environmental Conservation Service and Atmospheric Environment Service.

Responsibilities
The primary objective of the Department of the Environment is to preserve and enhance the quality of the environment for the benefit of present and future generations of Canadians. Departmental programs are designed to promote the establishment or adoption of objectives and standards relating either to environmental quality or pollution control, to ensure the wise management and use of renewable resources and to provide Canadians with environmental information in the public interest. As well, the department ensures that new federal projects, programs and activities are assessed early in the planning process for potentially adverse effects on the environment.

Organization

Atmospheric Environment Service

The Atmospheric Environment Service (AES) delivers, with the regions, the Atmospheric Environment Program (AEP). The AEP's main activities include services related to monitoring and forecasting air quality, weather, climate and ice conditions, and to monitoring of water quantity and quality. The AEP also carries out research in the atmospheric sciences to improve our understanding of the atmosphere and to help Canadians understand how they affect the environment.

While the regions are responsible for observation and most service production and delivery, the AES is responsible for the AEP's overall direction and standards, for some specialized services like ice services, for support services – for example, super-computing, forecast guidance, and climatological and hydrological data archiving – and for most atmospheric research. The AES is also responsible for international affairs, including relations with the World Meteorological Organization, program plans and performance measurement. It contributes, through its science and activities such as science assessment, to the development of the department's policies dealing with the atmospheric environment.

The Atmospheric Environment Service consists of four directorates that strive toward providing Canadians – as citizens, clients or decision makers – with enough information to enable them to make wise decisions about their health, their safety and the environment.

♦ Canadian Meteorological Centre (CMC)

The Centre is responsible for the national telecommunications and data management systems and for the national meteorological and environmental predictions. CMC also co-ordinates national and international support to environmental emergencies. The Centre gathers, archives, analyses and disseminates data related to climate, stratospheric ozone, ultraviolet radiation, air quality and water quantity and quality. The Canadian Meteorological Centre plays a primary role in technology transfer to regions. Some of the clients for this specialized information include Transport Canada, National Defense, other government departments and agencies, several airlines, the media and many private companies.

♦ Climate and Atmospheric Research Directorate (CARD)

As AES' main scientific research component, CARD's overall objective is to advance scientific knowledge and understanding of the atmosphere as an integral and integrating component of Canadian and global ecosystems in support of policy and services. Scientific research is carried out at a number of locations in Canada in order to: support weather and ice services; study the earth's climate system; improve understanding of the transport, dispersion, chemical transformations and deposition of pollutants in the atmosphere; and develop awareness of and possible adaptive responses to the relationship of weather, climate and air quality to social and economic activities.

Science Subvention Program – The AES Science Subvention Program provides research grants to eligible staff at Canadian universities. Within the domain of the atmospheric and related sciences, the Program's objectives are to ensure the existence of (a) an adequate supply of university graduates trained in areas of strategic importance, (b) a broad knowledge base to support the climate and atmospheric environment science and technology needs, and (c) academic centres of excellence for priority areas. Decision criteria for approval of submissions include scientific excellence and relevance to the Atmospheric Environment Program objectives.

♦ National Weather Services Directorate (NWSD)

The National Weather Services Directorate (NWSD) is responsible for the coordination, national implementation, and ongoing development and support of monitoring and service delivery components of the Atmospheric Environment Program. The NWSD is involved in data acquisition, communications, forecast production and delivery for national clients, and provision of weather, climate, water, ice and commercial services. The NWSD assesses and ensures the coherence, integrity and on-going viability of the national programs by analyzing and planning systems and networks, and by developing standards, guidelines and procedures. Clients of NWSD services include departmental, interdepartmental and international agencies such as NAV CANADA, the Department of National Defense, Canadian Coast Guard and the North American International Ice Patrol. The NWSD guides capital investment essential to the delivery of programs of the AEP, and is developing systems for performance measurement and reporting and an environmental decision support system essential to environmental prediction.

♦ Policy, Program and International Affairs Directorate (PPID)

The Policy, Program and International Affairs Directorate (PPID) provides a wide range of services supporting the Atmospheric Environment Service (AES) and the Atmospheric Environment Program (AEP) of Environment Canada in areas of corporate accountability, services to management, policy development and advice, international affairs, science assessment, science-policy integration, and business planning and development.

Corporate Secretariat

Briefing, Cabinet & Parliamentary Affairs.

Corporate Services

Administration, Corporate Management & Review, Finance and Systems & Informatics.

♦ Administration

Information Management (Access to Information and Privacy, Information Holdings, Library, and Records and Mail); Materiel and Contracting; Accommodation and Security; Greening Operations; and Planning and Coordination.

♦ Corporate Management and Review

Operational Planning and Program Integration, Corporate Accounting and Review, Audit and Evaluation.

♦ Finance

Financial Planning and Resource Analysis; Financial Policy, Systems and Accounting; Service Financial Advisors.

♦ Systems and Informatics

IT Business Strategies, Business Systems Support and IT Operations.

Environmental Conservation Service

The goal of the Environmental Conservation Service (ECS) is to ensure that future generations of Canadians inherit a natural environment as rich as the one we enjoy today. Working with many partners – individual Canadians, other federal departments, environmental and community groups, Aboriginal peoples, industry, other levels of government, and international organizations. ECS focusses on three main things: wildlife conservation; science for decision-making; and ecosystem conservation. ECS consists of three directorates: Canadian Wildlife Service, Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate and Ecosystems Science Directorate.

♦ Canadian Wildlife Service

The Canadian Wildlife Service manages domestic and international wildlife and biodiversity matters that are the responsibility of the federal government, such as management of migratory birds, endangered species, and conserving nationally significant habitat.

♦ Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate

The Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate provides strategic planning, information tools to support ecosystem and nature conservation, and provides leadership on nature conservation priorities including the Arctic and freshwater.

♦ Ecosystems Science Directorate

The Ecosystem Science Directorate promotes environmentally responsible decision-making by providing knowledge of ecosystem functions and processes, evaluating ecosystem health, developing guidelines, standards and indicators of environmental quality and communicating this information to Canadians. ESD also provides secretariat services to the departmental Science and Technology Management Committees.

Environmental Protection Service

The focus of the EPS mandate is on the assessment and management of risk associated with national and international environmental matters. The range of activity includes issue identification and management, strategy and policy development, development and implementation of environmental protection options through research and technology advancement, and ensuring compliance. These activities lead to improvements in environmental quality and help support a healthy and prosperous Canadian environmental industry.

A large part of the EPS mandate involves carrying out environmental protection obligations under the Canadian Environmental Protection Act and the Fisheries Act. EPS activity includes assuring compliance with a broad range of regulations and complementary instruments (an environmental management "toolbox") dealing with industrial discharges, product and use bans for toxics, toxic substances management, permitting for ocean discharges and for international transport of hazardous materials, etc.

EPS consists of four directorates: Air Pollution Prevention Directorate, Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate, National Programs Directorate and Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate.

♦ Air Pollution Prevention Directorate

The Air Pollution Prevention Directorate manages and coordinates pollution prevention activities for global air issues (climate change and ozone depletion), transboundary air issues (smog, acid rain, particulates, and hazardous air pollutants), pollution data (NPRI, greenhouse gases and conventional pollutants), transportation systems and related industries, and oil, gas and energy industries.

♦ Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate

The Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate promotes the environmental industry in Canada, fosters technology transfer at home and abroad, provides technical support, sampling and analytical expertise for development and enforcement of regulations and standards.

♦ National Programs Directorate

The National Programs Directorate manages environmental assessment, promotes compliance and strengthens enforcement, and coordinates the national program on emergency operations, prevention and preparedness.

♦ Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate

The Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate determines the issues and risks associated with toxics, takes action on persistent bioaccumulative toxics, and takes action on other toxics and substances of concern.

Human Resources Directorate

♦ Classification and Staff Relations

Classification; Policies, Procedures and Guidelines.

♦ Human Resources Management and Development

Human Resource Planning, Staffing and Work Force Adjustment, Continuous Learning, Official Languages.

♦ Personnel Services (NCR)

Service to all NCR Clients, Management of the Executive Group.

National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy

The National Roundtable was created in 1988 in response to the report of the World Commission on Environment and Development (Bruntland Commission) and the recommendations of the National Task Force on the Environment and the Economy. In 1984, the Prime Minister proclaimed the National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy Act, which established the organization as a departmental corporation, reporting directly to the Prime Minister and mandated by the Parliament of Canada. In addition to its advisory role to the Prime Minister on issues relating to environment and the economy, the National Round Table plays a special catalytic role in Canada and abroad by attempting to reach a consensus among competing economic and environmental interests concerning sustainable development. The National Round Table recently convened the National Forum on Climate Change, a citizens panel of 25 Order of Canada recipients. The Forum articulated a declaration that will assist Canadians by providing an objective and unbiased statement of the climate change challenge. The declaration can be found on the National Round Table's website at http://www.nrtee-trnee.ca.

Policy & Communications

Policy and Communications helps define, promote and support Ministerial and departmental priorities, policy directions and helps ensure that the department presents these priorities in a consistent, coherent and coordinated manner within the federal government as well as nationally and internationally. It does this through a combination of communications and consultations, by coordinating and guiding environmental policy within the department and across government, and by representing departmental interests at national and international levels. Policy and Communications also coordinates specific programs which support and encourage environmentally friendly actions, and which promote the department's and the private sector's environmental expertise in the global market. Policy and Communications consists of four directorates: Communications and Outreach Programs and Services Directorate, Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate, International Relations Directorate and Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate.

♦ Communications and Outreach Programs and Services Directorate

The Communications and Outreach Programs and Services Directorate focuses on providing strategic communications advice and support to the Minister and senior management. It develops a wide range of communications materials for internal and external users including the media. In addition, it is responsible for coordinating and marketing Action 21 – a program to support action towards sustainability by communities and individuals – and leading departmental initiatives to engage youth.

♦ Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate (ERA)

The Economic and Regulatory Affairs Directorate provides policy, economic analysis and regulatory advice and support for environmental issues, strategic policy development and implementation. ERA fosters policy innovation in the area of economy-environment integration (trade, budget, economic instruments); contributes to policy priorities (e.g., climate change, international agenda); promotes sound regulatory development (regulatory impact assessments, regulatory reform); develops and applies economic analytical tools in support of policy development (e.g., cost and benefit models, valuation).

♦ International Relations Directorate

The International Relations Directorate provides strategic and policy advice and support for international environmental issues including climate change and works to ensure coherence and consistency in departmental and federal positions.

♦ Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate

The Strategic Directions and Policy Coordination Directorate assists the Minister and the department in defining policy objectives and priorities and identifies opportunities to advance these interests within the federal government. It plays a strong role in federal, provincial and Aboriginal relations and in consultations with key stakeholders and organizations. It works to ensure coherence and consistency in departmental and federal policy, particularly in areas related to sustainable development.

Information Holdings

Program Records

AES Headquarters – Projects Research
Description: Information on computerized and man-machine mix system; module component development and design; research data set development; also implementation and joint projects with forecast operations. Topics: Systems design for automated weather forecasting procedures; creation of research data sets for weather forecasting research. Program Record Number: ENV AES 400

AES HQ – Projects
Description: Information on satellite activity reports; data collection platforms; SDL Staffing; SDL GOES; Meso-met Network; Wind Energy Field Studies investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 370

Canadian National Climate Archive
Description: The National Climatological Archive (NCA) contains data sufficient to define the general climate of Canada. Data are retained in three forms – paper, microform and digital. This archive contains the majority of the long-term atmospheric data collected in Canada. The Digital portion of the archive contains data from about 6000 stations from all provinces and territories of Canada. About half are currently active stations. Data covers the period from 1840 to present. Topics: Climatological data; data elements include temperature and precipitation, plus a number of other meteorological parameters such as winds, humidity, solar radiation, snow depth and soil temperature. Elements include monthly means daily climate parameters, and hourly elements. The archive also contains upper air information, ozone measurements, and air quality data. Access: On-line interactive access to National Climate database; also computer print-outs, copies of original paper documents, microfiche, digital diskette and CD-ROM through DOE regional climate services offices and DOE AES Headquarters – Climate Information Branch. Storage Medium: Computer database, microfiche, paper documents. Program Record Number: ENV AES 550

Communications – Computing Services
Description: Information on communications and communications-programming. Program Record Number: ENV AES 470

Communications – Facsimile
Description: Information on Satellite Data Laboratory Operations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 330

Contracts – Satellites
Description: Information on contracts for satellite systems; also contracts for satellite research and development – TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 335

Data Acquisition
Description: Information on land surface networks; upper air and aerological networks; Voluntary Observing Ship Program; remote sensing; environmental network. Topics: Station classification; site information; meteorological and aerological instruments; codes; data standards; data reduction; quality assurance; equipment supply; development and testing; lists of ships participating; satellite ground stations; APT, weather radar; signal processing; data transmissions; maintenance; plans and policies. Program Record Number: ENV AES 440

Hemispheric Observations
Description: Observed data, hemispheric surface synoptic reports. Storage Medium: Coded forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 450

Ice
Description: Information on regional ice models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 410

Ice Observing Programs – Reconnaissance
Description: Information on verification of satellite data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 340

Instruments
Description: Information on Aeromet Facility Instrumentation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 345

Marine Meteorology
Description: Information on TOVS. Program Record Number: ENV AES 355

Meso-meteorology
Description: Information on the Meso-met Network. Topics: Operation; data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 360

Meteorological Research
Description: Major areas of activity include numerical modelling of the atmosphere for the purpose of developing new weather forecast techniques and improving existing ones (from short to extended range); data assimilation and satellite meteorology with a focus on the development of techniques for both quantitative application of operational satellite data to weather forecasting and making use of new satellite data; and atmospheric processes research studies of the interactions of airborne pollutants with clouds and precipitation, and the utilization of Doppler radar to recognize severe weather and its precursors. Program Record Number: ENV AES 460

Meteorology Aviation
Description: Information on the Rockcliffe STOL Project. Program Record Number: ENV AES 350

Meteorology Training
Description: Information on professional training, development, technical training in meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 475

Oil and Gas Exploration and Development
Description: Information on oil spill trajectories, freezing spray, ice and sea state models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 415

Radar
Description: Information on the MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 375

Research – Air Quality
Description: Information on air quality, pollutant transport, dispersion, chemical transformations, and deposition, monitoring and the development of measurement techniques, modelling, and field and laboratory experimental studies. Topics: Acid rain, toxic chemicals, photochemical smog, stratospheric ozone, and greenhouse gases. Program Record Number: ENV AES 315

Research – Climate
Description: Information on climate, circulation modelling (numerical modelling of the general circulation of the atmosphere, ocean, land surface, and cryosphere) with special interest on modelling ocean circulation, the middle atmosphere, and regional-scale systems; climate processes research conducted into the study of the energy and water cycle, surface processes, precipitation-runoff relationships, and climate-cryosphere interactions; and climate variability and change, and extreme and anomalous events. Program Record Number: ENV AES 455

Research – Environmental Adaptation
Description: Information on research to improve understanding of socio-economic and ecosystem impacts of atmospheric change and to generate knowledge that will help to improve decision-making and facilitate adaptive response; integrated climate impact assessment at regional (Mackenzie Basin, Great Lakes) and national (Canada Country Study) scales is an important focus. Program Record Number: ENV AES 325

Research Management and Policy
Description: Information on meteorological, environmental adaptation and other related environmental and technological research and development; research and related support activities of a general management nature – decisions and large-scale agreements; special problems of the Arctic; training for research and grants for research outside the federal government which support the objectives and policies for climate and atmospheric research in Canada; mechanisms for better transfer of technology to and from government research laboratories; contracting-out of federal research and development; relationship with the Canadian Space Program. Topics: Agreements; treaties; studies; committees; plans and programs; fellowships; training and development; grants; unsolicited proposals; contracting; technology transfer. Program Record Number: ENV AES 310

Satellites
Description: Information on satellite programs. Topics: Cost recovery; staffing the SKL; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Programs; SDL Operations; NOSS; SURSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 380

Telecommunications
Description: Operational, alpha-numeric and facsimile information distributed by dedicated or dial-up communication lines. Topics: Facsimile contracts; installations; procedures; traffic; teletype contracts – installations, procedures, traffic; computer aspects. Program Record Number: ENV AES 425

Water Quality Management Data
Description: Information and interpretive reports on the quality of surface and ground waters based on analysis of samples; information on field surveys and analytical methods, and on quality control; water quality guidelines for protection of uses, and water quality objectives for specific surface waters. It does not include water quality objective work done under specific international or federal-provincial basin studies, nor research related to water quality management. Topics: Water pollution, water quality surveys, analytical methods, quality of surface waters, rain water and snow water quality, water quality guidelines, water quality monitoring programs. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and title in the national and regional ENVIRODAT databases. Storage Medium: On-line in the national and regional ENVIRODAT database. Program Record Number: ENV AES 185

Weather Forecast
Description: Digital information about global observational data sets (1992-present), digital gridpoint

information about global analyses (1983-present) and forecasts (selected fields for last 5 years), and about regional analyses and forecasts (selected fields for last 5 years), of heights, temperature and moisture on mandatory pressure levels (currently 16 levels from 1000-10 hPa) as well as several surface based fields. The information is kept online in real time and then a subset is stored on digital tape. There are digital archives of weather maps and bulletins issued as well as historical records of verification statistics. There are microfilms of weather maps (1957-March, 1994) of hemispheric analyses of the surface, 850, 700, and 500 hPa levels. Storage Medium: Microfilm, digital tapes. Program Record Number: ENV AES 445

Weather Service
Description: Information on RAINSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 385

Weather Service – Air Transportation
Description: Information on MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 390

Water Quantity Management Data
Description: Information on data collection, hydrometric and water levels, and sediment, as well as the management and operation of data systems and interpretive reports. These data include data collection under specific international or federal-provincial water management or planning studies and data collection carried out as an integral part of other studies. Topics: Gauging stations, international gauging stations, gauging stations inventory, hydrometric investigations, hydrologic interpretive and analytical reports, sediment links to water quality, sediment surveys, remote sensing, watershed research, tidal gauge records, tidal surveys. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, river and site location with interactive online access to the national databases HYDAT AND HYDEX. Storage Medium: Computer print-outs, microfiche, CD-ROM, online database. Program Record Number: ENV AES 200

Weather Services
Description: Information on policies, standards, procedures and guidance concerning the provision of weather services. Topics: General weather services; public weather services; air, marine and road transportation; agriculture; forestry; climatology; preflight weather information service; radio and television broadcasting; scientific support units; weather service outlets. Program Record Number: ENV AES 435

♦ National Weather Services Directorate (NWSD)

Data Acquisition Networks
Description: Information on atmospheric environment operations, overall policy, operational performance, procedures and standards. Program Record Number: ENV AES 480

Forecast Procedures
Description: Information on meteorological models, procedures and techniques in support of forecast production. Topics: Maps, charts and forms; satellite operations; plans and programs. Program Record Number: ENV AES 430

Ice Information, Consultation and Advice
Description: Information on ice forecasting and services, ice research, climatology and Observing Program (reconnaissance). Program Record Number: ENV AES 465

Instruments and Instrument Systems
Description: Information on instruments; general, humidity, evaporation, precipitation, marine, physical phenomena, pressure, radiation, atmospheric sounding wind. Program Record Number: ENV AES 485

♦ Canadian Wildlife Service

Aboriginal People
Description: Information and correspondence on native harvest surveys comprehensive land claims and self-government issues. Topics: Hunting and fishing rights, treaties, acts and regulations, Council of Yukon Indians, Inuit, Naskapi, Western Arctic Inuit – COPE, Nunavut, Gwich'in and Sahtu Dene/Metis, Labrador Inuit, Innu Nation of Labrador, Makivik Offshore, Nisga'a Treaty (B.C.). Access: Files are arranged by name of individual. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 115

Biodiversity
Description: Information on biodiversity conservation and the sustainable use of biological resources. Topics: Wide range of biodiversity related issues including Agenda 21, agriculture, biotechnology, business and economy, ecosystems, education, extinction, fisheries, forestry, wildlife and endangered species, genetic resources, parks and protected areas, population and consumption, and sustainable development. Also, includes national and international biodiversity strategies. Access: Files are arranged by subject and listed by author or subject. Available at the Biodiversity Convention Office (BCO). Program Record Number: ENV ECS 125

Canada-United States and Interjurisdictional Waters
Description: Information on activities carried out under specific Canada-United States agreements or arrangements such as investigative, control, or surveillance board activities for the International Joint Commission (IJC) or in other bilateral Canada-United States situations; studies and implementation programs under formal federal-provincial arrangements; and Canada-United States activities on shared river basins. Data collection and research carried out as a part of any of these formal arrangements are included as well as specific federal-provincial agreements required to carry out Canada's obligations in boundary waters (the Canada-Ontario Agreement on Great Lakes Water Quality) and interprovincial arrangements (Prairie Provinces Water Board). Information is also available on water use for selected years and geographic areas. Topics: Great Lakes connecting channels, Great Lakes programs and studies, International and Interprovincial Waters, Prairie Waters, Lake of the Woods, Ottawa River Regulation. Access: Files are arranged by subject and project title; many reports are referenced in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 175

Canadian Biodiversity Strategy

Description: Supporting documentation for Canadian Biodiversity Strategy and the Convention on Biological Diversity. Topics: Reports on ten expert focus groups convened to provide input into the CBS; a compilation of recommendations relevant to biodiversity already being undertaken by governments; an inventory of current government policies, programs and legislation relevant to biodiversity; and preparatory documentation for the drafting of the convention on Biological Diversity. Access: Available at the Biodiversity Convention Office. Storage Medium: Inventory information is available on computer database. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 130

Ecological Applications Research

Description: Information on production of nationally consistent spatial data on the ecological characteristics and resource potentials of land, dissemination of scientific knowledge, methods and techniques used for surveying and classifying land, including wetlands, by ecological characteristics, for assessing resource potentials, impacts and hazards and for increasing knowledge of land and land/water process linkages of concern in environmental management; assessment of potential climate change of the vegetative and land base of Canada and consequent implications for resource management. Topics: General correspondence; public awareness; inter-regional projects; wetlands and acid rain sensitivity; climate change; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 160

Federal Policy on Wetland Conservation

Description: Information on the roles and responsibilities of federal agencies, commitments of federal government and strategies to promote wetland conservation nationally and internationally; the development and assessment of federal projects affecting wetlands; analysis and advice to provincial and territorial jurisdictions with regard to wetland policy development; implementation of national and international wetland programs with partner agencies; interaction with North American Waterfowl Management Plan; provision of advice to the public, Parliament and Minister on the Policy and other initiatives affecting wetland conservation; development of selection criteria for Ramsar sites; publications and public and scientific events on wetland and habitat conservation. Topics: Biodiversity conservation, Ministerial enquiries; Ramsar Convention on Wetlands of International Importance; policy advice to federal agencies. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 500

Habitat Conservation

Description: Information on habitat strategies, plans and data banks; research on habitat impacts from exotic species and land use changes; resource strategies and methodologies to monitor habitat changes/impacts; provision of land management services and advice to federal departments and agencies responsible for administering federal lands located in the provinces or specially dedicated lands located in the territories. National co-ordination of Ramsar Convention and delivery of Federal Policy on Wetland Conservation. Topics: Habitat planning and management; resource management data; federal land data; public awareness; policy research and coordination; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 165

Migratory Bird Surveys

Description: Information on the biometry of migratory birds. Topics: Migratory game birds hunting permits; waterfowl harvest; breeding bird surveys; data processing. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 105

National Wildlife Areas and Migratory Bird Sanctuaries

Description: Public information and correspondence at all levels, concerning policies and regulations that govern land use activities on these designated nationally significant wildlife habitat areas. Activities also include development of selection criteria for both terrestrial and marine areas, consultation and development of management plans, progress reporting and scientific research and data collection. Topics: Agreements; policy; regulations; rentals; leases. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 135

North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP)

Description: Information on the development, coordination and planning of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP). Topics: Joint ventures; implementation agreements (multilateral, internal); NAWMP committees; long-term and annual work plans; funding arrangements; communications and general correspondence. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 170

Ornithology

Description: Information on all aspects of migratory birds and their conservation. Topics: Migratory Birds Convention Act and Regulations; waterfowl hunting; North American Waterfowl Management Plan; bird banding programs; reports, studies and surveys; sanctuaries; migratory bird sanctuaries regulations; damage to crops by birds; Canadian Landbird Conservation Strategy; songbirds, seabirds, shorebirds; permits; research on species; use of birds; waterfowl kill statistics; waterfowl populations; breeding ground survey; breeding bird survey; brood production survey; waterfowl status reports. Correspondence with provinces, United States Fish and Wildlife Service; Mexico; and states on migratory birds and their conservation. Access: Files are arranged by name and geographic locations. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 120

Technology Development – Wastewater
Description: Information on development and demonstration of waste water pollution control technology; technology development assistance programs; technical training; technology transfer; program planning and evaluation. Topics: Program planning and evaluation; technology assistance program; waste water technology. Access: Files are arranged by company. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 265

Transboundary Wildlife
Description: Public information and correspondence on the proposal to explore for and develop potential oil and gas reserves in the sensitive coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in northeast Alaska. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 575

Wildlife Management
Description: Information on the federal participation and responsibilities in the management of wildlife. Topics: Endangered species conservation; endangered species legislative development; Committee on the Status of Wildlife in Canada; Recovery of Nationally Endangered Wildlife; Endangered Species Recovery Funds; transboundary wildlife; Porcupine Caribou Management Agreement; Convention on the International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES); Wild Animal and Plant Protection and Regulation of International and Interprovincial Trade Act (WAPPRIITA); Canada Wildlife Act; Conservation of Arctic Flora and Fauna; Humane Trapping; Federal-Provincial Agreements; Correspondence on wildlife conservation issues. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 150

Wildlife Toxicology
Description: Information and advice on the impacts of pesticides and pest control practices, environmental contaminants and other toxic substances on birds, other vertebrates wildlife (but not fish) and their habitats and foods (biodiversity). Topics: Predicting and evaluating wildlife effects of toxic substances for support of environmental conservation and protection policy and regulation development. Research to establish cause-effect relationships for toxic substances and wildlife, to identify toxic substances in the environment and their sources, to develop and apply assessment methodology including modelling and tests methods, and to select indicators of environmental quality and health of wildlife. Wildlife disease issues and federal contact point with the Canadian Cooperative Wildlife Health Centre. Biomonitoring of contaminant trends and effects in wildlife in Arctic, Great Lakes-St. Lawrence, Marine and other Canadian ecosystems. Laboratory services for measurement of selected contaminant residues, biomarkers and bioassays and quality assurance management. National Specimen Bank of more than 30,000 frozen specimens (mainly birds) dating from around 1970 and specimen preservation technology. National database of toxic chemicals residues in wildlife (primarily birds). Contaminants in waterfowl and wildfoods for human consumption. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 145

♦ Ecosystems and Environmental Resources Directorate

Ecosystem Initiatives
Description: Ecosystem Initiatives are partnership programs that have been put in place over the past ten years to address environmental, economic and social challenges in targeted geographic areas across Canada. They focus on issues involving air and water quality, resource use, human health and nature in an integrated manner responding to the unique problems of particular ecosystems and the unique needs of communities. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 210

Flood Damage Reduction
Description: Information on all activities under federal-provincial flood damage reduction agreements, including flood risk mapping, construction of physical flood control works, and flood forecasting; policy development, data collection (hydrometric and other data collection programs and research for many water management purposes) carried out as an integral part of these agreements, and guidelines or methodology development and information programs directly in support of the program. Topics: Floods, flood damage reduction, floodplain mapping, designations. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, annual reports and project title; a FDRP website is nearing completion. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 180

Sustainable Development
Description: Implementation of departmental sustainable development strategy; development of sectoral resource management policies (e.g., wetlands); analysis of links between environment, resources, and economic development; development of means to build environmental criteria into economic development policies and programs; analysis of success stories of sustainable development as models for further development. Responsibilities include provision of scientific and technical advice to other departments, governments and organizations, domestically and internationally, with respect to sustainable development. Topics: Sustainable development; wetlands policy; environment/economy integration; success stories of sustainable development; Canada's reports to the United Nations Commission on Sustainable Development. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 155

Water Management Research

Description: Information on water resource research, including the study of the impact of pollutants and nutrients on the environment, sediment composition, water quality and quantity modelling, groundwater quality and sub-surface disposal of wastes, pathways, fate and effects of pollutants, dispersion and energy transfer processes in lakes and rivers, urban runoff processes, ice dynamics, hydrological forecasting, groundwater movement, biological and chemical techniques for water quality analysis, snow and ice hydrology, glacier dynamics, sociological, geographical, legal, institutional and economic aspects of water management. Also included is research management and coordination and research contracts. Topics: Groundwater; groundwater quality; ice river breakup; new analytical techniques; improved methodologies for aquatic studies; predictive technique on models for toxic substances; pathways and fate of pollutants; hydraulic variables; droughts; floods; climatic changes; restoration of lakes and polluted waters. Access: Files are arranged by subject and location. Most information is readily available. Storage Medium: Microfiche, magnetic tapes, computer printouts, punchcards. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 205

Water Pollution Programs

Description: Information on federal/provincial programs; pollution control in coastal areas; International Joint Commission programs; data management; Arctic water programs coordination; program evaluation; interservice and interagency program coordination; program planning and development. Topics: Program coordination and evaluation; coastal zone; data management and analysis. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 270

♦ Ecosystems Science Directorate

Atmospheric Transported Contaminants

Description: Research to investigate ecosystem-scale aquatic effects resulting from regional stressors such as the long-range transport of acidifying and persistent organic pollutants; information assessing aquatic ecosystem contaminants and their distribution, determining and modeling the factors controlling ecosystem responses (including pollutant fate and cycling), detecting and predicting trends, evaluating (with others) the environmental health of aquatic ecosystems, and providing technical advice to environmental managers. Topics: Great Lakes, Acid Rain Hazardous Air Pollutants and Arctic programs of Environment Canada and Northern Contaminants Program of Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development (DIAND). Program Record Number: ENV ECS 680

Ecosystem Health Objectives and Indicators

Description: Information on integration of social, environmental and economic factors in developing objectives and indicators to enhance, protect and sustain the health of Canadian ecosystems. Topics: Ecosystem approach; a framework for developing ecosystem health goals, objectives and indicators: tools for Ecosystem-Based Management. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 495

Effects of Toxic Substances

Description: Information on techniques to screen and assess priority substances and effluents for their potential to cause effects on aquatic biota, chemicals responsible for physiological and reproductive impacts, information to measure and predict exposure to a wide variety of contaminants in support of various national and regional ecosystem programs, e.g., CEPA, TSMP, EEM and Great Lakes 2000; assessments of priority substances and their impacts on the survival, growth and reproduction of biota. Future emphasis will shift toward the development of techniques to screen chemicals, effluents and environmental samples for physiological and reproductive impairment in aquatic biota, including fish and higher organisms. The development of methods to isolate and identify chemicals responsible for biological impacts in the environment will lead to the remediation of contaminated products, effluents and sites. More accurate prediction of exposure and effects of contaminants will greatly enhance our ability to assess their environmental hazard. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 675

Environmental Effects Monitoring

Description: Information on potential adverse effects in aquatic environments from point source discharges. The information/scientific data generated is used to assess the adequacy of regulations and other pollution control approaches (e.g. for the Canadian pulp and paper industry), to aid in the development and assessment of environmental protection policies (e.g. for metal mining industry) and to provide benchmarks for Canadian industry in demonstrating their environmental stewardship. Topics: Environmental effects of industrial discharges (pulp and paper, mining, etc.); National EEM Database; Science-based decision-making; Expert working groups; Technical guidance document development; National coordination. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 640

Environmental Quality Guidelines

Description: Information on national science-based guidelines/standards for soil quality, water quality, sediment quality and tissue quality to protect and sustain terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems and their beneficial uses; scientific assessments of toxic substances; national protocols. Topics: Environmental effects of toxic substances; National environmental quality guidelines and protocol publications including Canadian Water Quality Guidelines for the protection of raw drinking water quality, recreational water quality, aquatic life, livestock water, and irrigation water; Sediment Quality Guidelines for the protection of aquatic life and wildlife; Tissue Quality Guidelines for the protection of aquatic life and wildlife; and soil quality guidelines for agricultural, residential/parkland, commercial and industrial land uses; guidance for setting site-specific environmental quality objectives; ecological risk assessment guidance. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 490

Groundwater Assessment and Remediation
Description: Research to assess and to develop techniques to remediate contaminated groundwater resources in Canada; information on the process of contaminant transport and transformation in a variety of groundwater environments; information on new techniques for isolating or remediating existing groundwater contamination; research on the role played by groundwater in regional water budgets and wetlands to support regional activities within Environment Canada such as the Great Lakes 2000 program, the Atlantic Coastal Action Program and the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA); research in the areas of groundwater/wetlands interactions and the contaminant hydrogeology of fractured media. New research will emphasize remediation of both nonaqueous and aqueous phase contamination in complex groundwater environments and the characterization of groundwater resources in relation to climate change. Emphasis will be placed on the development of user-friendly software packages for hydrogeological applications. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 685

Hydrological and Ecological Impacts of Atmospheric Change on Aquatic Ecosystems
Description: Research to develop a predictive understanding of how climate change influences the hydrologic and chemical cycles at regional and local scales, and, subsequently, how it affects the structure and function of aquatic ecosystems, particularly in northern environments; and to develop improved indicators, models and integrated assessment techniques for more accurate prediction of climate change impacts on the hydrology and ecology of aquatic ecosystems. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 660

Impact of Increased UV-B Radiation on Aquatic Ecosystems
Description: Information to assess and predict the impacts of atmospheric ozone depletion (enhanced ground level ultraviolet radiation fluxes) on aquatic ecosystems; the impacts of UV-B on algal photosynthesis, bacterial growth, dissolved organic matter and forest stream ecosystems. Particular emphasis is directed at wetlands and prairie lakes. Research into UV-B effects on the impact on wetlands; information on the national Atmospheric Change – Ozone Depletion/UV-B initiative; research to determine the relationships among the biogeochemical changes occurring within aquatic ecosystems, particularly wetlands; UV-B-related research with other government and university scientists. Increased focus will be directed towards wetlands, carbon cycle dynamics, and the quantification of direct-dose response of aquatic organisms to manipulated radiation fields. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 665

Indicators, Monitoring and Assessment
Description: Information on environmental indicators and for indicators of sustainable development, on standardizing the indicator data management procedures, and on streamlining and institutionalizing the indicator reporting process; coordinates the Ecological Monitoring and Assessment Network (EMAN) and provides protocols for ecological monitoring; maintains the national ecological framework and promote enhancements and applications; provides and maintains the electronic SOE infobase infrastructure; and provides guidance and expert advice on the SOE content of assessments. Storage Medium: Reports, maps, diskettes, electronic data base, Internet. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 700

Lake Assessment and Remediation
Description: Research to assess and remediate highly degraded aquatic ecosystems including large lakes, such as the Great Lakes, to smaller water bodies, including riverine lakes and reservoirs, to wetlands. The main focus is on the Areas of Concern (AOCs) in the Great Lakes and the development and implementation of Remedial Action Plans (RAPs) and on the development of Lakewide Management Plans (LAMPs) for the most degraded Great Lakes (Erie and Ontario), under the Great Lakes Action Plan. Research to provide knowledge and advice to the Great Lakes 2000 program on Lakewide Management Plans, and Remedial Action Plans. Increasing effort will be directed to efforts such as the PSL-2 (CEPA) national study on nutrients in the environment. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 690

Land Use Impacts: Forestry, Agriculture, Mining, Energy and Waste Management
Description: Research on land-use stressors such as forestry, agriculture, mining, energy development, waste management and urbanization, addressing the complex interactions between hydrological processes and ecological responses. Information to identify the impacts of such stresses on the health and sustainability of Canada's ecosystems and to foster sustainable development of Canadian resources through development of science-based best practices. The work supports Environment Canada mandates: e.g., the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA), Priority Substance List (PSL) regulations, and the Biodiversity Convention. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 655

Science Policy
Description: Information on Environment Canada's contribution to federal science policy; science policy expertise and support. Topics: ADM Committee for the Management of S&T, ADM Committee on Northern S&T, ADM Committee on the Four Natural Resource Departments MOU on S&T for Sustainable Development, and the ADM Steering Committee on the Management of Federal S&T Human Resources. The other chief focus of the Division=s work is Environment Canada's S&T Management System, S&T Executive Committee, the S&T Management Committee, and the Deputy Minister's R&D

Advisory Board, the Science Forum, the panel on Energy Research and Development. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 645

Sediment Assessment and Remediation

Description: Research to assess sediment quality and toxicity, leading to remediation of contaminated sediments. Multidisciplinary studies are carried out on the effects of sediment associated nutrients, organic chemicals and metals in aquatic ecosystems. New techniques are developed and tested to treat in-situ contaminated sediments, involving bench and pilot scale operations. Knowledge generated from the research is used to support programs such as Great Lakes Action Plan, Fraser River Management Plan, CEPA and Environment Canada regional activities. Research relevant to the assessment of contaminated sediment quality and remediation. Development of techniques for safe disposal of metal rich wastes. Studies of mercury methylation under different environmental conditions. Negotiations for full-scale treatment of contaminated sites for oil, PAHs or odour will continue while other treatments, such as metal fixation and sediment stabilization, are being studied. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 695

Sources and Fate of Toxic Substances

Description: Research on fundamental mechanisms governing the persistence and fate of toxic chemicals in aquatic environments to assess the hazards posed by toxic chemicals released to the aquatic environment; scientific information to support decision making for the Toxic Substances Management Policy (TSMP), the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA), the Pest Control Products Act (PCPA), the regional ecosystems programs, and ecosystem indicators; research on the occurrence, pathways and fate of present and future priority toxic substances in aquatic ecosystems; information on biological effects, especially the determination of chronic exposure to toxic chemicals (e.g., genotoxicity, reproductive toxicity, immunotoxicity, neurotoxicity, thyroid toxicity, etc.); priority substance assessment programs; advice to Environment Canada management; methods of destruction of toxic chemicals by physical, chemical, photochemical and biological means. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 670

Urbanization

Description: Information on large-scale aquatic ecosystems impacted by stresses from non-point sources of pollution from agriculture, industry and urban developments; the development of water management plans for large regional ecosystems, such as those studied under the Fraser River Action Plan (FRAP) and the Great Lakes 2000 Plan; research on non-point source contaminant pathways and controls in large ecosystems, sustainable sectors and technology transfer to the Canadian environmental industry. Research topics: transport of pesticides and nutrients in soil, vegetation and water; fine sediment trapping by vegetated channels and flood plains; flows over porous boundaries; initiation of sediment transport in steep channels; floc and contaminant-binding mechanisms; roles of flocculation mechanisms and biofilms in sediment/contaminant transport; advanced Best Management Practices for controlling stormwater impacts on receiving waters; and development of designer flocs for environmental industry applications. Program Record Number: ENV ECS 650

♦ Air Pollution Prevention Directorate

Acid Rain

Description: Development and implementation of the Canada Wide Acid Rain Strategy for Post-2000; development of federal/provincial agreements to implement the Strategy; and development of and support to international agreements. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 235

Climate Change

Description: Within Environment Canada, responsibilities on climate change are shared between Policy and Communications, Atmospheric Environment Service and Environmental Protection Service. The Climate Change Bureau reports jointly to the ADMs of Policy & Communications and the Environmental Protection Service, and is responsible for the overall coordination of EC's involvement in climate change. It is responsible for: $ overall coordination of the department's climate change activities; $ lead responsibility for ensuring EC strategic input into the development of the National Implementation Strategy; $ supporting the Minister in her role as co-lead on the climate change file and on her specific lead responsibilities on climate change environmental policy, public outreach and the international agenda; $ managing the department's relationship with the Climate Change Secretariat, within the department and with other government departments, provinces, business, industry, ENGOs, and with other stakeholders with respect to climate change; $ overall management and coordination of the department's roles and inputs to the national climate change process (including Joint Energy and Environment Ministers, National Air Issues Steering Committee, National Air Issues Coordinating Committee on Climate Change, Integrative Group, and 15 Issue Tables), as well as any climate change input needed for CCME, Premiers' conferences, and the NIS; $ management of the Public Outreach Issue Table and development of the national public outreach strategy; $ development and management of the public outreach component of the Climate Change Action Fund including screening and recommending projects on behalf of the federal government; The following responsibilities on climate change lie within EPS: 1) As part of the National Implementation Strategy on Climate Change: $ federal lead on environmental and health co-benefits of taking action on climate change; $ federal lead and member of the Municipalities Table (including Landfill Gas Sub-Committee); $ federal lead and Co-chair of the Sinks Table; $ member of the Mineral and Metals Task Group of the Industry Table; $ co-chair of the Technology Funding Review Team Under the Climate Change Action Fund 2) Other climate change responsibilities include: $ federal lead on greenhouse gas emissions inventories and reporting across Canadian sectors and regions; $ federal lead on reporting and tracking of progress in meeting climate change commitments – both international and domestic; development of coalition and alliance building as part of Environment Canada's outreach efforts. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 220

Stratospheric Ozone
Description: Implementation of Canada's commitments under international programs, negotiation of international agreements, and achievement of domestic phase-out targets; EC's contribution to the Montreal Protocol and the Multilateral Fund. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 570

Urban Smog
Description: Development and implementation of action plans and negotiation of federal/provincial and international agreements; completion of the 1990 Phase 1 NOx/VOC Management Plan and implementation of Phase 2 Federal Smog Plan initiatives; emission guidelines, and fuel standards related to creation of smog precursors. Completion of a Phase 3 Federal Smog Plan and negotiation of Canada-Wide Standards for PM and Ground-level Ozone. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 260

♦ Environmental Technology Advancement Directorate

Building Technologies and Environmental Systems
Description: All activities which contribute directly to the daily operation, recapitalization or modernization of departmentally owned special purpose facilities. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 630

Green Technologies
Description: All activities that support development, evaluation, and advancement of green technologies in cooperation with industry and business including: Technology Partnerships Canada (TPC); Pan-Western Environmental Technology Loan Program (ETLP); Environmental Technology Verification (ETV) program; International Environmental Management Initiative (IEMI); International Environmental Youth Corp (IEYC); Canadian Environmental Technology Advancement Centres (CETACs);and Binational MOUs and International Cooperative Agreements. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 615

Program on Energy Research and Development
Description: Research activities: efficient energy use, in the areas of combustion efficiency, heat management and cross-sectoral energy efficiency technologies applicable to a broad range of industries, processes and energy sources; energy and climate change: understanding the role of greenhouse gases (GHG) in climate change, especially CO2 in the sea, air and biota in, and surrounding, Canada; and, technologies for GHG capture and disposal; hydrocarbons and the environment: research addresses remediation and prevention technologies in atmospheric, marine and terrestrial environments; sustainable/renewable energy sources including bioenergy, small and large hydro, solar energy, wind and hydrogen from renewable resources; and sustainable transportation, including reducing energy demand, improving efficiency, and preparing for long-term sustainable transportation through advanced power systems and an eventual hydrogen-electricity energy economy. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 635

Risk Management
Description: Through stakeholder consultation, development of risk management options for the prevention and or reduction of releases of toxic substances to the environment. To achieve the management objectives the following tools may be used: regulations, guidelines, codes of practice, Canada-Wide-Standards and voluntary actions. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 620

Wastewater Treatment/Government Owned and Contractor Operated (GOCO)
Description: All activities in support of the government owned and contractor operated centre for the development of wastewater technology. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 625

♦ National Programs Directorate

Emergencies Operations
Description: Operate a 24 hour, 7 day a week national environmental emergencies hotline for Environment Canada. Coordinate the provision of support and technical advice on the environmental aspects of emergencies. Provide statistical information on spills obtained from historical spill report data. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 590

Emergencies Preparedness
Description: Activities which contribute directly to increasing the capacity of responders and advisors to prepare for and mitigate the effects of pollution emergencies. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 595

Emergencies Prevention
Description: Activities to prevent and reduce the frequency, severity and consequences of accidental releases (risk management). These activities are not associated with a specific incident. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 285

Environmental Assessment
Description: Development of policy and legally sound guidance; provision of expert advice to other government departments, clients and partners; verification and reporting on EC's compliance with CEAA; and implementation of EC's CEAA responsibilities and Cabinet Directive on policies and programs. Topics: Information on provisions of legislation, policies, procedures and methodologies pertaining to EC's Environmental Assessment Program. Information on compliance with the 1990 Federal Cabinet Directive on Environmental Assessment of Policies and Programs. Topics include: Environmental Assessment studies of major development projects in Canada; regulations; guidelines; electronic data inventory; policies; links to international conventions. Also, Environment Assessment Infobase (EA Info); Environmental Assessments Screening System (EASS); EC Referral Tracking System (RTS). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 600

EP Enforcement (Regulatory Guidelines)
Description: Activities which contribute directly to the enforcement of environmental protection and wildlife legislation, including the development of enforcement policy guidelines and protocols, as well as their implementation. Topics: Information on enforcement of departmental legislation and regulations, CEPA, pollution prevention provisions of the Fisheries Act, Migratory Birds Convention Act, 1994; Canada Wildlife Act, Wild Animal and Plant Protection and Regulation of International and Interprovincial Trade Act; the National Environmental Management Information System and Intelligence System (NEMISIS); Successful Historical Prosecutions since 1988; On-going Prosecutions; Compliance and Enforcement Report. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 110

♦ Toxics Pollution Prevention Directorate

Biotechnology
Description: Determination of environmental impacts of biotechnology products; implementation of CEPA regulations for new biotechnology products; and research related to environmental applications of biotechnology. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 225

CEPA Review Office
Description: Supporting the Canadian Environmental Protection Act review conducted by the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Environment and Sustainable Development. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 555

Environmental Monitoring
Description: Quantification and geographical location of releases of pollutants into all media in the environment, tracking changes in release levels over time and projecting changes in release levels through regulatory or "voluntary" government/citizen actions. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 275

Environmental Monitoring Research and Development
Description: Development of methods to measure toxics in air and water; including stationary and mobile source emissions. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 240

Hazardous Air Pollutants
Description: Ratification of the UN-ECE LRTAP POPs and Heavy Metals Protocols by end of 1998; starting of negotiations towards a UNEP Global Agreement on POPs; implement NAFTA/CEC commitments on POPs and Heavy Metals; and development of a national strategy on HAPs. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 280

Hazardous Wastes
Description: Transboundary issues (Basel, OECD Council Acts, Can/US Bilateral Agreement); hazardous waste computerized tracking system; development and implementation of regulations (eg. hazardous waste and PCB); residual activity under Contaminated Sites; and residual activity under PCB Destruction. Topics: Canadian Notice and Manifest Tracking System (CNMTS). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 230

Land Based Sources of Pollution
Description: Implementation of international marine obligations and commitments; participation in coastal zone management; pollution prevention plans, strategies and guidelines for the following source categories: sewage, POPs, radionuclides, heavy metals, oil, nutrients, sediments, litter, physical alteration; and monitoring of marine environmental quality. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 250

National Nuclear Program
Description: Ensuring a comprehensive national nuclear approach; directing the examination of environmental impacts of specific nuclear activities, policies and technologies; and reviewing plans, proposals, applications and reports on nuclear industry to ensure consistency with policies of EC. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 295

National Pollutant Release Inventory (NPRI)
Description: Collecting, analyzing and reporting on-site releases, offsite transfers in waste, and off-site transfers for recovery, re-use and recycling, and energy recovery of 176 pollutants from more than 1800 individual facilities on an annual basis; and estimating releases for other sectors such as fuel distribution and mobile sources; and reporting on releases from individual point sources. Topics: National Pollutant Release Database; National Pollution Release Inventory Summary Report. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 565

National Regulatory Action Plan
Description: Development and review of legislation/regulations for new or existing substances, effluent discharges and commercial chemicals; implementation of CEPA and Fisheries Act Regulations; preparation of regulatory impact analysis statements; administration of the strategic options process (SOP); development of good laboratory practices; and development of toxic substances codes and guidelines. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 560

New Chemicals Notification
Description: Determination of possible toxic impacts; assessment of new chemicals; notification of new chemicals; implementation of CEPA regulations for new chemicals; and research related to environmental impacts of new chemical releases. Program Record Number: ENV EPS 300

Non-Hazardous Waste Management
Description: Implementing the National Packaging Protocol; product policy; life-cycle assessment; extended producer responsibility; maintaining the National Solid Waste Inventory; green procurement; and waste treatment/disposal (eg. incineration, landfill, composting). Program Record Number: ENV EPS 610

Ocean Disposal
